PA NEW OBSERVES

At this point Pa Newe takes time to congratulate Theodore Ropp, Eagle Scout of New Bedford, who was selected by the Harmon Foundation as one of the recipients of its awards. It is an honor that carries distinction with it and should be highly prized. Only 51 other boys in the United States received this recognition.

So far the demand for dog licenses has been slow. County authorities report that to date there's a shortage of 3,000 in comparison with last year. About 4,000 have purchased tags for their canines this month.

Movement inaugurated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in which an armory is sought for New Castle is one that should be encouraged. Pa Newe has never been able to understand why no armory was built in New Castle, when there has been a cavalry troop here for a quarter century or more.

Over at Bessemer the students in the high school are now enjoying the complete facilities of the enlarged high school building. The addition built during the past year has been completed and is now in use.

From Mercer comes the news that David Cummins, native of New Wilmington, has been recommended for appointment as postmaster of Mercer.

In a letter from Mrs. M. D. Morgan of Wampum, it is stated that inquiry was made in The News some time ago as to the time that Easter Sunday came in the year 1840. She says that she now has the information and that she will give it to anyone interested. Her address is Wampum, box 26.

According to the records of the local weather observing station, the minimum temperature during the 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning was six degrees above zero. This reading was taken when the thermometers were set at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The minimum temperature this morning was approximately 23 degrees.

The little skiff of snow which fell early today hid a lot of danger spots and pedestrians had to pick their way cautiously down over the hills this morning.

Pa News notes two more licenses almost similar which have been issued to New Castle motorists. One is 97876 and the other 67977.

Vendors are selling sassafras—and that is another sign that spring can't be far away.

Maximum temperature, 33.
Minimum temperature, 6.
Precipitation, .03 inches. .03 inches snowfall.

STATE DECISION PROVIDES NEW CASTLE CAN PROCEED ON OLD PAVING PLAN

Improvement Work, Held Up For Year, Can Now Proceed

It will be possible for local improvements to be made and paid for with "certificates of indebtedness" during 1930, according to a statement made today by City Solicitor Robert White. He said that the court of Dauphin county had handed down an opinion stating that certificates of indebtedness were not indebtedness which had to be reported to the state.

Projects Delayed
Last year the city was forced to delay improvements by a ruling from a state department which said no improvement could be paid for with certificates of indebtedness.

John Geyer, solicitor of Harrisburg agreed to handle cases from Meadville and Chester and the cases were argued before Dauphin county court with a decision that the plan is now approved.

According to Mr. White, solicitors met at the state capital a year ago and the legislature passed a bill by which certificates of indebtedness could be issued without filing a report with the state.

The bill was vetoed by the governor. The solicitors of various Third class cities discussed the matter and as Meadville and Chester were ready to let contracts to be paid for with certificates, test cases were made.

The court decided in favor of the city.

Scalfoni was put to death with Frank Placa for the murder a year ago of Sorro Graziano and his young wife near Franklin Square, Long Island. Placa was executed first, going to his death smilingly and calmly, after smoking a cigarette and swaggering to the electric chair.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—The body of Peter Trans, diver trapped under the icy waters of an arm of the St. Lawrence river, where he was held prisoner for almost 72 hours, was in a morgue today, while his widow and two sons, who intended to join him in Canada this spring, were cabled of his death.

Trans' body was brought to the surface yesterday after divers, rushed to the isolated village of Pointe Aux Outardes by plane from Quebec, untangled the equipment which held him under the icy waters until he was dead.

Current Caused Death.
Examination of the body showed the whirling currents had caused severe bruises and almost completely tore away his suit. How long Trans lived after his gear became entangled was not determined.

Trans, working on a paper company project at Pointe Aux Outardes, went to the water Monday morning. He was believed to have first fallen and then attempting to get on his feet had become entangled in his lines.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—Frank A. Hays, 65, a well-known architect, died early today in the Jefferson hospital, from burns caused by a mustard plaster which he had kept on his back too long.

The cause of his death was one of the most unusual ever to come to the attention of medical men here. On January 20th, Hays was found unconscious and apparently in great pain. A thorough examination revealed his agony apparently was caused by a plaster on his back. Further investigation revealed he had placed the plaster on his back almost a week before in an effort to cure a back-ache. His ailment cured but forgot about the plaster and was burned internally.

Frank Nugent today was elected superintendent of the municipal sewage disposal plant by a three to two vote. Councilmen Genkinger, Reeves and Treser casting affirmative ballots and Councilmen Burns and Mayor Gillespie voting negatively. According to Councilman Genkinger, James Emery, who has been in charge of the plant has resigned.

When council convened today in the city building Councilman Genkinger offered the recommendation that Nugent be appointed and his term starts February 1. Genkinger is superintendent of properties and the plant is under his jurisdiction. The motion was seconded by Councilman Reeves.

Think It Unwise
"I have nothing against Mr. Nugent but I think it unwise," said Burns, "I do not know of anyone qualified, excepting Dr. Steen. We have expended money to make Emery competent."

"Mr. Emery resigned," replied Genkinger.

"I understand why," said Burns. "He did not have to quit," replied Genkinger.

"Mr. Emery did not want to play second fiddle." He was competent, Burns said.

"There is no question about his ability," replied Genkinger.

"Nugent will be all right in six or seven months," said Burns.

"There is no question about that. I want two men to know how to operate the plant," replied Genkinger.

"We should have two men who understand it," interrupted Reeves.

"Before I am through there will be two men," informed Genkinger. "We cannot depend upon one man."

"The engineer and his assistant should familiarize themselves with the operation of the plant," interrupted Reeves.

Says State Satisfied

Councilman Genkinger told colleagues that Mr. Young of the state health board is satisfied with the change and maintained that the city should not be compelled to depend upon only one man knowing how to operate the plant.

"That is right," replied Burns to Genkinger and then developed that "we had one man and it cost us $1,200. Mr. Emery has saved us money. He has done other work such as laying pipes."

"Mr. Burns then said that Emery had been told he would be second man."

"Mr. Emery was going to be kept at the plant," said Genkinger.

Preliminary Hearing Of Mrs.
Schroeder And Dague
Before Midnight

After several days of uncertainty it is now definitely announced that W. Glenn Dague, charged jointly with Irene Schroeder with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, will be defended by the same attorneys who have been retained to defend the blonde. Before midnight they will have been given their preliminary hearing.

Irene's firm insistence that Dague would be defended or she wouldn't, has won. Dague's family seems to have forgotten him, none of them have been near to offer funds for defense, his father and brothers have made no move to aid him, but the blonde for whom he deserted a wife and two children, the woman with whom he blazed a trail of banditry across a nation has refused all aid until she was sure that Glenn would get the same help—and Irene has succeeded.

Asks For Counsel
Following a letter sent from Irene Schroeder to Glenn Dague on Wednesday evening in which she reaffirmed her allegiance to him, Dague asked that Attorney Thomas N. Dickey be sent to his cell and Mr. Dickey had an interview with him.

What happened at the conference is not known, but out of it has come this fact that Irene and Glenn will stand or fall together. What is done (Continued On Page Two)

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Reduction in battleships and stabilization on other categories at about the present level—these stood out today as the principal achievements the London naval arms conference can hope to obtain.

Ten days of the most intensive work among the delegates of the other four powers have convinced the Americans that no more can be hoped for at the present conference. If they can accomplish this much there will be general satisfaction notwithstanding the fact that such results would represent a considerable come-down from President Hoover's high hopes for "real reduction" in all classes of naval craft.

Figures Unmentioned
It is significant that although the conference is now two weeks old and innumerable hours have been spent in conferences and private discussions there has as yet been little talk of actual figures.
Nevertheless, it is well known that when the appropriate time comes France and Japan are going to demand auxiliary ships greatly in excess of the battleship ratio. In some categories it is expected they will demand approximately equal strength with the United States and Great Britain.

Six-Day Plan To Affect 150 Here

Local Pennsy Shopmen To Get Relief Day Each Week; More Employed

EFFECTIVE SATURDAY

Approximately 150 shop employees of the New Castle district of the Pennsylvania railroad are to be affected by the new six-day week plan, proposed by shop craft committees of the western and central regions of the company and approved by the railroad's management in a joint conference this week. It was announced at Erie and Ashtabula division headquarters today.

Fully 6,000 men employed on the two regions, heretofore working seven days a week, will only work six as a result of the action. The action becomes effective tomorrow.

It was further stated at the local office today that employment would be provided for 20 additional men as a result of the weekly relief day for the 150 men. It is estimated that more than 800 extras will be given work all over the two regions concerned. Locally, the number of additional men will probably increase to 35 or 40 in the summer, and perhaps more.

Not only will the relief day provide an opportunity for rest and recreation for the shop employees and give employment to additional men in accordance with President Hoover's asserted policy, but it will also be in line with similar action taken during recent years by the Pennsylvania in providing a relief each week for sign-making, clerical and station forces.

It is learned that similar action has not been taken on the eastern region, where so few actually work seven days a week that no need for a formal relief day exists.

Ordinances Providing For Improvements

Clayton H. Reeves, councilman, today introduced two ordinances, both of which were sent to committee and reported on favorably. Passage was delayed until the bills can return from the printing office.

The ordinances give permission to the A. T. & T. company to lay and maintain conduits with necessary appliances and also desecrates the conduits be built where the company desires them. The points where the improvements are to be made follow: East Washington street, city line to Butler avenue, Greenwood avenue, between West Washington and State streets and in State street, between Greenwood avenue and the city line.

"I have nothing against Mr. Nugent but I think it unwise," said Burns. "I do not know of anyone qualified, excepting Dr. Steen. We have expended money to make Emery competent."

"Mr. Emery resigned," replied Genkinger. "I understand why," said Burns. "He did not have to quit," replied Genkinger.

"Mr. Emery did not want to play 'second fiddle.' He was competent," Burns said.

"There is no question about his ability," replied Genkinger. "Nugent will be all right in six or eight months," said Burns.

"There is no question about that. I want two men to know how to operate the plant," replied Genkinger. "We should have two men who understand it," interrupted Reeves. "Before I am through there will be two men," informed Genkinger. "We cannot depend upon one man."

"The engineer and his assistant should familiarize themselves with the operation of the plant," interrupted Reeves.

Says State Satisfied
Councilman Genkinger told colleagues that Mr. Young of the state health board is satisfied with the change and maintained that the city should not be compelled to depend upon only one man knowing how to operate the plant.

"That is right," replied Burns to Genkinger and then developed that "we had one man and it cost us $1,200. Mr. Emery has saved us money. He has done other work such as laying pipes."

Mr. Burns then said that Emery had been told he would be second man.

"Mr. Emery was going to be kept at the plant," said Genkinger. The vote was taken and Nugent was (Continued On Page Two)

John Dewey Seever, who was taken to the Western Penitentiary yesterday to serve a life term for the murder of his wife, Stella Seever, broke down and wept as he entered the doors of the penitentiary, according to Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds. "Seever has maintained comparative calmness on the way to the penitentiary, but as he entered the prison the strain was too much for him." On the way to the penitentiary Seever talked of the shooting several times. "I don't know whether I shot my wife or not," he said several times, as though trying to remember just what had happened on that fatal July 25th morning.

ATTORNEYS FOR WOMAN ACCEDE TO DEMAND THEY DEFEND DAGUE

Announcement Made By Defense Attorneys Of Decision Today

PROSECUTION AID ARRIVES IN CITY

Preliminary Hearing Of Mrs.
Before Midnight

After several days of uncertainty it is now definitely announced that W. Glenn Dague, charged jointly with Irene Schroeder with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, will be defended by the same attorneys who have been retained to defend the blonde. Before midnight they will have been given their preliminary hearing.

Irene's firm insistence that Dague would be defended or she wouldn't, has won. Dague's family seems to have forgotten him, none of them have been near to offer funds for defense, his father and brothers have made no move to aid him, but the blonde for whom he deserted a wife and two children, the woman with whom he blazed a trail of banditry across a nation has refused all aid until she was sure that Glenn would get the same help—and Irene has succeeded.

Asks For Counsel
Following a letter sent from Irene Schroeder to Glenn Dague on Wednesday evening in which she reaffirmed her allegiance to him, Dague asked that Attorney Thomas W. Dickey be sent to his cell and Mr. Dickey had an interview with him.

What happened at the conference is not known, but out of it has come this fact that Irene and Glenn will stand or fall together. What is done (Continued On Page Two)

Conference Net Result Will

"High Hopes"

By GEORGE R. HOMES

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Reduction in battleships and stabilization on other categories at about the present levels—these stood out today as the principal achievements of the London naval arms conference can hope to obtain.

Ten days of the most intensive work among the delegates of the other four powers have convinced the Americans that no more can be hoped for at the present conference—they can accomplish this much, there will be general satisfaction notwithstanding the fact that such results would represent a considerable come-down from President Hoover's high hopes for "real reduction" in all classes of naval craft.

Figures Unmentioned
It is significant that although the conference is now two weeks old and innumerable hours have been spent in conferences and private discussions there has as yet been little talk of actual figures.

Nevertheless, it is well known that when the appropriate time comes France and Japan are going to demand auxiliary ships greatly in excess of the battleship ratio. In some categories it is expected they will demand approximately equal strength with the United States and Great Britain.

Six-Day Plan To Affect 150 Here

Local Pennsy Shopmen To Get Relief Day Each Week; More Employed

NEW PLAN BECOMES EFFECTIVE SATURDAY

Approximately 150 shop employees of the New Castle district of the Pennsylvania railroad are to be affected by the new six-day week plan, proposed by shop craft committees of the western and central regions of the company and approved by the railroad's management in a joint conference this week. It was announced at Erie and Ashtabula division headquarters today.

Fully 6,000 men employed on the two regions, heretofore working seven days a week, will only work six as a result of the action. The action becomes effective tomorrow.

It was further stated at the local office today that employment would be provided for 20 additional men as a result of the weekly relief day for the 150 men. It is estimated that more than 800 extras will be given work all over the two regions concerned. Locally, the number of additional men will probably increase to 35 or 40 in the summer, and perhaps more.

Not only will the relief day provide an opportunity for rest and recreation for the shop employees and give employment to additional men, in accordance with President Hoover's asserted policy, but it will also be in line with similar action taken during recent years by the Pennsylvania in providing a relief each week for signalmen, telegraphers, clerical and station forces.

It is learned that similar action has not been taken on the eastern region, where so few actually work seven days a week that no need for a formal relief day exists.

Councilman Reeves Introduces Ordinances Providing For Improvements

Clayton H. Reeves, councilman, today introduced two ordinances, both of which were sent to committee and reported out favorably. Passage was delayed until the bills can return from the printing office.

The ordinances give permission to the A. T. & T. company to lay and maintain conduits with necessary appliances and also designates the conduits be built where the company desires them. The points where the improvements are to be made follow: East Washington street, city line to Butler avenue, Greenwood avenue, between West Washington and State streets and in State street, between Greenwood avenue and the city line.

GETTY IS HEAD OF COUNTY BANKERS

McKay, chairman of agricultural work of the Mercer County Bankers' association brought greetings from his organization and spoke at length on the importance of the agricultural interests. C. P. Cloak, vice president of the First National at Elkwood City and chairman of the Lawrence County Bankers' Agriculture committee summed up the result of last fall's tour of county farms. His message brought out the important position in which agriculture stands in relation to the banks, as did that of Mr. McKay. President Schulz also spoke briefly.

Representatives from every bank in Lawrence county were present and enjoyed the evening, sponsored primarily as a fellowship get-together. Last year's officers who surrendered their duties last night besides Mr. Schulz as president and Mr. Getty as vice president, were Charles Wertz, Bessemer, secretary, and P. M. "I don't think so," replied Burns. "I do," said Treser.

Mayor Gillespie then entered the tilt-a-tat and said that "we made a rule here a couple of years ago that the head of the department has not the right to appoint."

Councilman Genkinger was quick to grasp this point and replied: "Under those circumstances then council can appoint or remove, according to the will of council."

"How about the majority?" Burns asked. "The majority now rules," replied Genkinger.

Italian delegation will permit its demands for early discussion of ratios which would bring to the fore the question of Italian parity with France to be shelved in the interests of harmony.

One point upon which the Americans have been insistent since the beginning of the conference has been decided to the satisfaction of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and the others of the American delegation. Cruisers will be discussed first when the parley gets down to brass tacks.

Modified Tonnage.
Ambassador Hugh Gibson and Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams represents the United States on the steering committee. Col. Stimson is likely to alternate with one of the other in the work of the committee from time to time.

In attempting to reach a compromise on the opposing French and British theses for limitation, the steering committee's first task will be to consider the modified global tonnage plan circulated among all the delegations with a view to further modify the plan to make its specifications acceptable to all.

SEE REDUCTION OF BATTLESHIPS AS CHIEF GOAL

The preliminary conversations that she will demand submarine parity with the strongest. She has indicated that she considers 80,000 tons in undersea craft an irreducible minimum. This figure represents much more than she now has.

Lots of Sympathy
What is true in submarines is largely true in other categories outside of battleships.

There is a good deal of sympathy between the French and Japanese positions. Both countries feel that they didn't get as much as they were entitled to at the Washington conference of 1921-1922. Both feel the positions of their territories should have been given more consideration. They intend to make up for what they lost at Washington at the London conference.

This presents a pretty problem for the government of Premier Raymond MacDonald. Because of the rivalry of the British dominions to the mother country, Britain has more to worry about from French and Japanese demands than the United States has to fear from Japanese demands for added tonnage.

The conference came almost to a complete halt today as far as apparent activity was concerned while the steering committee wrestled with the adjustment of the conflicting French and British theses of limitation by global tonnage by categories.

The friend told authorities today of his conversation with Trans.

Meadville and Chester, and Mr. White said today that "We can go on now as before" meaning that local improvements here can be paid for with certificates.

It will not be necessary to file a report with the state and several local paving jobs can be done, in addition to the improvements in Grant street, Croton and Butler avenues, for which the state allotted $75,000.

The city has appropriated $60,000 for public improvements. The city will let the contracts for Butler, Grant and Croton avenues and will pay for them. The money which the city will expend on these streets will be paid back by the state to the amount of $75,000, allotted to the city and secured from the tax on gasoline.

STAR LORE MASTERING THE SPECTRO- SCOPIC MAP

By Arthur D. W. Carpenter
The spectroscopic reveals to the physicist that not only the sun, but all of the radiant stars, have bright photospheres overlaid by cooler atmospheric chromospheres, for the spectra of all the stars show vertical absorption lines across dark backgrounds. This fact alone lets the astronomer into a wonderful field of knowledge in regard to the physical and chemical condition of the stars. When, in 1868, advance steps were taken in spectroscopy by Huggins and Secchi, the chemistry of the sun and stars began to be understood. Huggins found spectral lines of sodium, magnesium, calcium, iron and many other elements. Secchi classified the stars with reference to their spectra.

ATTORNEYS FOR WOMAN WILL DEFEND DAGUE

for the one will be done for the other. Their partnership of the past two years continued in the court of law and bears out Irene's statement that "if he goes to the chair I go with him" was not just idle talk upon her part.

Who will pay for Dague's defense is not made public. So far as is known his father, John Schroeder, a slaver have paid no attention to his plight. His father is sick in bed but his brothers are said to be in ordinary health but have made no attempt to get in touch with him. With Irene's insistence that he be given every advantage afforded her, it begins to appear that it will be the woman who will pay, or at least the money will come from the same fund provided to defend her.

All Counsel Here
With the preliminary hearing scheduled to be held sometime before midnight, counsel for both sides of the case are expected to be here today. Ex-Judge William P. Beaman of Youngstown, is to come, Ex-Chief of Police now Attorney Kedgwin Powell will be here, Attorney Oscar Stevens will be here, Ex-State Senator now Attorney Benjamin Jarrett of Farrell is expected, Special Deputy Attorney General Charles Margiotti of Painesville is already here to aid the prosecution and to this list is the two New Castle attorneys District Attorney John S. Powers who will head the prosecution and Attorney Thomas W. Dickey who is expected to be one of the big factors in the defense.

District Attorney John S. Powers made a formal announcement of Mr. Margiotti's entrance into the case today. The announcement said, "District Attorney John S. Powers announces the appointment by Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods of Attorney Charles J. Margiotti of Painesville, Pa. to assist in the trial of W. Glenn Dague and Mrs. Irene Schroeder for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul. District Attorney Powers is well pleased with the selection of Mr. Margiotti and the initial conference between them indicates the harmonious relation between the county and state forces."

Ruff Not To Act
At the same time another announcement was made concerning the withdrawal of Attorney Frank S. Ruff, Jr. of Jeannette, Pa., who had been retained by the family of Brady Paul to represent their interests. This written announcement follows: "Attorney Frank S. Ruff, Jr. of Jeannette, Pa., who has been retained by the family of the late Corporal Brady Paul to represent them and assist in the prosecution of Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague charged with the murder of Corporal Paul, has notified John S. Powers, District Attorney of Lawrence County, that in view of the appointment of Attorney Charles J. Margiotti of Painesville, Pa., as Special Counsel to represent the Commonwealth, by Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods, to assist in the prosecution of these cases, that while he still intends to represent the interest of the relatives of Corporal Paul, he does not intend to take an active part or participate in the actual trial of the cases."

The withdrawal of Attorney Ruff marks the second attorney who has been in and out of the case. Former District Attorney J. Elder Bryan was first invited into the case but because of his connection with the case as district attorney when it first broke, decided that it would not be exactly the thing for him to engage in the defense of the pair. Accordingly he withdrew.

Perfunctory Hearing.
The hearing this afternoon or this evening, whenever it is to be held, will be a perfunctory sort of thing. The Commonwealth will call one or two witnesses, perhaps Patrolman Ernest Moore and one other. Their testimony will be taken and the defense will not call witnesses. Alderman William E. Marshall will then hold Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague without bail on charge of first degree murder, to come before the March term of criminal court.

The decision of the defense to not call witnesses was made within the past day or so. Attorney Kedgwin Powell had previously indicated their intention of calling witnesses, this being a custom in Ohio courts. The procedure is not common to Pennsylvania courts, nothing being gained by the defense in a case where there appears to be no doubt as to the holding of the prisoners. Hence the decision to call witnesses was made this morning by Attorney Thomas W. Dickey.

Another Held-Up Victim.
Tom Barris of Washington, Pa., proprietor of the Lincoln Lunch in Washington, Pa., left Washington this morning for the purpose of attempting to identify Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague as the bandits who held up his place of business in December.

The technique of the bandits was identical with that employed in the holdup of the P. H. Butler store in Butler, Pa., by two now charged with murder here and Mr. Barris had previously identified pictures of Dague as the man who held up his place of business in December.

He will look at Irene and Glenn in an effort to determine whether or not they are the ones who held up his place of business in December. What the defense of Irene and Glenn will be has not been indicated yet, and from the facts that no defense witnesses will be called at the preliminary hearing it is probable that no tip off will come at the hearing. Emotional insanity and sympathy for a woman may be used, for these defenses seem about the only logical line the defense attorneys could be expected to follow.

Several offers of adoption of little Donnie Schroeder have come to Probation Officer Jack M. Dunlap. One of the offers comes from Nogales, Mexico, and others from various parts of the country are in the hands of Mr. Dunlap. When the man in the little fellow is unknown. It is certain that he will not be placed in the custody of his mother for she is in jail, there, so Donnie says, because "mamma shot policemen boom boom." The grandfather, Joe Crawford, father of Irene, a minor herself, may ask for his return.

It was first planned to ask for a habeas corpus for the little boy but Joe Crawford of Berwood, W. Va., was afraid to come to New Castle because he felt that he might be held as a material witness.

McKay, chairman of agricultural work of the Mercer County Bankers' association brought greetings from his organization and spoke at length on the importance of the agricultural interests. C. P. Ciolek, vice president of the National at Ellwood City and chairman of the Lawrence County Bankers' Agriculture committee summed up the result of last fall's tour of county farms. Representatives from every bank in Lawrence county were present and enjoyed the evening, sponsored primarily as a fellowship get-together. "I don't think so," replied Burns. "I do," said Trester. Mayor Gillespie then entered the room and said that "we made a rule here a couple of years ago that the head of the department has not the right to appoint."

Councilman Genkinger was quick to grasp this point and replied: "Under the circumstances then council can appoint or remove, according to the will of council."

"How about the majority?" Burns asked. "The majority now rules," replied Genkinger.

FORMULATION OF NAVAL AGENDA IS BEING ATTEMPTED

Italian delegation will permit its demands for early discussion of ratios which would bring to the fore the question of Italian parity with France to be shelved in the interests of harmony.

One point upon which the Americans have been insistent since the beginning of the conference has been decided to the satisfaction of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and the others of the American delegation. Cruisers will be discussed first when the parley gets down to brass tacks.

Modified Tonnage.
Ambassador Hugh Gibson and Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams represents the United States on the steering committee. Col. Stimson is likely to alternate with one or the other in the work of the committee from time to time.

In attempting to reach a compromise on the opposing French and British theses for limitation, the steering committee's first task will be to consider the modified global tonnage plan circulated among all the delegations with a view to further modifying the plan to make its specifications acceptable to all.

the preliminary conversations that she will demand submarine parity with the strongest. She has indicated that she considers 80,000 tons in undersea craft an irreducible minimum. That figure represents much more than she now has.

Lots of Sympathy
What is true in submarines is largely true in other categories outside of battleships.

There is a good deal of sympathy between the French and Japanese positions. Both countries feel that they didn't get as much as they were entitled to at the Washington conference of 1921-1922. Both feel that the positions of their territories should have been given more consideration. They intend to make up for what they lost at Washington at the London conference.

This presents a pretty problem for the government of Premier Ramsey MacDonald. Because of the relation of the British dominions to the mother country, Britain has more to worry about from French and Japanese demands than the United States has to fear from Japanese demands for added naval power.

The conference came almost to a complete halt today as far as apparent activity was concerned while the steering committee wrestled with the adjustment of the conflicting French and British theses of limitation by global tonnage by categories.

CURRENTS CAUSE OF DIVER'S DEATH

An air line was kept free and during the time he was submerged air was supplied him. The extreme cold and the rush of the water, beating his body against timbers in a dam "crib" where he was working, caused death.

Trans, who was 38 years old, came to Canada two years ago from Denmark, where his family reside. It was learned he had a premonition that ill luck was to befall him on his last job for he told a Montreal friend a few days ago:

"I don't like this job, but I never have refused to go down and I don't expect I ever shall, whether I come up again or not."

The friend told authorities today of his conversation with Trans.

It will not be necessary to file a report with the state and several local paving jobs can be done, in addition to the improvements in Grant street, Croton and Butler avenues, for which the state allotted $75,000. The city has appropriated $60,000, for public improvements. The city will let the contracts for Butler, Grant and Croton avenues and will pay for them. STAR LORE MASTERING THE SPECTRO- SCOPIC MAP

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter
The spectroscopic reveals to the physicist that not only the sun, but all of the radiant stars, have bright photographs overlaid by cooler atmospheric chromospheres, for the spectra of all the stars show vertical absorption lines across their bright backgrounds. This fact alone tells the astronomer in a wonderful field of knowledge in regard to the physical and chemical condition of the stars. When, in 1868, advance steps were taken in spectroscopy by Huggins and Secchi, the chemistry of the sun and stars began to be understood. Huggins found spectral lines of sodium, magnesium, calcium, iron and many other elements. Secchi classified the stars with reference to their spectra.

for the one will be done for the other. Their partnership of the past two years continues in a court of law and bears out Irene's statement that "if he goes to the chair I go with him" was not just idle talk upon her part.

Who will pay for Dague's defense is not made public. So far as is known his father, four brothers and a sister have paid no attention to his plight. His father is sick in bed but his brothers are said to be in ordinary health but have made no attempt to get in touch with him. With Irene's insistence that he be given every advantage afforded her, it begins to appear that it will be the woman who will pay, or at least the money will come from the same fund provided to defend her.

All Counsel Here
With the preliminary hearing scheduled to be held sometime before midnight, counsel for both sides of the case are expected to be here today. Ex-Judge William P. Barnum of Youngstown, is to come, Ex-Chief of Police now Attorney Kedgwin Powell will be here, Attorney Oscar Stevens will be here, Ex-State Senator now Attorney Benjamin Jarrett of Farrell is expected, Special Deputy Attorney-General Charles Margiotti of Punxsutawney is already here to aid the prosecution and to this list is the two New Castle attorneys District Attorney John S. Powers who will head the prosecution and Attorney Thomas W. Dickey who is expected to be one of the big factors in the defense.

District Attorney John S. Powers made a formal announcement of Mr. Margiotti's entrance into the case today. The announcement said, "District Attorney John S. Powers announces the appointment by Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods of Attorney Charles J. Margiotti of Punxsutawney, Pa., to assist in the trial of W. Glenn Dague and Mrs. Irene Schroeder for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul. District Attorney Powers is well pleased with the selection of Mr. Margiotti and the initial conference between them indicates the harmonious relation between the county and state forces."

Ruff Not To Act
At the same time another announcement was made concerning the withdrawal of Attorney Frank S. Ruff, Jr., of Jeannette, Pa., who had been retained by the family of Brady Paul to represent their interests. This written announcement follows: "Attorney Frank S. Ruff, Jr., of Jeannette, Pa., who has been retained by the family of the late Corporal Brady Paul to represent them and assist in the prosecution of Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague charged with the murder of Corporal Paul, has notified John S. Powers, District Attorney of Lawrence County, that in view of the appointment of Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Punxsutawney, Pa., as Special Counsel to represent the Commonwealth

by Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods, to assist in the prosecution of these cases, that while he still intends to represent the interest of the relatives of Corporal Paul, he does not intend to take an active part or participate in the actual trial of the cases."

The withdrawal of Attorney Ruff marks the second attorney who has been in and out of the case. Former District Attorney J. Elder Bryan was first invited into the case but because of his connection with the case as district attorney when it first broke, decided that it would not be exactly the thing for him to engage in the defense of the pair. Accordingly he withdrew.

Perfunctory Hearing.

The hearing this afternoon or this evening, whenever it is to be held, will be a perfunctory sort of thing. The commonwealth will call one or two witnesses, perhaps Patrolman Ernest Moore and one other. Their testimony will be taken and the defense will not call witnesses. Alderman William E. Marshall will then hold Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague without bail on charge of first degree murder, to come before the March term of criminal court.

The decision of the defense to not call witnesses was made within the past day or so. Attorney Kedgwin Powell had previously indicated their intention of calling witnesses, this being a custom in Ohio courts. The procedure is not common to Pennsylvania courts, nothing being gained by the defense in a case where there appears to be no doubt as to the holding of the prisoners. Hence the decision to not call witnesses was made this morning by Attorney Thomas W. Dickey.

Another Hold-Up Victim.

Tom Barris of Washington, Pa., proprietor of the Lincoln Lunch in Washington, Pa., left Washington this morning for the purpose of attempting to identify Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague as the bandits who held up his place of business in December.

The technique of the bandits was identical with that employed in the holdup of the P. H. Butler store in Butler, Pa., by two now charged with murder here and Mr. Barris had previously identified pictures of Dague as strongly resembling the man in the case. He will look at Irene and Glenn in an effort to determine whether or not they are the ones who held up his place of business in December.

What the defense of Irene and Glenn will be has not been indicated yet, and from the fact that no defense witnesses will be called at the preliminary hearing it is probable that no tip off will come from the hearing. Emotional insanity and sympathy for a woman may be used, for these defenses seem about the only logical line the defense attorneys could be expected to follow.

Several offers of adoption of little Dague's mother have come to Probation Officer Jack O'Dunlap. One of the offers comes from Nogales, Mexico, and others from various parts of the country are in the hands of Mr. Dunlap. What will be done with the little fellow is unknown. It is certain that he will not be placed in the custody of his mother, who is in jail, there, so Donnie says, because "mamma shot policemen boom-boom." The grandfather, Joe Crawford, father of Irene, a minor herself, may ask for his return.

It was first planned to ask for a hush corpus for the little boy but Joe Crawford of Bedford, Va., was afraid to come to New Castle because he felt that he might be held as a material witness.

Today

Placebo, For Chicago.

Bombing Filipinos.

Another Chevrolet Sold.

Japan's Common Sense.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1930, King Features)

S. M. Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31.—On the hotel sidewalk in front of the Biltmore hotel this morning these surprising words were heard: "Yes, Sir, Chicago is a fine place, there is no city on earth like Chicago."

It was a Los Angeles taxi driver talking, making himself agreeable to a newly-arrived Chicagoan.

In a month that Chicagoan will say that Chicago is wonderful, but Los Angeles is extraordinary.

A year later, probably, he will be moving his family out here. This state will have 30 millions population before the end of the century.

Renewed attacks on Filipino workers in this state. A bomb exploded under a Filipino lodging house in Stockton, blew dozens of Asiatic workers out of bed. Nobody killed.

Fifteen thousand Filipinos in Stockton, largest colony in California, are distributed as farmhands in the delta region by labor contractors. They get work readily while many white men are unemployed. That explains the rioting.

It is said by farmers that Filipinos with small debt hands and fingers work the fields under intensive cultivation better than the whites. That does not comfort whites out of work.

The state has taken precautions to prevent the Filipinos obtaining firearms.

And after this morning's bombing, state athletic authorities notified prize fight promoters that no Filipinos must appear in the ring.

The little islander, in the light-weight classes, have a disagreeable habit of winning their fights.

This enrages the noble white man, who considers successful prize fighting a proof of superiority.

Mr. Fred Fisher, who knows how to make automobile bodies, is here inspecting automobile conditions, absorbing sunshine.

Examining the art collection of Mr. J. V. Baldwin, biggest Chevrolet dealer in the country. Mr. Fisher talked optimistically of conditions ahead, his views based on careful observation.

He said, "October's clouds have rolled away."

At that moment in came William M. Packer, Chevrolet sales manager for southern California, high powered. Contemplating this writer as a demagogue he contemplates a worm, he said, "I sold you a Chevrolet touring car three years ago, and I would like to sell you a new one."

Your 1927 car still has a trade-in value.

In five minutes, being able to talk faster than anybody can answer, Mr. Packer had arranged to give the old Chevrolet a coat of Duco, a set of Loveloy shock absorbers, new seat covers, and had also sold a six-cylinder Chevrolet sedan to be delivered in New York.

A King Speaks At The Fireside And World Sees Peace As Real

Miracle Of Modern Communication Impressed On Americans As Aiding Efforts To Create Guaranty Against War

A king's voice speaking a message of peace in the intimate circle of his home throughout the world has made realistic the efforts of the Naval conference to lighten humanity's burden. This is the significance of the broadcast with which George V. opened the Naval conference as American comment sees it.

A new world is evidenced by the logic of the spoken word in which the ALBANY EVENING NEWS recognizes "peace less a sign of visionaries and more a thing reasonable and certain." For now, as the DAYTON NEWS put it, the conference sits "at the firesides" of the peoples of the globe.

Assaying the practical benefit of the phenomenon, the NEW BEDFORD STANDARD considers it "fair to assume that eagerness to hear must have been accompanied by attention to what was said" thus creating "sentiment in favor of the objects of the delegates." In fact this sentiment, the LOUISVILLE TIMES remarks, prompts listeners around the world to answer King George's expressed hope that the results will lead to immediate alleviation of the burden of armaments, with "as the English express it, 'Heart Heart!'"

"It is a comparatively safe assumption," remarks the NEW BEDFORD STANDARD, "that the opening ceremonies of this conference could have been heard by any listener with a radio receiver in any place on the globe."

"The success of the attempt is a tribute to the radio experts." The DAYTON DAILY NEWS views the same as "standing at the firesides of all the world."

To the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "the addresses of King George and the spokesmen for the powers give hope of a real accomplishment in the reduction of naval armaments," and the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS states: "And to understand all is to forgive all."

The time may be distant when that Utopian state is reached by the world, but the radio, by making neighbors of all nations, should do much to hasten its arrival.

Further significance into the fact that the broadcast came at dawn, the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER suggests: "One thought, one sat in the shadows, of that single word, 'Dawn', on the statue of Edith Cavell by the side of the National Gallery in London. One remembered, 'Dawn' George's famous address at the Pilgrims' dinner in London, soon after America's entry into the war, when he read the report of how the Canadians at Vimy Ridge had attacked with the dawn. And as these voices continued mysteriously, the other nations remembered the proud affirmation of the soldier of the French Revolution, 'We felt as though we were always marching into the dawn.'"

With a similar thought, the ROANOKE TIMES comments: "Morehills the dawn in those four words has the keynote of the hope of the prayers, the desires of mankind as the representatives of the nations deliberate. * * * At dawn the gracious words of the ruler of the British Empire came to us out of the air, came to us in the living room as clearly as the dawn of a new day, from an adjoining room, instead of far away on the other side of the broad Atlantic. May it not have been, but merely the dawn of another day but the dawn of lasting world peace? Millions listened, undoubtedly, and millions prayed, too."

"King George and the principal delegates of the five great naval powers threw down the gage to competitive armaments," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, with the conclusion that "the keynote of the opening session was optimism, that the keynote of the close of the situation which confronts the maritime nations." That the conference had "an auspicious start" is the conviction of the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES and the LONG BEACH PRESS-TELEGRAM, while the SAVANNAH PRESS sees significance in "the interest which interested in the party" and the CLINTON LAND NEWS urges the beneficial results if all "state their true positions early in the negotiations and treat with their conferees in a spirit of absolute honesty and fairness."

"Now the radio makes it certain that, save under extraordinary conditions, the people of the world can be notified almost instantaneously of any event of importance," states the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, and the ATLANTA JOURNAL, calling it "a wondrous age when the words of a great council of nations come audibly home to hundreds of millions."

THE PROVIDENCE BULLETIN and the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE. His homes throughout the world has made realistic the efforts of the Naval conference to lighten humanity's burden. This is the significance of the broadcast with which George V. opened the Naval conference as American comment sees it.

"He really expressed the desire of the common people of the entire world," asserts the ALTOONA MIRRORED, and to the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS "voiced the aspirations of the world."

"The King's part was preliminary to the actual work of the conference," comments the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, with the conclusion: "The people now reign where the king once ruled."

The ROCHESTER TIMES UNION recalls the time when the same voice sounded a different message. "Twenty-nine years ago," it says, "the Duke of York, returning from a world tour during which he studied Britain's naval needs, sounded his famous call, 'Wake up, England.' As the whole world knows, England awoke, and built the mightiest navy in history. It is of momentous importance that the same man, who now is King George V, in opening the naval-limitation conference in London, proposed that the Frankenstein he built be reduced to less menacing dimensions."

"A good many years ago, prior to 1776 to be exact, the voice of a British monarch," recalls the BURLINGTON GAZETTE, "had plenty to do with the people living in the 13 colonies, later enlarged to the 48 States now comprising the United States of America. The colonies did not hear this voice directly, but the orders issued had much to do with their destinies."

Philadelphians will acquire the property either by outright purchase or a lease extending over a period of years," Mayor Mackey said.

Consummation of either arrangement, Mr. Mackey explained, awaits approval of the Shipping Board, which instructed Mr. Jenkins to conduct the negotiations. Mayor Mackey said the island would be converted into the world's greatest combination terminal.

Hot Island was not in vain.

THE HERO AT HOME:

The flag was a glow.

The people cheered as he passed on. Along the way.

Throughout the day His praise was sounded to the sky.

Then evening came. Died man a flame. Stilled was the sound of life and drum.

A door flew wide. He stepped inside. And home, the conqueror had come!

Shut in from town. He settled down. And took his babe upon his knee. He gently smiled.

To hear the child Cry: "Read the funny page to me!"

He wound the clock. Turned key in lock. Put out the lights and went to bed. "Though fame and pride Are found outside. He happier at home," he said.

WE SHOULD KNOW OUR OWN COUNTRY

THERE is much to commend in the movement inaugurated at Washington which seeks to stimulate travel in the North American continent, and particularly in the United States. The Travel Conference, of course, admits the advantages of all kinds of travel; but the members call attention to the fact that we have been neglecting some of the finest things our own country has to offer tourists. Nearly all the other nations of the world take means to call attention to their historical shrines and natural beauties, but here this is either done insufficiently or in a rather haphazard fashion. We have had various agencies which urge travel in America; but, as was said at the Washington gathering, they have been scattered and at times unintentionally working against each other.

The scenic wonders of the New World have often been referred to in terms of the highest praise by intelligent travelers from abroad. Our own people seem to be singularly unconscious of their charms. It may be that familiarity breeds contempt, or it may be that we overlook the worth-while things that are to be found almost at our very doorsteps. It is a significant fact that the United States government has offered to help the new movement in any way that is feasible. The director of the National Park Service calls attention to the great forest and mountain reservations that are now under control of the government. There are no less than fourteen of these immense parks, all worthy of a visit; but only a comparatively small number of Americans go to them in the course of a year.

Gettysburg in Pennsylvania, Valley Forge, even some Western Pennsylvania spots; Lookout Mountain in Tennessee and the various shrines in Virginia—all should have a strong appeal to the patriotic American. The city of Philadelphia is a storehouse of the early history of the republic. What is needed is the sort of stimulation that will probably come from the meeting in Washington.

Travel of any kind is broadening and should be encouraged. But there is a special reason why we should know our own country and take a delight in pointing out its advantages and attractions.

THE AGE OF ATHLETICS

It has not been sufficiently observed that modern athletics is a by-product of city life, of the industrial revolution. Man's prehistoric ancestors lived by the chase, in which physical prowess was so important as to be a matter of life and death. In historic times mankind was almost exclusively occupied in war, agriculture and seafaring—which gave abundant scope to heart and lungs and muscles. If sportsmanship was practiced, it was by the idle aristocracy—fox-hunting, falconry, the tourney in armor. Even in Greece athletics were the pastime of an idle upper class subsisting by slave labor.

Then one-half of mankind found itself cooped up for long hours in factory and office, working a single set of muscles to exhaustion or stupefying the mind over columns of figures and clerical labor done by rote. It is not without meaning that the popular love of outdoor sports began in England soon after the beginning of highly-organized and mechanized industry, and speed with it throughout the civilized world.

Athletics are keeping young, strong and vigorous many in sedentary occupations, and yet there are patriarchs clinging to life into the eighties and nineties and even after the century mark who are an object-lesson to the pessimist who declares mechanized industry is destined to destroy the human race. They illustrate the exceeding adaptability of the genus homo. Their unused bodies shrivel in beneficent atrophy, becoming a sort of sterilized mummy automaton within which mind and spirit live on undimmed—provided they have the talent for mummification and practice that particular philosophy to which each attributes his longevity.

POLITICAL

The Caraway committee is at last showing its true colors, or the public is seeing them in their true light. This senatorial investigating committee was originally assigned to the job of obtaining facts regarding lobbying as a basis for remedial legislation, but seems to have forgotten its object in its overt zeal for playing politics with its probe.

Mrs. Gladys Moon Jones, who is interested in keeping down the duty on Cuban sugar, was driven to denouncing the bulldozing methods of the committee and its extrajudicial confiscation of private correspondence. She discovered and was amply justified in asserting the political purpose of the inquiry as it is now being prosecuted.

Some of the invasions the committee has made on the rights of private citizens would not be warranted if the committee were sincere in its avowed purpose to get to the bottom of the lobby situation and remedy it. Chairman Caraway's argument that possession is nine-tenths of the law vindicates nothing. "Might make right" seems to be the motto of this political investigation.

The Carway committee was named to place lobbyism on trial. It has contrived only to place certain individuals and interests on trial. Why? Politics!

Placebo, For Chicago.
Bombing Filipinos.
Another Chevrolet Sold.
Japan's Common Sense.

By ARTHUR G. GRISBANE
(Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31.—On the hot sidewalk in front of the Biltmore hotel this morning these surprising words were heard. "Yes sir, Chicago is a fine place, there is no city on earth like Chicago."

It was a Los Angeles taxicab driver talking, making himself agreeable to a newly-arrived Chicagoan.

In a month that Chicagoan will say that Chicago is wonderful, but Los Angeles is extraordinary.

A year later, probably, he will be moving his family out here.

This state will have 20 millions population before the end of the century.

Renewed attacks on Filipino workers in this state. A bomb exploded under a Filipino lodging house in Stockton, blew dozens of Asiatic workers out of bed. Nobody killed.

Fifteen thousand Filipinos in Stockton, largest colony in California, are distributed as farmhands in the delta region by labor contractors. They get work readily while many white men are unemployed. That explains the rioting.

It is said by farmers that Filipinos with small debt hands and fingers work the fields under intensive cultivation better than the whites. That does not comfort whites out of work.

The state has taken precautions to prevent the Filipinos obtaining firearms.

After this morning's bombing, state athletic authorities notified prize fight promoters that no Filipinos must appear in the ring.

The little islander, in the lightweight classes, has a disagreeable habit of winning their fights.

This enrages the noble white man, who considers successful prize fighting a proof of superiority.

Mr. Fred Fisher, who knows how to make automobile bodies, is here inspecting automobile conditions, absorbing sunshine.

Examining the art collection of Mr. J. V. Baldwin, biggest Chevrolet dealer in the country, Mr. Fisher talked optimistically of conditions ahead, his views based on careful observation. He said, "October's clouds have rolled away."

At that moment in came William M. Packer, Chevrolet sales manager for southern California, high powered. Contemplating this writer as a dominion he contemplates a worm, he said, "I sold you a Chevrolet touring car three years ago and I would like to sell you a new one."

"Your 1927 car still has a trade-in value."

He was told, "No new car needed. The 1927 Chevrolet, accustomed to bumps and ruts of the desert road, is going better than ever. Your president, Mr. Knudsen, would rather hear that than to have you sell a new car."

In five minutes, being able to talk faster than anybody can answer, Mr. Packer had arranged to give the old Chevrolet a coat of Duco, a set of Loverly shock absorbers, new seat covers and had also sold a six-cylinder Chevrolet sedan to be delivered in New York.

"That," said Fred Fisher, is quite a salesman.

Mr. Grant would be interested in that transaction.

Mr. Packer is the gentleman who sold a car three years ago by advising his prospect, "Do not go from Los Angeles to San Francisco on the South-Pacific night express train. Let me take you in a Chevrolet. I will beat the express by an hour."

The offer was declined, the car was bought.

Production's problems are solved. There remains the problem of distribution through good salesmanship. Hence this lengthy narrative.

A King Speaks At The Fireside And World Sees Peace As Real

Miracle Of Modern Communication Impressed On Americans
As Aiding Efforts To Create Guaranty Against War

A king's voice speaking a message of peace in the intimate circle of homes throughout the world has made realistic the efforts of the Naval conference to lighten humanity's burden. This is the significance of the broadcast with which George V. opened the Naval conference as American comment sees it.

A new world is evidenced by the SALINA JOURNAL "ruled by the logic of the spoken word" in which the ALBANY EVENING NEWS recognizes "peace less a figment of visionaries and more a thing reasonable and certain." For now, as the DAYTON NEWS put it, the conference sits "at the firesides" of the peoples of the globe.

Assaying the practical benefit of the phenomenon, the NEW BEDFORD STANDARD considers it "fair to assume that eagerness to hear must have been accompanied by attention to what was said" thus creating "sentiment in favor of the objects of the delegates." In fact this sentiment, the LOUISVILLE TIMES remarks, prompts listeners around the world to answer King George's expressed hope that the results will lead to immediate alleviation of the burden of armaments, with "as the English express it, 'Heal! Heal!'"

"It is a comparatively safe assumption," remarks the NEW YORK SUN, "that the opening ceremonies of this conference could have been heard by any listener with a radio receiver in any place on the globe." The success of the attempt is a tribute to the radio experts. The DAYTON DAILY NEWS views the conference as "sitting at the firesides of all the world."

To the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "the addresses of King George and the spokesmen, the powers give hope of a real accomplishment in the reduction of naval armaments," and the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS states: "A French adage says that to understand all is to forgive all. The time may be distant when that Utopian state is reached by the world, but the radio, by making neighbors of all nations, should do much to hasten its arrival."

Putting significance into the fact that the broadcast to some came at dawn, the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER suggests: "One thought, as one sat in the shadows, of that single word, 'Dawn,' on the statue of Edith Cavell by the side of the National Gallery in London. One remembered, too, Lloyd George's famous address at the Pilgrims' dinner in London, soon after America's entry into the war, when he read the report of how the 'Canadian' at Vimy Ridge had 'attacked with the dawn.' And as those voices continued mysterious out of the ether, one remembered the proud affirmation of that soldier of the French Revolution, 'We felt as though we were always marching into the dawn.'"

A similar thought, the ROANOK TIMES comments: "Marching into the dawn—in those four words lies the keynote of the hopes, the prayers, the desires of mankind as the representatives of the nations deliberate. . . . At dawn the gracious words of the ruler of the British Empire came to us out of the air, came to us in the living room as clearly as though the speaker were in an adjoining room, instead of far away on the other side of the broad Atlantic. May it not have been, not merely the dawn of another day but the dawn of a lasting world peace? Millions listened, undoubtedly. And millions prayed, too."

"King George and the principal delegates of the five great naval powers threw down the gage to competitive armaments," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, with the conclusion that "the keynote of the opening session was optimism, tinged with the seriousness of the situation which confronts the maritime nations." That the conference had "an auspicious start" is the conviction of the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES and the LONG BEACH PRESS-TELEGRAM, while the SAVANNAH PRESS signs significance in "the interest which rulers feel in the parley," and the CLEVELAND NEWS urges the beneficial results if all "state their true positions early in the negotiations and treat with their conferees in a spirit of absolute honesty and fairness."

"Now the radio makes it certain that, save under extraordinary conditions, the people of the world can be notified almost instantaneously of any event of importance," states the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, and the ATLANTA JOURNAL, calling it "a wondrous age when the words of a great council of nations come quickly home to hundreds of millions," adds: "King George spoke across the ocean's vastness, to each of these firesides and to each of these attentive minds. . . . The years, with their growth of socializing ideas and institutions and their spread of distance-destroying inventions, have not only broken down barriers between the governments and the governed, but have also brought the peoples of the earth into communications and contacts that overlap all boundaries." The SALT LAKE DESERT NEWS calls it "a thrilling of the achievement of the age," and the HARTFORD TIMES and the OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

"The King had his own simple faith in the goodness which in theory animates all the professions of the present-day national leadership of the world," avers the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, and that simplicity of expression was the subject of comment by the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE and the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL. His clear, firm tone is praised by the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN and the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE. His performance of duty is viewed by the KANSAS CITY TIMES in the light of "a real affection for him throughout the commonwealth."

"He really expressed the desire of the common people of the entire world," asserts the ALTOONA MIRRORED, and to the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS "voiced the aspirations of the world."

The King's part was preliminary to the actual work of the conference. "Twenty-nine years ago," it says, "the Duke of York, returning from a world tour, during which he studied Britain's naval needs, sounded his famous call: 'Wake up, England.' As the whole world knows, England awoke, and built the mightiest navy in history. It is of momentous importance that the same man, who now is King George V. in opening the naval-limitation conference in London, proposed that the Frankenstein he built be reduced to less menacing dimensions."

A good many years ago, prior to 1776 to be exact, the voice of a British monarch, recalls the BURLINGTON GAZETTE, "had plenty to do with the people living in the 13 colonies, later enlarged to the 48 States now comprising the United States of America. The colonies did not hear this voice directly, but the orders issued had much to do with their destinies."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

AIR-SEA-RAIL TERMINAL.

Hog Island will be remembered. It has been one of the regrets of those who developed it during the War that no peace time use had been devised for such a noble undertaking. But it has not been forgotten by active brains and now following a conference, December 20, last, with J. Caldwell Jenkins, Vice President of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, Mayor H. A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, has made it known that definite arrangements were made for the City of Philadelphia to take over the Government-owned portion of Hog Island, for a combination sea, air and rail terminal.

"Philadelphia will acquire the property either by outright purchase or a lease extending over a period of years," Mayor Mackey said.

Consummation of either arrangement, Mr. Mackey explained, awaits approval of the Shipping Board, which instructed Mr. Jenkins to conduct the negotiations. Mayor Mackey said Hog Island would be converted into the "world's greatest" combination terminal.

Hog Island was not in vain.

THE HERO AT HOME

The flags were flown.
The Bugles blown.
The people cheered as he passed by.
Along the way
Throughout the day
His praise was sounded to the sky.

Then evening came.
Died noise and flame:
Stilled was the sound of fife and drum.
A door flew wide.
He stepped inside.
And home, the conqueror had come!

Shut in from town
He settled down.
And took his babe upon his knee.
He gently smiled.
To hear the child
Cry: "Read the funny page to me!"

He wound the clock.
Turned key in lock.
Put out the lights and went to bed.
"Though fame and pride
Are found outside,
I'm happier at home," he said.

New Wilmington To Protest Game

Coach To Protest Decision In Game With Union High, He Says

SCHOOLS LIKELY TO SEVER RELATIONSHIP

Athletic relationship between New Wilmington High school and Union High of Scotland Lane, is at the straining point today. It is understood that in all likelihood the two schools have met in athletic competition for the last time.

Coach Arnold Karsten, of New Wilmington High is ready to file a protest with Mr. Johnson, chairman of the Athletic Board of the Lawrence County Class B schools today.

The protest comes as a result of the 24 to 22 basketball game played last night at the New Wilmington High floor, and which was won by Union. Karsten claims that Union did not win the game in a legal manner. The referee S. B. Hart of Sharon, Pa. is claimed by Karsten gave the game to Union through a reversal of a decision that he had already made.

At one point in the game the whistle blew for a substitution, and Hart did not hear the whistle blow. Karsten claims that Union did not win the game in a legal manner. The referee S. B. Hart of Sharon, Pa. is claimed by Karsten gave the game to Union through a reversal of a decision that he had already made.

Another matter that aroused considerable comment in New Wilmington occurred following the game when Coach Boyd of Union High is alleged to have struck Robert Neal, a New Wilmington High student and to have loosened several of his teeth.

Principal Walter Whitman of New Wilmington High and C. M. White, member of the school board have signified their intention of upholding Coach Karsten in his protest of the game, and that in all event athletic relationship will be severed.

The incident is a regrettable affair in view of the fine relationship that has heretofore existed between the two schools, but the New Wilmington High officials feel that they have a just claim for the game and that they will not accede to it.

Good Progress Is Made On Addition To Relay Station

Contractor Haug States First Story Of Building Is Now Completed

Despite the extremely cold weather of the past few weeks, good progress is being made on the construction of the big addition to the relay station of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Contractor L. A. Haug stated today.

Work of pouring concrete on the second floor will be started Monday, the structure now being a story in height. Concrete has been poured during the cold weather, tarpaulins being used to cover the work, under which heat is applied to keep the material from freezing.

After the concrete work is completed, the brick veneer will be added. It is hoped to have the work done long before the date set by the company, early this coming summer.

One Hour Lunch Hour Sufficient

Such Is Attitude In City Council With Regard To City Employees

Councilman William T. Burns, during council session at the city building today made an attempt to increase the lunch time of city hall employees from one hour to 90 minutes but Councilmen Genkinger and Tresor opposed the attempt and no action was taken.

Burns said in opening his plea for the city hall employees that council recently designated hours to report, lunch and quit work.

He said some of them had long distances to go for lunch as their homes were in outlying sections of the city.

"I think we are harsh. We only allow one hour. City kids don't get back to work in an hour."

"You don't get around to see" said Genkinger, adding "sometimes I don't go out to lunch."

"I believe the lunch time is too short and they should report back to work at 1:30 p.m.," said Burns.

"I don't think so," said Tresor, who then said that employees get half holidays and said he is opposed to giving a longer lunch hour.

As a result of the determined stand of the opposition the topic was abandoned, at least temporarily, by Councilman Burns.

Coach To Protest Decision In Game With Union High, He Says

SCHOOLS LIKELY TO SEVER RELATIONSHIP

Athletic relationship between New Wilmington high school and Union High of Scotland Lane, is at the straining point today. It is understood that in all likelihood the two schools have met in athletic competition for the last time.

The protest comes as a result of the 24 to 23 basketball game played last night at the New Wilmington High floor, and which was won by Union. Karsten claims that Union did not win the game in a legal manner. The referee S. B. Hart of Sharon, it is claimed by Karsten gave the game to Union through a reversal of a decision that he had already made.

At one point in the game the whistle blew for a substitution, and Hart did not hear the whistle blow. Before a substitution would take place and before the score-keeper could get Hart's attention, one of the Union men had scored a field goal. Hart ruled at the time that the basket did not count. He later changed this ruling and gave Union the basket, making the score at the end of the half 14-14, and Karsten claims that it should have been 14 to 12 in favor of New Wilmington. Karsten contends the score should be 23 to 22 in favor of New Wilmington.

Another matter that aroused considerable comment in New Wilmington occurred following the game when Coach Boyd of Union High is alleged to have struck Robert Neal, a New Wilmington High student and to have loosened several of his teeth.

Good Progress Is Made On Addition To Relay Station

Contractor Haug States First Story Of Building Is Now Completed

Despite the extremely cold weather of the past few weeks, good progress is being made on the construction of the big addition to the relay station of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Contractor L. A. Haug stated today.

Work of pouring concrete on the second floor will be started Monday, the structure now being a story in height. Concrete has been poured during the cold weather, tarpaulins being used to cover the work, under which heat is applied to keep the material from freezing.

After the concrete work is completed, the brick veneer will be added. It is hoped to have the work done long before the date set by the company, early this coming summer.

One Hour Lunch Hour Sufficient

Such Is Attitude In City Council With Regard To City Employees

Councilman William T. Burns, during council session at the city building today made an attempt to increase the lunch time of city hall employees from one hour to 90 minutes but Councilmen Genkinger and Treser opposed the attempt and no action was taken.

Burns said in opening his plea for the city hall employees that council recently designated hours to report, lunch and quit work.

He said some of them had long distances to go for lunch as their homes were in outlying sections of the city.

"I think we are harsh. We only allow one hour. City 'dads' don't get back to work in an hour."

"You don't get around to see" said Genkinger, adding "sometimes I don't go out to lunch."

"I believe the lunch time is too short and they should report back to work at 1:30 p.m.," said Burns.

"I don't think so," said Treser, who then said that employees got half holidays and said he is opposed to giving a longer lunch hour.

Valuable Timber In Alaska Coast Forests

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 31.—In the coast forests of Alaska valuable timber grows, chiefly Sitka spruce, western hemlock, red and yellow cedar, Douglas fir, although abundant further south, is absent. Extreme Caution Urged For Driving Automobile In Fog

Motor Federation Reminds Of Danger And Warns All Drivers

Extreme caution while driving in fog is advised by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation in a statement issued today.

"Fog, which is particularly prevalent at this season, is dreaded by the motorist almost as much as it is by the mariner," said Edward Goble, president of the Federation at Harrisburg. "It virtually wipes out visibility on the highways, making travel dangerous to all users and demanding extreme care and caution at all times. The drivers who, either thoughtlessly or deliberately, take a chance on highways cluttered by fog, risks not only his own safety, but that of all others who happen that way."

Mr. Goble called attention to a provision of the motor code that requires use of lights on cars during the day when visibility is bad because of fog, or for some other cause. "Many drivers seem to be of the opinion," he said, "that they are required to turn lights only during the period that begins one hour after sundown and ends one hour before sunrise. That is not the case, as the state law governing use of lights provides for such emergencies as fog, storm or other condition that renders visibility poor during the day."

He quoted that section of the law as follows: "Every vehicle upon a highway within this commonwealth, during the period from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise, and at any other time when there is not sufficient light to render clearly discernible any person on the highway at a distance of 200 feet ahead, shall be equipped with lighted front and rear lamps, as in this section respectively required for different classes of vehicles."

"Lighted lamps may not improve visibility of the driver to any appreciable extent in fog," the Federation head stated, "but, like the fog horn on a ship, they warn the approaching traveler of the close proximity of the other car. It pays in the long run not to be too saving in the use of lights in winter driving, and especially in fog."

"Keep your lights burning, use extreme care and never risk taking a chance—those are three fundamentals of safe and sane driving in fog."

Movie Tells How To Handle Groundhogs

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Illustration of the damage done by woodchucks or groundhogs, to alfalfa fields, fruit trees, and garden crops along with instructions as how to control the animal has been released by the Department of Agriculture in the form of a two-reel motion picture.

"Formerly many farm boys hunted this rodent so persistently for sport or for the bounty paid that hardly a one was alive to look for his shadow on 'groundhog day' but now they seem to have forsaken this sport for the woodchuck has increased in numbers so rapidly in recent years that it has actually become a menace to cultivated crops in many of the northeastern states, the Department announced."

The Biologist Survey has compiled instructions as to methods of control of the woodchuck, and farmers may keep the number of animals greatly reduced at a comparatively low cost, the report stated.

Forests Cut Yearly In Excess Of Growth

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Foresters estimate that about thirty-eight billion cubic feet of wood is grown yearly, says the American Tree Association. This is the figure to balance against a cut of fifty-six billion cubic feet when plans for the future are being made.

WHEN IS A LIZARD NOT A LIZARD?

What in the name of common sense was Uncle Merry Great Eye talking about? Lizard-Beetle looked less like a soldier than anyone Peter had ever met. Yet it was as plain to be seen as the nose on one's face that all the fellow's relatives—Uncle Merry and Auntie and the Jumble-Bugs, too, respected Lizard-Beetle. Why? Peter was still more puzzled when Lizard crawled into the open, and for the first time the boy saw the fellow as the fellow really was—a little lizard with six tiny legs at the front of a body certainly not over half an inch long. The blue and red tail moved ceaselessly. Peter could not keep his eyes off it. If it hadn't been for that tail, Peter would have passed the fellow by without a second glance. Peter's eye took in all this at a glance, and only a moment passed before Lizard-Beetle answered Uncle Merry's question.

"Of course I'm on duty today, Uncle Merry. I thought you knew me well enough not to ask such a foolish question. I am always tending to my business except when I sleep or when I rest in my hole waiting to turn into my other self."

If Peter had been puzzled before, he was twice as much mixed up now. The conversation didn't seem to have any sense at all now. Curiosity got the better of the boy as it so often did, and he burst out with:

"Who ever heard of a lizard that fought? And who is your 'other self'?"

"One question at a time, stranger," said the fellow in the grass. "But let me set you right on one point, sir. I am no more lizard than you are. You can't tell a fellow by his tail and feet, and that's what you're judging me by. Give me time, and a two weeks' furlough, and I'll turn into as fine a beetle as ever you saw—a beetle in a red coat trimmed with black spots, sir!"

Forced To Shoot Dog Guarding Man's Body

LONGVIEW, Texas, Jan. 31.—The devotion which dogs acquire for their masters was demonstrated here when authorities were forced to shoot a collie before they could approach the body of his master. Felix Landers, frozen to death.

Landers, a wanderer, and his faithful mascot sought shelter in a vacant cotton warehouse when they were caught in a blizzard which brought sub-zero temperatures.

Attracted by the howling of the collie, officers approached the warehouse and saw the body, but the dog which had guarded his dead master for two days, refused to let them go near. He was shot.

Women used to dress to make other women jealous. Now they dress to make other women jealous.

Forced To Shoot Dog Guarding Man's Body

LONGVIEW, Texas, Jan. 31.—The devotion which dogs acquire for their masters was demonstrated here when authorities were forced to shoot a large collie before they could approach the body of his master, Felix Landers, frozen to death.

Landers, a wanderer, and his faithful mascot sought shelter in a vacant cotton warehouse when they were caught in a blizzard which brought sub-zero temperatures.

Attracted by the howling of the collie, officers approached the warehouse and saw the body, but the dog, which had guarded his dead master for two days, refused to let them go near. He was shot.

Women used to dress to make other women jealous; now they undress to make other women jealous.

GOLF COURSE CADDIES MUST BE 14 YEARS OLD

In an opinion handed down by Deputy Attorney General Roscoe H. Koch, no boy under fourteen years of age can be employed as caddy on golf courses. The complaint, filed by Philadelphia Welfare organization, brought the ruling which takes in every golf club in the state.

This means that next season boys who caddy at the New Castle Field Club course or the Municipal Golf course must be fourteen years of age or over. In view of the fact that many of the youngsters on these courses have been thirteen years of age in other seasons the probabilities are that there will be a shortage of caddies.

Can Work on Farm
Under the opinion of Mr. Koch it was pointed out that the act does not apply to farms or households. A youngster thirteen can work all day in the sun pulling weeds or hoeing corn, but if he carries a bag of golf clubs around an eighteen hole course, he is in violation of the child Labor Law. He might shovel a five ton load of coal into a cellar at his home and not be in violation of the law, but he couldn't carry a maul or a niblick around for a golf match.

Koch pointed out that most golf courses were transformed farms but could find no justification in the law to permit the employment of minors once they were no longer used for agricultural purposes.

Many of the golfers here feel that the act is an unfair one in its application to golf courses. They feel that carrying bag of golf clubs around a course is such work that a thirteen year old boy can do without injury to himself and the deputy attorney general reminder that the condition can be cured only by an amendment to the act will likely bring some pressure towards that end.

Limited Number To Attend Banquet

Arrangements Must Be Made Early For Commander's Banquet

There is an increasing demand on the part of the Legionnaires and their friends in this city for the tickets to the National Commander's banquet to be held in the Cathedral on the night of March 4.

It is apparent that if the demand continues, that the tickets allotted for this city will be exhausted and as a result many people who are anxious to attend, will be unable to get tickets.

When the allotment set aside for the people of this city is sold out, there will be no more opportunities for the people of this city to secure and see and hear National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer and other state and national celebrities of the American Legion.

Program being arranged for the affair will be of unusual interest and the committees in charge of the various phases of the banquet are working hard to put it across in a bigger and better way than any previous year.

NOISY DRUNKS CLOG JAILS IN SAN FRANCISCO

(International News Service.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30.—That old wheeze about the drowsy desk sergeant throwing the noisy prisoner out of jail isn't a wheeze after all. It's true.

Prisoners actually get thrown out of a jail in San Francisco—from fifteen to fifty every day.

The situation is this, in the words of Lieutenant Jim Bowland, in charge of the city prison, and for many years a patrolman on the Barbary coast, beat when that famous district was in its hey day.

"They come in here—these drunks—at the rate of from fifteen to fifty every twenty-four hours. What is there to do with them but throw them out?"

Clog Up Courts

"Otherwise they'd clog up the courts and the jail, too. I understand that in most cities drunks are automatically fined from five to ten dollars or made to work. We use to work them here, but they got to be too many."

"You see, there's more drunks coming in now than there were during pre-prohibition days."

"If they get to coming in too often we sometimes send them down thru the courts on a vagrancy charge."

"But if they only show up once a week or something like that, we turn them loose."

Every day about noon the drunks are lined up before the lieutenant. He questions them and looks them over to make sure there are no arch criminals among them.

Told To Get Out

Then they are told to get out of jail and not come back.

While in the jail, the drunks, who come from nearly every walk and station of life, are served coffee and given medical attention.

"Lots of them need medical attention, too," says Lieutenant Bowland. "You see, this bootleg liquor sometimes causes the drinker to become violent."

"Some of them come in here pretty badly skinned up. But we take care of them and then kick them out."

"I believe some of them would like a short jail sentence where they could have a chance to get a few feeds and forget the booze."

Compare Costs Of Two Methods For County Poor Work

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—The first general study of all active cases on the outdoor relief plan in several counties is now being undertaken under the direction of the bureau of assistance, according to an announcement by Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley, state secretary of welfare, today.

Under the present laws regarding direction of relief of the poor, the county poor directors or the county commissioners may use their judgment as to whether cases are to be sent to almshouses or relieved in their own homes. Many counties have found that more money than necessary is being paid out for the outdoor or home relief plan. On the other hand it has been found more expedient where there are no almshouses to use the outdoor plan.

The department of welfare field workers are gathering data in several counties at the request of the county commissioners to determine whether the building of a joint almshouse by two or more counties would be more economical than the outdoor relief plan.

New Health Term Will Start Soon

Past Record Of Health Classes Of Y. W. C. A. Shows Loss Of Many Pounds

New term of Y. W. C. A. health activities will commence Monday, Feb. 3, announces Miss Dorothy Stewart, director of the department of health education.

The classes, during the past semester, have proven of great benefit to the members, and it is hoped that many new members will be added to the gym and health classes.

As a rule, according to Miss Stewart, nature puts flesh on slowly and not to go averse to the laws of nature, a person should take it off slowly. In the Y. W. C. A. health classes, a safe, sane and slow reduction is advocated.

The aim is to lose one pound a week. This totals a loss of 14 pounds in one term and 28 pounds for the season. Many members of the health classes have lost this amount and in losing this surplus weight have gained in freedom of movement, grace and health.

What would we think of a woman who carried a three year old child around with her all the time? Yet, says Miss Stewart, that is what many women are practically doing when they carry 30 pounds of extra weight. No wonder they suffer with their feet.

The longer you put on flesh the harder it is to remove it so call the "Y," 748.

Washington Man Wins Unique Bet

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—To win a $50 bet from his wife, Andrew Madden clad only in a union suit, ran several blocks through the heaviest snow storm the capital has seen in eight years, to a Bakery, got a pun of milk and escaped arrest.

He had awakened in broad daylight, blinked his eyes, hunted for his clothes and found his wife had locked them up.

"You bet me $50 last night you would go to the bakery in your union suit," said the wife. "I collect, don't I?"

Madden didn't hesitate a minute. He collected the fifty, but shocked several women in the streets as he flitted past.

Merchants Plan Annual Dollar Day Next Month

Plans Also Discussed For Industrial Exposition At Meeting Last Night

NEW MEMBERS ADDED BY BUSINESS BUREAU

Plans for Dollar Day and an Industrial Exposition were discussed by the members of the Better Business Bureau of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce at their meeting in the Elks Club last evening, along with a variety of other interesting subjects.

It was decided to hold Dollar Day on Thursday, February 20th, and a committee will be named by President Emmanuel Shenken to make arrangements for the event at once.

Industrial Exposition
Discussing the matter of an Industrial Exposition, two plans were set forth: one of holding such an event in an auditorium or tent, and the other of having the exhibits in the various store windows. The latter plan met with the most favor of the members and after discussing the matter at some length, President Shenken was authorized to name a committee to set the date and arrange plans for the same.

The merchants of the city, of whom there were close to 75 present at the dinner and business meeting in the Elks Club, reaffirmed their agreement to withhold patronage of advertising and stock selling schemes unless the same was approved by the committee of the Better Business Bureau.

It has been the practice in the past for out-of-town advertising solicitors with propositions of doubtful merit, to come into the city and secure the backing of some church or fraternal organization and to send one of their members along with a solicitor to visit the merchant. The promoter would promise in return for the aid rendered, a very small percentage of the receipts which in most cases are quite large.

Because of the united stand of the merchants against this form of advertising, which brings very little return to the merchant or the organization affected, this practice has been practically broken up. The agreement of the merchants will have no effect on solicitation by local organizations if their proposition has any merit.

New Ordinances
Members of the Bureau and their friends were told that two ordinances have been presented to the city council which would protect local merchants against practices detrimental to their business.

One is an ordinance against the leasing of a store room alongside a merchant of long standing in the community for a period of a few weeks, for the purpose of offering at sale for this short period, the same goods as are sold by the merchant. In many cases the goods offered are bought at bankruptcy sales and are offered at prices far below that which the legitimate merchant is able to offer them.

Another is against the practice of holding illegal auction sales, wherein additional goods of little worth are brought in and offered along with the regular stock in trade. It is modified after a similar ordinance recently enacted in the city of Pittsburgh.

No objection is made by the local merchants against legitimate auction sales with licensed auctioneers conducting the business.

Daylight Savings Too Long
Daylight Savings also came in for discussion, most of the merchants being of the opinion that the period of daylight saving as it was observed here last summer, is too long. Some were in favor of curtailing it to two or three months only, that is June, July, and August; while others were in favor of observing it only during July and August.

President Shenken was authorized to appoint a committee to meet with the industrial interests of the city and to secure their opinion in the matter. The merchants feel that the greatest part of their business comes from the working men of the city and their rights in the matter should be respected.

A report was rendered on the Christmas lighting program, which showed that a deficit was incurred. This is to be accepted by the Pennsylvania Power Company, the merchants were told. A resolution was ordered prepared, commending The Woman's Club and the Pennsylvania Power Co. for their efforts in putting over the Christmas lighting program.

Increased Lighting
The matter of securing better lighting in the business district was also brought up for discussion, and members of the organization were informed that a proposition has been submitted to city council on the matter, which will result in but little added cost to the city and will materially increase lighting of the business section.

It was brought to the attention of the president that some criticism has been directed against the New Castle Chamber of Commerce in regard to the matter of bringing new industries to the city.

Secretary A. W. Chilton of the Chamber of Commerce, who is also secretary of the Better Business Bureau, was said to enlighten the audience in this regard.

Mr. Chilton stated that the New Castle Chamber of Commerce is sparing no effort to try and interest new industries in New Castle, and that considerable time and effort is being put forth in the matter.

He stated that their work is not made public because of the confidential nature of most of these projects, which might militate against the industry which is seeking location here. At the present time, Mr. Chilton stated, a very large industry has selected New Castle as one of three locations for their proposed industry and every effort is being made to induce them to locate in New Castle.

He stated that one of the greatest objections against New Castle by proposed new industry was the lack of water transportation, and told of the efforts which are now being put forth by the Beaver, Mahoning, and Shenango Rivers Association, to secure slackwater navigation of these three streams. He promised the merchants that if the improvement of these rivers is secured, New Castle, as well as the other cities in the valley of these rivers would reap immeasurable benefit. He asked the support of the Better Business Bureau in the waterways project.

It was voted to meet monthly for the discussion of matters affecting the members of the Bureau, the last Thursday in the month being named as a regular meeting night.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A young woman who writes stories for the best magazines, received a letter from an old man living in the middle west in an old folks home. He said that he enjoyed reading her because she had such a rare sense of humor and that he laughed heartily at her stories. He wanted her to know how much they meant to an old man shut up in an institution. He is ill and can't get out like some of the others.

Christmas came and the old folks got a big box from their friend in New York. It was filled with books and magazines and hot water bottles and victrola records and sweaters and scarfs, and candy and all sorts of things. The head of the institution wrote that there never had been such a fine Christmas in the home. The old folks actually wept with joy over their box. Incidentally it contained their ONLY Christmas presents.

The letter arrives at the home regularly, for all of them, and they watch for the postman. The writer says this work pays her more than any magazine could.

I hope that some of the women who think their lives are empty because they are merely wives, and haven't anything to do, will read this. It was the writer's father who told me the story, and he says his daughter doesn't do it merely for something to do. She likes giving the old folks a little pleasure, but she gets happiness out of it too. That kind of a girl would, you know.

A man in Cleveland writes that the husband who wrote me that his wife was becoming more feminine since she put on long skirts, in "plain crazy."

"The trouble with that man's wife," says the Cleveland letter, "is that she wore skirts that were too short. Long dresses are not pretty, they look like nightgowns."

Ooooo—"Mister! Nightgowns are not ugly. Not any more."

He says if the lady wore the right kind of short skirts her husband wouldn't be admiring her long ones. Some like 'em long. Some like 'em short. Some men say nothing. Other men shout.

Fay To Offer More American Biography

(International News Service)
PARIS, Jan. 31.—The French biographer, Bernard Fay, whose biography of Benjamin Franklin was accepted recently by the Book of the Month Club, is far from through with his picturing of the 18th century political life.

His plans were formulated long before his present book became an almost immediate success in America. Next will come two volumes dealing with the intellectual life in America from 1800 to 1850, and from 1850 to 1900.

To the American mind, it is startling to hear that Benjamin Franklin was the actual leader of intellectual thought throughout Europe during the 20 years between 1770 and 1790, but such is the statement by Fay.

"Fay was the only American who ever lived who was looked upon as a really great man in Europe. Lincoln was unknown and Woodrow Wilson was never introduced."

Fay is a French critic and college professor. His book on Franklin was written in French and immediately translated into English. Oddly enough the French edition did not appear for at least two months.

Merchants Plan Annual Dollar Day Next Month

Plans Also Discussed For Industrial Exposition At Meeting Last Night

NEW MEMBERS ADDED BY BUSINESS BUREAU

Plans for Dollar Day and an Industrial Exposition were discussed by the members of the Better Business Bureau of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce at their meeting in the Elks Club last evening, along with a variety of other interesting subjects.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A young woman who writes stories for the best magazines, received a letter from an old man living in the middle west in an old folks home. He said that he enjoyed reading her because she had such a rare sense of humor, and that he laughed heartily at her stories. He wanted her to know how much they meant to an old man shut up in an institution. He is ill and can't get out like some of the others.

The young woman didn't just sit back and say "Well now, isn't that nice!" She wrote the old man a letter. A long letter with funny lines in it to make him laugh again. He answered her and she wrote again. Then some of the other old folks thought it was so nice to find a young woman who would notice them that they wrote her, and they all hear from her now. Most of them had no children or relatives who cared about them and they were cut off from the outside world until she loomed on their horizon.

Christmas came and the old folks got a big box from their friend in New York. It was filled with books and magazines and hot water bottles and victrola records and sweaters and scarfs, and candy and all sorts of things. The head of the institution wrote that there never had been such a fine Christmas in the home. The old folks actually wept with joy over their box. Incidentally it contained their ONLY Christmas presents.

The letter arrives at the home regularly for all of them, and they watch for the postman. The writer says this work pays her more than any magazine could.

the writer's father who told me the story, and he says his daughter doesn't do it merely for something to do. She likes giving the old folks a little pleasure, but she gets happiness out of it too. That kind of a girl would, you know.

A man in Cleveland writes that the husband who wrote me that his wife was becoming more feminine since she put on long skirts, in "plain crazy". "The trouble with that man's wife," says the Cleveland letter, "is that she wore skirts that were too short. Long dresses are not pretty, they look like nightgowns."

Ooooo—Mister! Nightgowns are not ugly. Not any more. He says if the lady wore the right kind of short skirts her husband wouldn't be admiring her long ones.

Some like 'em long.
Some like 'em short.
Some men say nothing.
Other men snort.

(International News Service)
PARIS, Jan. 31.—The French biographer, Bernard Fay, whose biography of Benjamin Franklin was accepted recently by the Book of the Month Club, is far from through with his picturing of the 18th century political life.

His plans were formulated long before his present book became an almost immediate success in America. Next will come two volumes dealing with the intellectual life in America from 1800 to 1850, and from 1850 to 1900.

To the American mind, it is startling to hear that Benjamin Franklin was the actual leader of intellectual thought throughout Europe during the 20 years between 1770 and 1790, but such is the statement by Fay.

"Fay was the only American who ever lived who was looked upon as a really great man in Europe. Lincoln was unknown and Woodrow Wilson was never introduced."

Fay is a French critic and college professor. His book on Franklin was written in French and immediately translated into English. Oddly enough, the French edition did not appear for at least two months.

Light Contracts Are Approved

City And Light Company Agree On Street Lighting Program

STATE COMMISSION MUST NOW APPROVE

Council today formally approved the contracts between the city and the Pennsylvania-Ohio system whereby the company furnishes electric light for the next five years to the city and also purchases the curb light system and Mahoning avenue viaduct lights for $25,000, to be paid in a lump sum.

Recently council estimated that the current would cost the city $75,000 this year. Both contracts must be approved by the public service commission. The sale of the white way system dates from February 1.

Today Louis B. Round, local manager of the P-O system, visited council in session at the city building and said that the contracts for the street lights and sale by the city of the white way system are ready to be signed. He asked council whether the city wanted the $25,000 in a lump sum or to be stretched in payments over a period of five years.

To Take Lump Sum.
Councilman Genkinger replied, stating that in view of proposed improvements to streets he believed it best to take the money in a lump sum. Councilman Trester concurred in Genkinger's stand but Councilman Burns said: "I want it paid in such a way it will reduce our light bill, so we will not have to pay $80,000 next year."

Reeves warned that the city has a big improvement in mind and Burns retorted that "We will have a big electric bill." The mayor, Gillespie, interrupted to say that he wanted something made clear to him before he voted and said "There is a state improvement coming here. Will we have any trouble on hand to take care of it?"

"We have $60,000 and $25,000 from the Penn-Ohio system would get us out," Trester informed the mayor. "Use this $25,000 as a lever to put through the state program," Genkinger advised colleagues.

Burns said he estimated that the electric bill would run about $78,000, at first from which $1,500 interest and a $5,000 payment had been deducted. He estimated that at the end of the year the city would be short $6,000 of the estimated cost of the lights.

"We have $60,000. We only need $15,000 additional for the state program," said Genkinger. (The state refunds the city $75,000 for the jobs in Grant street, Butler and Croton avenues.)

It finally was resolved by a four to one vote, Burns voting negatively, that the $25,000 is to be paid in a lump sum to the city.

It next developed that while the enabling ordinance to sell the white way system had been passed the contract had not been signed.

However, it was decided to approve the contract as of February 1. Trester seconded Reeves' motion and it was carried by Genkinger, Reeves, Trester and Gillespie, a four to one vote.

The mayor had already signed the contract for street lighting. The two contracts now will go to the public service commission for approval.

The British House of Commons and Labor leaders have endorsed a proposal that one of their number should not offer himself for re-election if he has passed the age of seventy. They seem to forget that many men in this age and in other ages, such as the leaders pictured above, have done much to make their mark in the world even after they had passed the seventy mark.

Old Time Baseball Player, Manager And Umpire Dies In His Kentucky Home

(International News Service) HICKMAN, Ky., Jan. 31.—Joe Cantillon, famous old time baseball player, manager and umpire, died here today following a lengthy illness.

Although reported slightly improved yesterday, the veteran player suffered a relapse last night and early today physicians announced the end was near.

Cantillon rounded out an even half century of organized baseball last season and established a record in national sporting circles.

He was actively connected with a baseball club or league for fifty years, forty-four of which he donned a uniform. He began his career in 1879 and had not missed a season until 1923. He managed the Minneapolis club of the American Association for fourteen years and during that time won four championships. He came from a family of ball players. Five brothers, Michael, Thomas, William, James and Richard, all played ball during their boyhood days in Janesville, Wis.

Joe was born in Janesville, August 16, 1861 and played his first professional game with the Mutuals of Janesville in 1879. He received $80 a month with board for playing second base.

Offer Reward For Return Of Stolen Quilts To Church

Some time last week two quilts which were being quilted by the Ladies Aid Society of the First Christian church, were stolen from the frames in the church. One of these was a quilt that was made by a woman who has since died and is valued very highly by a sister. The other was a quilt that was being finished.

The Ladies Aid Society is most anxious that these stolen quilts be returned. A reward of $10 is offered for their return, it is stated. They should be taken to the church, where the reward will be paid, and no questions will be asked.

Jury Wheel Unique Piece Of Equipment; In Use Here For Years

It is something that no one seems to know. Fifty years perhaps, even more than that might be accurate, but no one can tell you with any degree of accuracy just how old the jury wheel of Lawrence county is.

An odd looking trinket, stained with age, almost a museum piece, is the wheel used by this county to name the jurors who will serve and out of it has come the names of the men and women who will try Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague.

The wheel itself looks something like a cheese box with a lid in one cover. The resemblance is only as to size and appearance for the wood in it is cherry, seasoned by the years and polished by constant handling.

The round box is attached to what appears to be a newel post about three and a half feet high and this also has been handled so much that it has the polish of a mahogany piano.

On the side of it is a handle which twists the box around to shake up

J. M. Trimble and son, Kenneth, Moody avenue, are suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident, which occurred Tuesday as they were coming home from Mendonville.

Near Conneaut Lake a car with an Ohio license, seemingly out of control of the driver, forced Mr. Trimble off the road, smashing into his car with such force that the car was completely demolished and Mr. Trimble and his son were both badly bruised and cut by broken glass.

Their condition today is somewhat improved, but both are suffering from the shock.

The Spirit And Wages Of The Kingdom

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness: and all these things shall be added unto you."—Matthew 6:33.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Having dealt with the nature of his kingdom as spiritual and not political, and then having declared the purpose of the kingdom to be that of transforming and saving the world, as light and salt transform the spheres of their influence, and then having declared the policy of his kingdom towards all that had proceeded, as being that of fulfilling rather than nullifying the Law of Moses, the King proceeds, in the fourth section of the sermon (Matthew 6:1-18) to deal with the spirit of his kingdom as the spirit of sincerity. At another time he said: "God is a spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." The king now demands this spirit of sincerity in three phases of worship: alms, prayer and fasting.

Sincerely in Giving, Praying, Fasting. The text covering all these phases of worship is: "Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them: else ye have no reward with your Father in heaven." Alms given with the blowing of the trumpet, to attract the attention of men, have no merit in God's sight. They are to be charged to the account of advertising and not to that of religion. "They have received their reward in the 'glory of men' and are paid up in full so far as any further blessing of God is concerned. It is exactly the same with those who 'stand and pray in the synagogues and in the corners of the street, that they may be seen of men." They get the publicity they seek, and have nothing more coming from God. They, too, are paid in full, and "have received their reward."

The Model Prayer.

In the midst of this section the king gave a form of prayer we call "the Lord's Prayer," which is a perfect model for all our praying. It has seven petitions, which fact is a symbol of its perfection. Six of these petitions seek spiritual blessings and only one material. They "seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness"—the glory of his name, the coming of his kingdom and the doing of his will. And when the material blessing of daily bread is sought, it is for others as well as for self, for the first personal pronouns of the prayer are all plural, "our," "us" and "we," with not a single "I," "me" or "my." Thus the prayer is intercessory through-out, whether it seeks bread or forgiveness, leading and deliverance from evil.

The Wages of the Kingdom.

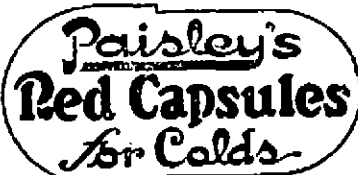

From verses 19 to 34 the King deals with the wages of the kingdom, using the text, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, etc., but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where thieves do not break through nor steal." Riches are to be kept in the position of a servant and never to be allowed to become our master, much less our god. "We cannot serve God and mammon." Worry over money or the things it can buy for food or clothing is contrary to all the lessons of nature as taught us by the fowls of the air and the lilies of the field. The true subjects of the kingdom will not set their hearts anxiously upon such material things, but upon the king, trusting him to supply all their needs. For your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

(The international uniform lesson for February 2 is, "Putting God's Kingdom First," Matt. 6:1-13, 19-21, 31-33, and the Golden Text, "Seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Matt. 6:33.)

(The daily Bible readings for next week's study are: Monday, Matt. 7:15-23; Tuesday, Matt. 7:24-29; Wednesday, Luke 12:41-48; Thursday, Gal. 5:16-26; Friday, Rom. 14:13-23; Saturday, 1 John 3:1-12, and Sunday, Prov. 2:1-3.)

NEW CASTLE MAN FREED
In the case of Jason Webster in which theft of sheep is charged, the defendant entered a plea Wednesday. He is from Ulica. Animals valued at over $1,000 are alleged to have been stolen by him.

In the action in which Ralph Morrison of New Castle is charged with driving drunk the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and places the costs on the prosecutor, Corporal McGill of the state motor patrol. L. J. Hunter of Ashtabula, O., forfeited bail of $500 on driving drunk charge. Paul De Santis of Sharpville, charged with transporting, was found not guilty. Rocco Lombardi was found not guilty of same offense but will pay costs, is jury verdict on this pair. They are from Sharpville.

Clarence Chambers of Leesburg, tried on rape charge, was found guilty of fornication by jury verdict. Marlin Shaw, on driving drunk charge, entered plea as did Alex Thomas on fraudulent conversion charge and Dan Schuller on larceny by bailee indictment. Court has been in session three days and half of the 52 cases are completed.

BIG MORTGAGE FILED
One of the largest mortgages ever filed here at the office of the county recorder is that of today given by the Jewettown Water company to Peoples Title Trust company for the sum of $500. The mortgage is on property in this and other counties.

MEETS DAIRYMEN
R. R. Welch of State College is holding a series of meetings with county dairymen this week. Mr. Welch will be remembered as the former head of the Grove City Cattle association. He is one of the most experienced dairy cattle men in the state.

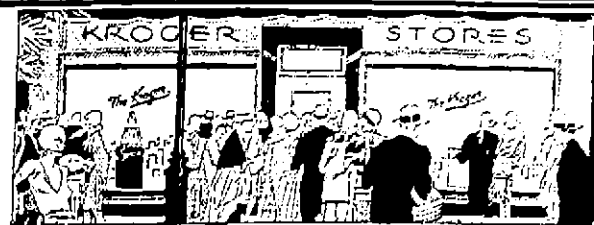

FORMER MERCER WOMAN DIES
From Babson Park, Pa., arrives information of the death of Mrs. Nannie Blint of Cleveland following a long illness. Death came Tuesday. She is a daughter of the late G. E. Reznor and was reared in Mercer. Her body will be brought here for burial from the home of her brother, C. E. Reznor. Her husband, Joseph Blint, and her two daughters, Mrs. Frank Crane and Mrs. Harry Ruddy, all of Cleveland, survive. Mrs. Blint had been ill for a long period of time. Her many local friends will regret to learn of her demise.

IS FEATURE WITNESS
Harry Strange, ticket taker at the Columbia theater in Sharon, was the feature witness of the trial of Victor Yessier of Cleveland, charged with holding up Strange at 11 p. m. on the date of October 2, 1926, and taking a bag with $1360 in cash. Strange identified Yessier in court Wednesday afternoon. He was the same witness called. Sadie Ecker, the ticket seller, said that he looked like one of the two that were in the lobby that night.

Yessier in his confession and in his story to Chief Steger contends that he drove the car over from Cleveland but was not a participant in the

The round box is attached to what appears to be a newel post about three and a half feet high and this also has been handled so much that it has the polish of a mahogany piano.

On the side of it is a handle which twirls the box around to shake up the tightly rolled names of jurors and the picking of them out is one entirely chance. Each name is on a slip of paper which is rolled tightly and wrapped with a rubber band. The impossibility of seeing whose name is being pulled out until it is actually out can be seen.

The wheel may have been installed when the court house was first built back in 1858. It is possible that it may even have been used when Lawrence county was a part of Mercer county. Howard Leslie, who has been around the court house for years, thinks such may be the case, although he has never been a jury commissioner before until the present term. W. M. Newswander, the other commissioner, doesn't know its age, neither does Sheriff Johnston nor Mrs. Miller, the secretary of the board of jury commissioners.

Sturdy and strong, the old antique looks good for another century. If one could list all the names that have been pulled out of it, he would have a list many thousands in number no doubt.

House Passes Cramton Bill

First Skirmish Won By Conservationists In Great Falls Of Potomac River Issue

MONEY AUTHORIZED FOR BIG MEMORIAL

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Conservationists of the nation and congress today had won half their battle to prevent rich power interests from obtaining control of the Great Falls of the Potomac river, the nation's first president.

The victory came with passage of the Cramton bill by the house authorizing the expenditure of $7,000,000 for land along the Potomac river for park purposes and a memorial boulevard from Mount Vernon to Great Falls.

The bill was sent on to the senate where it is expected that conservationists will demand amendments forever barring power interests from Great Falls.

Attracts Interest.
The fight has attracted the interests of city planners and advocates of conservation of national beauty spots in all parts of the country.

Rep. Cramton (R) of Michigan, who led the fight for the bill, charged that the chief opposition came from rich power interests, who already have applications before the federal power commission for use of Great Falls.

The bill was amended before passage, however, to provide that it should not bar development of the famous Potomac river in the future either for power, flood control or navigation purposes.

This amendment was sponsored by Rep. Dempsey (D) of New York, who has declared that the commercial importance of the river far outweighs its beauty and importance in congressional scheme to make Washington "the most beautiful city in the world."

Rep. McDuffie (D) of Alabama also succeeded in inserting an amendment providing that the government must acquire title to the land which will permit any use being made of it.

Water Power Site.
The Great Falls of the Potomac, 15 miles from the capital, is declared by experts to be one of the finest water power sites in the east. It also is known as the capital's chief beauty spot. Control of water at Great Falls affects the Potomac river below, along which are palisades exceeded only by those along the Hudson river.

Rep. Dempsey, who is chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, declared that the most important possible development of all is for waterways purposes. The Potomac, he asserted, may in the future be improved by a canal with the river, giving the midwest a river outlet to the sea.

This scheme was first originated by George Washington before he became the nation's Revolutionary hero and first president.

The bill as passed provides also for taking over of part of the Chesapeake and Potomac Canal, one of the earliest waterways of the nation.

Cooperation of Maryland and Virginia is anticipated in the bill, which provides that the states shall match the federal government's contribution. In addition the bill authorizes the expenditure of $16,000,000 in extending other park areas of the capital.

Hearings Are Held In Divorce Court

Testimony Taken Before Judges Hildebrand And Chambers At Court Today

Divorce court hearings are being held today before Judges P. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers, the hearings taking place in separate court rooms. In the case of Joseph O'Neil against Myrtle O'Neil, in which O'Neil asks for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty, he testified before Judge Chambers that his wife had once hit him on the head with a hammer. On another occasion she threw a dish at him, and on numerous occasions she had struck him with her fists and called him vile names. Mrs. O'Neil did not contest the case.

Other cases scheduled before Judge Chambers were as follows: Charles L. Pile against Albert S. Pile, cruelty; Stephen Sayer against Sallie Sayer, desertion; Lucy Curry against Harry Curry, indignities; Wiera Kuhn against Harlan Kuhn, desertion; Emma Ward against Sigbee Ward, cruelty; Genevieve A. Hartzell against John M. Hartzell, desertion. Several cases scheduled before Judge Chambers had to be continued owing to the illness of Attorney Samuel L. Clark, who is confined to his home with tonsillitis.

Cases before Judge Hildebrand were as follows: Joseph Jarvis against Lela Jarvis, desertion; Albert T. Hull against Mary B. Hull, desertion; I. Simbaldi against Ines Simbaldi, desertion; Jennie Lattavo against Nicholas Lattavo, desertion; Mary Norris against J. D. Norris, cruelty; Lillie Coons against Al Coons Jr., desertion; Naomi Murphy against Fred J. Murphy, indignities; Annabelle Kirkwood against John W. Kirkwood, cruelty; Funkhouser against Funkhouser, desertion; and William C. Guyton against Irene C. Guyton.

English dress reform enthusiast has appeared in a costume which includes socks, shorts, shoes and a shirt without a collar button. It seems to us that's carrying matters a bit far, just a bit far, old thing. We can follow in the matter of socks, shorts and shoes, but a shirt without a collar button! That looks like unnecessary exposure.

Shoots Self With Shotgun

Colored Woman In Hospital Suffering With Severe Wounds

Mrs. Louis Malcolm, colored, aged 19, of 632 Forrest street, is in a seriously wounded condition at the New Castle hospital. The wound was self-inflicted with a single-barrel 20 gauge shotgun. She is not in the region of the stomach. The cause of the attempt to end her life is not known to the authorities at this time. At the hospital this morning it was stated that Mrs. Malcolm was doing as well as could be expected and that she had some slight chance of recovery.

The shooting occurred Thursday afternoon in the bedroom of the Malcolm home. Mrs. Malcolm was alone at the time and after shooting herself walked downstairs and into the front room of the home of Mrs. Mary Giaccone in the other half of the building, a double house, where she collapsed to the floor.

As she fell Mrs. Malcolm said to Mrs. Giaccone, "Tell mother I shot myself." The parents and husband of the young woman were called, also the police, and she was hurried to the New Castle hospital, where she was given badly needed treatment in an effort to save her life.

Officers Longstreth and Criswell made the trip to the home and secured the shotgun with which the attempt was made; also a loaded shell which was found under the pillow of the bed. Detective Logan and Officer Thompson visited the hospital.

Somerset County Men Will Go On Trial Next Week

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31.—Three hundred criminal cases, headed by that involving Judge Ben E. Berkoy and others of Somerset county charged with conspiracy and a retrial of the McKeesport rum ring case, are scheduled for trial at the special two weeks session of the federal court beginning here next Monday, according to the lists in the office of United States Attorney Louis E. Graham.

A third case attracting attention is that against Moody Champ, a former lieutenant of police in Wilmerding, charged with interfering with federal prohibition agents last April when they raided a grocery store in that borough.

The McKeesport rum case comes up again with the retrial of eight defendants, mostly McKeesport police officers, on whose innocence or guilt the jury was unable to agree in the recently held trial.

The Somerset case, involving Edward Farr, chief of county detectives as well as the former judge, whose term expired January 6, follows the indictment of 18 Somerset county citizens and officials charged with buying and selling protection for bootleggers.

Old Joe Grundy Unique Exception As Lobbyist, Caraway Discovers

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—To hear Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway tell it, one would think putting a match to a bunch of currency was only the second silliest way of getting rid of money—that the 100 per cent silliest way was to spend it on lobbyists in an effort to influence congressional legislation.

The Arkansas senator doubtless is right as to money spent on the sort of lobbyists his investigating committee has had most of its fun with recently.

What he evidently forgot is that the lobbyists who did furnish him and his fellow inquirers with an amount of entertainment were far from kind who had no more sense than to be caught which, in itself, was sufficient proof that they were not very slick lobbyists.

True, as someone is sure to remark, old Joe Grundy was one of the "way committee" witnesses—and old Joe is a smooth article. If ever there was one.

Indeed yes, but the committee had no fun with old Joe. Old Joe had run with the committee.

Ordinary rules do not apply to old Joe Grundy, anyway.

The type of lobbyists concerning whom Senator Caraway speaks so scornfully really are not worth a penny. They even lack the acumen to cover up their own tracks and avoid smearing everything up with thumbprints. High class lobbyists are too clever to be recognized as lobbyists; otherwise they could not properly be described as high class lobbyists. Inasmuch as Senator Caraway himself cannot spot them for what they are, how can he tell how much influence they are exercising?—they may be influencing him, for all he knows.

Old Joe, however, was in a group all his own as a lobbyist—until three or four weeks ago, when Governor Fisher wished a toga onto him and he became Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania.

Certainly Senator Caraway will not say that old Joe's lobbying failed of results; the tariff list is full of them.

Old Joe was as far superior of lobbyists below him is superior too footmarks and thumbprints. He rather liked to have folk recognize his handwork in fact. He was proud of it.

T. H. CARAWAY

JOSEPH A. GRUNDY

Yes, old Joe was an exception.

There is the lumbering breed of lobbyists who ought to operate under cover, but can't learn how and are caught, such as Senator Caraway refers to.

There are the really crafty lobbyists who perfectly appreciate that they need to keep under cover and whom

Senator Caraway neglects to take into consideration.

And there was old Joe Grundy, who could easily have kept under cover had he chosen, but was so good that he did not have to.

Old Joe, hearing that a senate lobby committee was doing some investigating, decided that he would enjoy being investigated; so he called in and insisted on it.

The joke finally was on him, in a way; for the committee investigated him into the senate.

Old Joe did not want to be a senator. He had far more important work to attend to as a lobbyist, but he made such a hit under investigation that there was no escape for him. Pennsylvania would not take "no" for an answer.

But that was an accident, same as being run over by an automobile, which is liable to happen to anyone, no matter how foxy.

Well, all lobbyists cannot be old Joe Grundy. To be exact, it seems unlikely that anyone else ever can.

Nevertheless, there are some pretty cute ones, who fully understand that they cannot stand the limelight as old Joe could and are plenty sly enough to keep out of it.

They are not numerous; are not the common herd.

The ones who can readily be identified as lobbyists are n. g., practically without exception. Just as Senator asserts they are. The worth while folk are the sort it would not do, for a minute, to mention in any such connection.

To determine how much lobbying is unadulterated hokey, and how much of it "takes" is like trying to estimate the amount of liquor in circulation.

It is easy to ascertain how much hooch is seized. But how much gets by the dry agents? Obviously that can only be pure guesswork. All it is possible to say confidently is that there appears to be considerable of it.

Even so with lobbying. Lobbying that actually shows is the bunk, precisely as Senator Caraway terms it. The lobbyist who delivers the goods is the lobbyist whom no one thinks of as a lobbyist. Consequently who can say just how much he delivers? The only answer is that he appears to do it—for some "interests"—in wholesale quantities.

Coal Police Trial At Franklin Nears Conclusion Today

Harold P. Watts, One Of Defendants Attacks Press Photographer

(International News Service) FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 31.—Further testimony for the defense in which denials that the alleged beating of John Borkowski by the three former coal and iron police on trial here for manslaughter in the death of the Tyre miner-farmer caused his death is scheduled for today in Venango county court here.

Yesterday the commonwealth rested its case against Walter J. Lyster, Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapikas, after testimony from eye-witnesses that the first two named cruelly beat Borkowski at the Imperial Barracks of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and at the man's home where he is alleged to have resisted arrest.

Watts took the stand in his own defense and breaking somewhat under cross examination by Assistant District Attorney of Allegheny county Roy Clunk, admitted that he had struck Borkowski "several times." He resented, apparently, the cross questioning on how the trigger of his revolver became bent. He said that it dropped on a concrete floor while the commonwealth contended that it had been twisted by the fierceness of the blows alleged to have been indicted with it on the body of Borkowski.

Photographer Attacked

Seemingly carrying his resentment to the outside of the courthouse, Watts attacked a photographer of a Pittsburgh newspaper who attempted to photograph Watts as he left the building with his family. His father assisted him in the attack and the Watts were fined a total of $53.45 when Sheriff Voorhees of Venango county placed them under arrest. Watts counsel in the manslaughter trial refused to defend him in the assault charges.

The taking of testimony is expected to end today, with a night session indicated if necessary.

The three defendants were acquitted in the Allegheny county court last September of a charge of murder in the same death. The case came here when defense counsel appealed to the supreme court that a fair trial was impossible in Allegheny county because of public feeling against their clients.

Pennsylvania Boy To Direct Forest Research Work

Willis M. Baker, Native Of Warren, Pa., Appointed To Supervise Task

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—The appointment of Willis M. Baker as Director of the Pennsylvania Forest Research Institute at Mont Alto in Franklin County has just been announced by the State Department of Forests and Waters.

Mr. Baker is at present Associate State Forester of New Jersey with headquarters in the State House at Trenton. He is Chairman of the Allegheny Section of the Society of American Foresters, the membership of which includes professional foresters of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. He is the author of numerous publications, the latest of which is "Forestry for Profit," a book which has received wide distribution and favorable comment from conservationists throughout the United States.

Mr. Baker is a native of Warren, Pennsylvania, born on April 4, 1892. He graduated from Pennsylvania State College in forestry in 1914. From 1914 to 1917 he served as Forest Assistant with the U. S. Forest Service in the National Forests in Arizona. In 1917 he was appointed Assistant Forester of New Jersey and in 1922 became Associate State Forester. During his work as Associate State Forester of New Jersey he has devoted a great deal of time to forest research work, and State forest administration projects.

The Pennsylvania Forest Research Institute is unique in that it is the only one of its kind maintained by a State Department of Forestry in the United States. It is true that forest research studies have been conducted by the Department of Forests and Waters for the past twenty years, but not until the past year has this work been coordinated as special study projects with headquarters at Mont Alto. The administration of 1,500,000 acres of State forest land presents countless problems that can only be answered through research, and it is believed that a purposeful program of forest research studies will be of material benefit in the development of a successful and sound forestry program for Pennsylvania.

PUBLIC ASSISTS STATE MOVE TO CURB DIPHTHERIA

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—"Recent reports from the bureau of vital statistics continue to be encouraging relative to a steady reduction of the death and sickness rates in diphtheria," said Dr. J. Bruce McCreary, deputy secretary of health, and chief of the bureau of child health, in a report submitted today to Secretary of Health Theodore B. Appel. "Increased efforts of the state health department and local health authorities throughout the commonwealth, coupled with the co-operation of physicians has been largely responsible for the present satisfactory situation," Dr. McCreary said. "Moreover, the public is now appreciating the benefit to be derived from toxoid-antitoxin as a lasting preventative against diphtheria. A recent survey shows that parents in every village and city as well as in the rural districts are demanding of their physicians and health officials that their children receive this protection."

"In addition, a noticeable interest on the part of the public as to quarantine measures has been developed in the last few years. Cases of diphtheria, for example, are more promptly reported and quarantine is more vigorously observed than ever before. Householders are not only willing to follow instructions but are insisting that they be carried out by those of their neighbors who have a quarantined case within their homes."

Concluding, Dr. McCreary said "The value of antitoxin in sufficiently large doses as a control of the disease when it has been diagnosed as such is of undoubted value if administered early. The three cardinal factors in diphtheria control are: First, early curative doses of antitoxin when the disease occurs; second, strict observance of quarantine regulations; third, toxoid-antitoxin to all well children as a preventative measure against it."

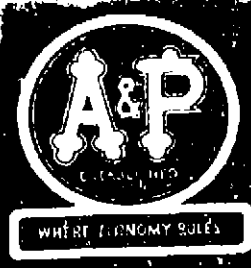

State Of Inebriety Is Indiana Police Worry

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31.—Police officers here are in need of an inebriety gauge. Those vulgar terms "slightly mellowed," "plastered," "fried," and "blasted" have become in daily use at the police department.

Jerry E. Kiser, new chief of police, has ordered that whenever a person is arrested for drunkenness the arresting officer must specify in his report how drunk the arrested person was.

In addition to the degree of intoxication, the officers also must set down on the arrest slip the actions of the inebriate. The arrest slip also must contain full description of the amount and kind of liquor seized so as to insure against future shrinkage.

WE ALL NEED THEM

West Point cadets are going to have mirrors installed in the riding hall in order that they may see how they look on horseback. The superintendent of the military academy asks congress for funds. He says a young rider must "get an idea of what he is doing."

"Sometimes," he said, "you can tell him about it but he cannot see it himself very well."

Too bad we all don't have more mirrors. Or perhaps it would discourage us if we did. If people could see more often how they look wearing certain things and doing certain things they might use better judgment. Mirrors are important.

It is said that a substance has been discovered which will render carbon monoxide harmless. It is carbon monoxide in the automobile exhaust which is deadly. Former Governor Alfred E. Smith gave some good advice over the radio when he asked his hearers to "become acquainted with your representative in the legislature and correspond with him—and vote."

To most of us the names of the men who represent us in the state legislature are not even known. If they are known, they are merely names. It is the duty of a citizen not merely to vote but to KNOW the men who act for him. It is the only way to good government.

John A. Dix was a New York broker ten years ago. He quit Wall Street to study art. He recently exhibited paintings in his home town—New York. One wonders if there are not other men immersed in business, chasing elusive dollars, who wish they had the nerve to quit and do what they really want to do.

John Dix, exhibiting his paintings, will be envied by men in and out of Wall Street who wish they, too, had quit to study art.

YOUNG LADY IS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER KONJOLA

Says New Medicine Promptly Relieved Stubborn Stomach Ailment.

MISS GERTRUDE CHRISTEL

"My stomach gave me a great deal of trouble for over four years," said Miss Gertrude Christel, Y. W. C. A., Lancaster, Pa. "My food never digested properly and I was forming in my stomach after meals, bringing me a great deal of pain. I was a constant sufferer from constipation and indigestion, nervous prostration and protracted periods. I was so upset my system that I was unable to eat any longer. I was in a nervous condition. I found myself in a badly run down condition. Finally a girl friend who had been cured by the use of Konjola, persuaded me to try it. My digestion improved from the very beginning. I now eat what I wish without discomfort or inconvenience. I am no longer troubled with constipation and nervous headaches. My whole system has been built up and improved wonderfully since I began taking this wonderful medicine. Konjola is sold by Love and McGowan, Inc., Philadelphia, 204 E. Washington Street, this city."

opera club, will begin work next week on the opera "Mikado."

Professor Davis announced also that membership in the club is not limited to vocal students in the conservatory. Many students in the college who are taking no vocal work are already enrolled. Individual attention will be given to the singing of each member of the club, so membership in the new organization practically amounts to private instruction in singing.

Miss Agnes Martin, instructor in public school music, will assist Professor Davis in the direction of the opera club. A number of student managers and costumers will also be provided for the production of the opera.

Juniors To Repeat "The Cat And Canary"

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 31.—The junior class of Westminster will repeat the production of "The Cat and the Canary," three-act mystery play, in the local community house next Thursday evening, February 6, according to an announcement by Professor A. T. Cordray, director.

The juniors presented this play in December, but townspeople did not have an opportunity of seeing it since there was a quarantine at the time. In all probability, special invitations for high school students will be given Thursday afternoon.

Miss Dorothy Atwood, Sharon, will again take the leading role in the play. She will be supported by the same cast who played in the first presentation in December.

Tulsa Woman Is Good Traffic Cop

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 31.—Tulsa recently had a self appointed female traffic cop and she proved to know her onions, so to speak. Miss Margaret Mayo had just taken her brothers to school when she noticed a dozen or more automobiles stalled on a slippery hill. She realized that other cars, unable to see the traffic mixer, as they approached the intersection of Fairview on Osage avenue, would be unable to avoid sliding into the congestion of motor cars. So she stepped out and re-routed the traffic like a regular cop. The owners of the congested automobiles agree as one to the fact that Miss Mayo is a real traffic cop, even if she is a lady.

The pens in the post office department state that it's still possible for those who won't work to hold a Government job.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

WE ALL NEED THEM

West Point cadets are going to have mirrors installed in the riding hall in order that they may see how they look on horseback. The superintendent of the military academy asks congress for funds. He says a young rider must "get an idea of what he is doing."

Too bad we all don't have more mirrors. Or perhaps it would discourage us if we did. If people could see more often how they look wearing certain things and doing certain things they might use better judgment. Mirrors are important.

A REAL DISCOVERY

It is said that a substance has been discovered which will render carbon monoxide harmless. It is carbon monoxide in the automobile exhaust which is deadly. All the inventions and discoveries which affect motor cars cannot be looked at and admired as one looks at a new engine or a shiny fender or a vanity case in the limousine. The chemical laboratory worker may do more for the motorist than the motor or body builder.

SMITH'S GOOD ADVICE

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith gave some sound advice over the radio when he asked his hearers to "become acquainted with your representative in the legislature and correspond with him—and vote."

To most of us the names of the men who represent us in the state legislature are not even known. If they are known, they are merely names. It is the duty of a citizen not merely to vote but to KNOW the men who act for him. It is the only way to good government.

Abolishing Of Fence Law Has Made Great Change In Appearance Of New Castle

(By JANET KISSINGER)

Twenty years have made a great difference in regard to the fencing of properties. Years ago, rarely was a rural or town property without a fence of some sort around it.

This was not just a fad of the period.

When the writer inquired of James Cunningham, of 415 Court street, he explained it as follows:

"Within my memory, as well as that of the older ones of today, the law required all property owners in both city and country places to provide fences to keep livestock from trespassing. In other words, property owners were compelled to build fences to protect themselves against other people's cattle."

"The result was that every farm that could claim the name, was well fenced and every town property was enclosed. This law also covered railroad right of way. In various places, fences can still be seen although the law was annulled fifty or more years ago. There was a good reason for such a law back there, before present day transportation facilities, for large droves of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, hogs and even turkeys were driven to market along the public highways and through the town streets, before the railroads were built or while they were yet in their infancy. To drive through on foot was therefore the only way to market and it can easily be imagined what would happen to wheat, corn, and other growing crops in the rural districts and to the lawns and gardens in the towns, had there been no fences."

For a long time property owners did not consider the law as unjust, but accepted and complied with the same as it was the common law and worked both ways, for livestock sometimes broke out of the pasture fields or by some other means got away from their owners. Such animals might break through a weak fence and damage crops but more than likely were confined to roaming about along the highway until discovered and driven home. Almost every family in town kept one or more cows in a barn built on the place and quite often these cows were turned out to run at large to graze along the streets and alleys or go through some open gate to feed on the fine lawn grass and growing garden. The "town cattle" were usually driven away to pasture on some neighboring farm, each morning and brought back in the evening.

There were various kinds of fences. Some were made of stones gathered from the fields by the farmers. For many years the popular fence was built of rails split from the virgin timber and chestnut rails were considered the better kind for fence building.

Some of the zigzag fences are still in existence. Barb wire fencing has largely taken the place of the rail fence. At the present time many farms are without fences about fields of growing crops, but usually fences are maintained about the woods and fields used as pasture lands. In the towns, fences were made of boards running horizontally from post to post and were five or more feet high. These were called board fences. Then the picket fence was a very neat and popular wooden fence, for enclosing lawns.

Many of the better properties were enclosed by iron fences, some of which are still in use. The Kurz and Boyles properties on East Washington street are enclosed with iron fences.

It was a great saving to all property owners when the fencing law was abolished and instead of property owners being compelled to provide expensive fences to protect themselves from the depredations of livestock, the owners of livestock were required by law to keep their animals confined and not permit them to run at large.

Years ago, a common sight was men working with green timber and burning brush out in the open. There is a certain tang in the air that is as pleasant as the aroma of coffee and frying ham in the nostrils of a hungry man.

"I am glad times have changed," says Mr. Cunningham. "I was raised on a farm near Harrisburg and knew what it is to fell trees and cut them up into fence rails and firewood."

Rockefeller Says Good Character Important Thing

(International News Service) NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 30.—Obedience to law, integrity, clean living and loyalty are the basis of true character, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., declared in answer to a request of "The Yale News" to give his opinion on "The Management of life."

"In this money making age we do well to remind ourselves that after all the real purpose of our existence is not to make a living but to make a life—a worthy, well rounded and useful life," he said.

"Character is the foundation of successful business," he added.

been introduced it has met with tremendous success. All Ten Herbs needs is a public test—and a great demand follows, as it is a great boon to men and women whom modern life has led to various forms of debility—stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, nervousness and a general weak, run-down condition. Help yourself to health—get a bottle of Ten Herbs at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where this famous compound is being introduced.

"Ten Herbs proved to be the proper medicine for me when I was troubled with my stomach and with nervousness," was the recent statement of Miss Hazel Pryor, 330 Arch Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. "My sister also was greatly benefited by Ten Herbs, and we both praise your medicine very highly. I had been troubled with constipation for nearly five years. Although I tried all kinds of laxatives, I did not get proper relief. My appetite was poor, and food would not digest properly. Gas crowded around my heart, making me feel distressed after eating. I had headaches for hours at a time. My nerves were so troublesome that I did not rest well at night, and I felt depressed and out of sorts when I awoke in the morning."

"My sister induced me to try Ten Herbs, and it worked fine for me. My stomach is in good condition again, and I relish my food. I can eat what I like without having gas or any other distress. I am not subject to headaches, nervousness, or sleeplessness like I was. Constipation has been relieved. Your medicine worked wonders in cleansing and toning up my system, and as a result I feel in good spirits all the time. I am pleased to endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

The amazing results Ten Herbs often gives is due to its ten wonderful natural ingredients, which cleanse and invigorate the whole system, and relieve rheumatism and neuritis. This modern liquid medicine is helping many local people and why not you?

Ten Herbs is being introduced at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, and is sold by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Students Are Being Taught Immorality

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Professors "with foreign names" are teaching immorality in American colleges, Maj. Gen. Amos S. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, told the Women's Patriotic Conference for National Defense.

Citing as an example the questionnaire issued to students of the University of Missouri as a part of a psychology course, Fries read the following question:

"Would you, under suitable conditions, indulge in extra-marital relations?"

"That question," Fries declared, raising his voice almost to a shout, "is an insult to every American home."

Several hundred women delegates vigorously applauded his condemnation of it.

Girl Too Fat, Kills Herself

Brooklyn Girl 235 Pounds Takes Her Life By Inhaling Poison Gas Fumes

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Ashamed of her obesity and dependent over her inability to reduce, Maria Busacca, 19-year-old New York University freshman took her life in the gas-filled kitchen of her Brooklyn home here.

Maria, according to her mother, had worried greatly over the fact that she weighed 235 pounds and was unable to lose weight by dieting or exercise.

The girl was an exceptional student. She graduated from the Englewood, N. J., high school last June with honors.

(International News Service) STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Jan. 31.—Chicken blood transfusion does not appeal to Dr. Edwin William Schultz, Stanford University bacteriologist. Expressing his opinion of the chicken blood transfusion performed in Lincoln, Neb., recently, to save the life of a boy critically ill with pneumonia, Dr. Schultz said:

"I should certainly hate to have chicken blood running through my cerebral circulatory system, as the corpses in a chicken's blood are considerably larger than those in a human's."

The procedure followed is not new. Dr. Schultz said, except that chicken blood is a new form of foreign protein to be used.

The possible value of such a treatment is that it may increase the body temperature, and a fever has curative effects on the disease.

Indiana County To Plant Many Trees

(International News Service) HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 31.—A number of equivalent to ten per cent of all the trees planted in the United States last year will be planted in Lake County, Indiana, this spring through the efforts of Frank S. Betz, retired Hammond capitalist, who is devoting his time, money and efforts toward furthering a reforestation program throughout the country.

Betz has induced five bank presidents in Hammond, Gary, East Chicago, Indiana Harbor, and Whiting to cooperate with him in distributing 6,225,000 Evergreen tree seeds to the public and parochial school children of Lake county on Arbor Day, April 18.

The scope of this enterprise is indicated in the fact that only 68,000,000 trees were planted throughout the country last year.

Ban Gifts For Mental Patients

Recent Tragedy Results In Request By Mental Health Head

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—Dr. William C. Sandy, director of the bureau of mental health in the State Department of Welfare, asked public cooperation in the effort of authorities to prevent articles of any kind being given to mental patients in hospitals. Despite the vigilance of the attendants, matches, knives, scissors, medicines and even food have been found in the possession of mental patients after the visits of relatives or friends. A recent tragedy in one of the State owned hospitals brings out more poignantly the need for care in the matter of bringing articles to mental patients, Dr. Sandy asserted. He pointed out that the State owned mental hospitals are not penal institutions but operated as hospitals under modern methods of mental disease treatment. It is therefore difficult to see that no articles are smuggled in to patients. Dr. Sandy said that the patients known to have mental tendencies are closely watched and searched after a visit and where it is expedient and possible, the visitors are limited to those friends and relatives known to be responsible. The actual visit to the patient is also under supervision of a nurse or attendant, but even then it is possible for articles to be smuggled in, which in the hands of some mental patients, may prove dangerous to themselves or others. "The recent case which caused the death of a physician indicates what can happen even though the patient is not regarded as criminally inclined nor under sentence of a court," Dr. Sandy said. "There is also the fact that supervision is made difficult by the fact that the mental hospitals are no longer the antiquated type of asylum where patients were kept under custodial care. In the modern mental hospital the inmates are undergoing treatment in many cases with good chances for recovery. Not only can others be harmed but the treatment of a patient and his chances for recovery can be completely neutralized by the smuggling of improper food and medicines which do not fit his particular needs in any way, Dr. Sandy concluded.

Reynolds Sees Auto Plates Made In Penitentiary

Shown Through Institution When He Delivers Prisoners From Lawrence County

There are at present 1902 prisoners in the Western Penitentiary, of whom 500 are unemployed, according to Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds who was shown through the institution yesterday when John D. Seavers and Steve Garlich were delivered to the prison authorities. Reynolds said that he was surprised at the bill of fare which is enjoyed by the prisoners. Among the things which Reynolds saw being manufactured were blankets, clothing of different kinds and automobile plates. All of the automobile plates used in Pennsylvania are made at the Western Penitentiary. The work is practically all done by machinery with prisoners looking after the different processes. Large sheet iron plates are fed into a machine which cuts them in the proper size for plates. The plates are carried on conveyors to men who punch the holes in them. Then they are sent to another machine which crimps the edges. Another machine stamps the figures and letters. They are then dipped in paint and are carried to a drying room. When they come from the drying room the coloring of the letters is put on and they are dried. Plates are made very rapidly, the process being continuous from the time the sheet iron is fed into the machine until the finished plate comes out.

Shop Around For Mate, Divorce Jurist Urges

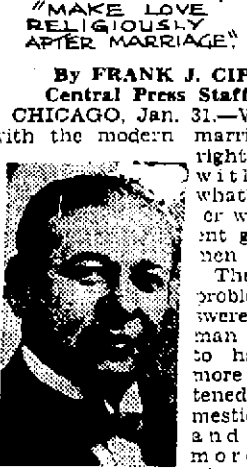

By FRANK J. CIPRIANI, Central Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—What's wrong with the modern marriage, which is right and wrong with divorce, what's the matter with the present generation of men and women? These human problems are answered by the man who is said to have granted more divorces, listened to more domestic tragedies, and a judge who has more embittered wives and husbands than any man else in the world. He is Judge Joseph Sabath, international authority on divorce, and regarded by some as the world's dean of divorce judges. He has already signed more than 42,000 decrees. Optimistic Outlook For a decade, streams of disillusioned men and women, carrying tales of woe and shattered dreams, have filed into Judge Sabath's "Temple of Ruined Romances" to be freed of matrimonial fetters. Some come eagerly, some flippantly, and some sorrowfully. Some are reconciled, but most depart free. More than one judge has broken down under the terrific strain imposed in the divorce court, but not Judge Sabath. He's even optimistic, and believes marriage is stronger than divorce. "The trouble is not, perhaps, so much with divorce as with marriage," he says. "Hasty marriages mean more divorces." Here are a few Sabath aphorisms: "Shop for your wife or husband as you would for a suit or a dress." "Make love religiously after marriage to your wife or husband." "Don't wait for a fortune before marrying. Your wife's your fortune." "Marry for love, not alimony." "Know your spouse before, not after marriage." "Divorce in haste, repent at leisure." In this article Judge Sabath reveals his views on pre-marriage requisites. First of all, young men and women should thoroughly understand one another before marriage, he points out. "In a comparative sense, young people should shop for their mates much as they would for dresses or suits," said Judge Sabath. "A girl buying a dress goes from store to store before making a purchase. A man seldom buys a suit at the first tailor store he enters. Why should not similar care be exercised in seeking a mate? My advice is: Shop for your wife or husband as you would for a suit or a dress." "No one should enter into marriage contract simply for a thrill. The awakening is generally tragic. Young people should look upon marriage as something sacred and permanent, not as a convenience or a meal ticket. Their courtship should acquaint them with one another, their habits, customs and temperament. They should take their parents into their confidence. "Children in the eighth grade of grammar school, not intending to attend high school, should be instructed by teachers, men for boys, women for girls, on marital responsibilities. Those going to high school should receive a course in the fourth year. The course should be on the preservation of the home. Ages for Marriage "Traditionally, bridge players even carriers, receive some sort of apprenticeship, or at least are 'educated' into their trade, before being pronounced qualified. Why not so with marriage? Why should there not be a course on marriage in the schools? Girls, Judge Sabath, should be wives at 20 or 21 years, when their formative life is still in progress. Men should marry not later than 23 or 25, and in no case should there be marriages of "December and May." Girls should never marry for money if they value happiness. True love is the only basis, declares the learned jurist, for a successful marriage that will endure until death "do us part." (The second article, tomorrow, will deal with divorce, and a way to prevent its increase, as suggested by Judge Sabath.)

Damage Suits Filed In Munhall Result Of Serious Blast

Munhall Post Office Blast Victim Files Two Suits Asking Half Million

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31.—Two damage suits for a total of $500,000 have been filed in common pleas court here by George W. Thirkell, a victim of the Munhall Post Office explosion in which he was injured and his wife killed. One of the suits, for $250,000, is against the Equitable Gas company and Arthur E. Braun and the Colonial Trust company, representing the property owners. The others, for a like amount, is against the John Munhall Estate, owners of the building. Thirkell and his wife lived in the apartment above the building wrecked by the explosion and were at home when it occurred. The bill of complaints alleges that a hole in the gas main had not been properly repaired and that the leakage therefrom caused the explosion. The gas company knew of the condition but failed to remedy it, the suit alleges.

JUDGE JOSEPH SABATH

Electric Device Will Give Hearing To Deaf Persons

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—The deaf may now hear through their sense of touch by a new electric device invented by Dr. Robert H. Gault, research professor of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. The professor explained to a group of scientists in an address at the Franklin Institute here. Dr. Gault has named his device the "teletactor." The "teletactor" will not only enable deaf persons to understand spoken language but will permit them to catch the inflection of words now denied them by their afflictions. The device enables deaf persons to read the lips of speakers 30 per cent more accurately, Dr. Gault told his audience. It consists of a highly sensitive soundbox with indentations for the fingers and thumb of one hand of the deaf person. The fingers thus pick up the vibrations caused by the sounds entering the ear or horn of the instrument.

Chicago Police Hunt Gangster

Gangster Ordered Arrested In Connection With Slaying Taxi Men

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Police spread a city-wide dragnet today for Robert Schmidt, reputed gangster, whose arrest has been ordered in connection with the murder of Barney J. Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker cab company, and George Jackson, his chauffeur. The two men were slain yesterday in Jackson's cab when Mitchell was returning home from an all night champagne party of Checker company officials. Schmidt, Lieut. John McGinnis said in ordering his arrest, was reputed to have been employed by an officer of the Checker organization. McGinnis refused to say what evidence he holds. Schmidt's police record has three linked him with Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, brother of Robert McLaughlin, Checker president at whose home the champagne party was held. Police believe the assassins lay in wait to kill all the departing guests, but Mitchell was the only one who left, the rest remaining until dawn.

Westfield Will Have Young People's Day

Sunday Services To Be Devoted To The Younger Generation Of The Congregation

Special young people's service will be observed in the Westfield Presbyterian church Sunday at 11 a. m. The general theme of the service is "Sharing" and there will be special music. A section of the church has been reserved for the young people to sit in a body. Rev. Ross M. Haverfield, pastor, will have the service in charge and expects all the young people to support this service and share in the spiritual good that will come of it. Guy Fullerton, superintendent of the Sunday school has planned a special program for 12:15 p. m., immediately preceding the Bible study period. The Christian Endeavor will also have an anniversary meeting at 8 o'clock with Wilda Fullerton as leader. This is in commemoration of the founding of the young people's organization. The Worth While circle of the church has been invited as special guests at the evening program. Chicago police have just about given up the attempt to make pedestrians cross at crossings. Evidently they can't control jay-walking any better than they can control gun-toting.

Special singing was given by a group of five men and women from the Valley Way Mission. The young persons went to the altar. There will be services tonight, Saturday night and Sunday night. Sunday night will be the last chance local people will hear Rev. Whitecotton.

Shop Around For Mate, Divorce Jurist Urges

By FRANK J. CIPRIANI
Central Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—What's wrong with the modern marriage, what's right and wrong with divorce, what's the matter with the present generation of men and women? These human problems are answered by the man who is said to have granted more divorces, listened to more domestic tragedies, and rebuffed more recalcitrant wives and husbands than any one else in the world. He is Judge Joseph Sabath, international authority on divorce, and regarded by some as the world's dean of divorce judges. He has already signed more than 42,000 decrees.

Optimistic Outlook
For a decade, streams of disillusioned men and women, carrying tales of woe and shattered dreams, have filed into Judge Sabath's "Temple of Ruined Romances" to be freed of matrimonial fetters. Some come eagerly, some flippantly, and some sorrowfully. Some are reconciled, but most depart free.

More than one judge has broken down under the terrific strain imposed in the divorce court, but not Judge Sabath. He's even optimistic, and believes marriage is stronger than divorce.

"The trouble is not, perhaps, so much with divorce as with marriage," says Judge Sabath. "Hasty marriages mean more divorces." Here are a few Sabath aphorisms: "Shop for your wife or husband as you would for a suit or a dress." "Make love religiously after marriage to your wife or husband." "Don't wait for a fortune before marrying. Your wife's your fortune." "Marry for love, not alimony." "Know your spouse before, not after marriage." "Divorce in haste, repent at leisure." In this article Judge Sabath re-

Chicago Police Hunt Gangster

Gangster Ordered Arrested In Connection With Slaying Taxi Men

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Police spread a city-wide dragnet today for Robert Schmidt, reputed gangster, whose arrest has been ordered in connection with the murder of Barney J. Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Taxi-cab company, and George Jackson, his chauffeur.

The two men were slain yesterday in Jackson's cab when Mitchell was returning home from an all night champagne party of Checker company officials.

Schmidt, Lieut. John McGinnis said in ordering his arrest, was reputed to have been employed by an officer of the Checker organization. McGinnis refused to say what evidence he holds.

Schmidt's police record has thrice linked him with Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, brother of Robert McLaughlin, Checker president at whose home the champagne party was held. Police believe the assassins lay in wait to kill all the departing guests, but Mitchell was the only one who left, the rest remaining until dawn.

Scouts Get Jobs In National Park

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Sixty Eagle Scouts from all over the country will gather next summer at Glacier National Park to continue the Scout custom of trail-building initiated in 1925, the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior said. In 1925 there were only nineteen Eagle Scouts employed. The trip the following year was cancelled because of forest fires. The next year twenty-five Scouts were sent to work in the St. Mary Lake region of the park. In 1928 the work was contin-

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Always Make Sentence Definite

"Go to your room, Gussie, till you are done crying." Gussie goes and there he howls like a maniac. After about three minutes he comes out crying, "I don't." He has finished for this time but a new offense may land Gustavus in the room again within a day.

Herbert and Mabel have been quarreling when Mabel is told to sit in a chair because she had hit Herbert. Little Mabel slides into the chair and in about a minute she calls her mother to her, "I won't do it again, mother, I'll be good," and the child is pardoned.

In both instances the amount of punishment was dependent upon the child's conduct while he was "under sentence." All Gustavus needed to do was to go to his room until he had finished weeping. He could howl as often as he liked and be as much of a nuisance as he pleased so long as he fulfilled this formula. For him it was very simple. Gustavus' mother cannot understand why this punishment so rarely lasts. If she had told him to stay in his room, say, 20 minutes, regardless of how he ceased to howl, she soon might have got results.

Little Mabel had very early training in diplomacy. Her punishment was indefinite and doubtless ineffective. She proved to herself that her mother was very easily managed. Some little children wear their clothes out sliding into and out of chairs, each time making a personal appeal to the punisher, with the whole experience more or less an emotional scene.

Don't resort to such punishment. Sentence the child to the chair if you think it wise to do so. (As a rule it is a good type of punishment.) But always make the sentence definite; never indeterminate. Let nothing about the child's conduct while he is taking the punishment reduce the sentence. Tell him he must sit there, say, 15 minutes by the clock. Set the clock down before him. If he is too young to read time show him where the hand must be when he may get down. No argument. No explanation. It is final.

Treated so the child will learn to accept his punishment like a philosopher and it will be effective. He will consider it impersonal. Any child has much more respect for a clock than for his parent's whims. "Sit there for 10 minutes" is a thousand times better than "sit there till I tell you to get down." When you say the latter, you imply that his punishment depends upon your feelings, and it does. The clock has no feelings. It does not wobble.

As soon as you have trained the child to keep himself in a certain place when commanded to, then make every punishment as definite as possible and see it through. No cries, no pleas, no promises must interfere. Only when you have discovered he had not done the thing for which the punishment was given should there be any change of plans, if you want to get best results, to the end that the child shall accept the punishment as fair and final and shall need less punishment in the future.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Recognizing that single persons, by reason of the care and support of others, are entitled to consideration, the law provides that the "head of a family" shall be allowed the same personal exemption granted a married person. $3,500. The head of a family is defined by regulation relating to the income tax as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Several factors are involved in determining whether a taxpayer is to be thus classified. In maintaining the home and providing for the dependent individual or individuals, the taxpayer's right to exercise family control must be based on some moral or legal obligation. The element of either legal or financial dependency must exist. A taxpayer who has minor children is legally liable for their support. If he supports and exercises family control over them, even though they have an income of their own sufficient for their support and maintenance, he is classified as the head of a family. If he does not support them, however, but does exercise family control, the common home being maintained, he can not be classified as the head of a family.

If by reason of illness or absence on account of business the taxpayer and dependents are separated, the common home being maintained and the taxpayer furnishing the support, the exemption as head of a family is allowed. Moreover, if a taxpayer does not maintain a common home but the dependents are at school or supported with relatives, or in a boarding house, while he lives elsewhere, the exemption is still allowed. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family.

For income tax purposes, there can be only one head of a family. The exemption can not be divided.

Future Fly Swatters

I have long been advocating the great need of fly-catching birds, nature's greatest and most efficient fly swatters, in both the press and on platform. Pleading with my brother farmers to allow the swallows to nest once more in their barns; without any apparent good results. But it has been impressed on me how small my influence is and of how little importance I am in this world. Some even looked at me in a sad, pitying way, as though they thought I would soon be inside the fence down at Dixon.

To make openings in the gables of many of our modern dairy barns (tuberculosis incubators) large enough for swallows to fly in and out, would do much good in allowing some of the foul air to escape. The writer has been familiar with tuberculosis in dairy cattle for 40 years and is willing to assert that if all the dairy barns of the state had been as well lighted and ventilated as they should have been, our present costly campaign to eradicate tuberculosis with all its attendant graft would be as unnecessary and out of place as an ironing machine at the North Pole. When cattle ran around straw stacks, tuberculosis among them was unknown.

My own swallows have been dwindling each year from causes I have stated in a previous article, until but

Do You Dread Pain After Eating?

Almost as bad as digestive pain itself is the anticipation of it; the knowledge that if you eat certain foods (save the ones you like best) pain and distress will surely follow. This feeling is as unnecessary as the pain itself, because you can prevent all possibility of digestive trouble, or, if the pain has already started, you can relieve it instantly by taking a little Bismuth. Bismuth—other powder or tablets in water after meals. This removes the cause of the trouble by neutralizing the excess stomach acid which is present when pain follows eating. You can get Bismuth Magnesia from the Graz Zep is a "tonic for years, the world over, for banishing digestive disorders.

I am going to try and replace my swallows with purple martins. Am going to provide colony homes this winter in the hope they will come and occupy them. Failing in this, I am going to try and import a few cliff swallows from the Far West, in the hope they will nest here and those that are hatched and raised here will return and abide with us. They were once quite common in this locality.

But first I want to try and interest our city bird lovers in purple martins. They do not object to town life, live exclusively on winged insects and are excellent fly swatters. Their principle drawback is they are rather noisy.

Like all wild bird life they are strongest and most vigorous when most numerous. How fine it would be for New Castle to have enough of them to keep the atmosphere comparatively free from noxious flies and winged pests, so they would overflow into the country and we could have them also. Would it not be fine if the Rotary Club would take it up and push it to a successful conclusion? It is certainly a worthwhile job; but too large for the few to carry to a successful termination. If I was a persuasive public speaker I would welcome the opportunity to try and interest so worthy an organization in a worthwhile matter like this.

ARTHUR WRIGHT.

Writer on aeronautics says the second visit of the Graz Zep is a "tonic to aviation." Aye, even Teutonic.

Yakima School Children Lead White Brothers

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Indian children of the Yakima Reservation in the state of Washington, who attend the same schools as white children, make better grades on an average than do their "white brothers," it was reported to the Department of the Interior by E. W. Estep, superintendent of the school.

Estep explained the figures are based on the representatives of each race, who, by making grades of 85 or above are placed on the honor roll. "There are fourteen Indian children and 116 whites on the honor roll," he declared. The total enrollment of white children in the schools covered by the report was 680 while the Indian children enrolled totaled 73. "This makes a higher per cent of Indian children on the honor roll than of white children," the report stated. "We do not claim that the Indian children are always ahead of the whites on the honor roll in this or any other school but there are always a number of them on the honor roll and as a class they are doing good work in the public schools," he continued. The old prejudice against the public schools is rapidly breaking down and many full-blooded Indians now realize that the public schools are the best schools for the children.

Parents Proud
"The parents are proud of the work their children do, not in all cases but in a rapidly increasing number of families."

On Honor Roll
"We still have parents wishing to send their children to some sort of boarding school for various reasons.

In some cases the distance from public schools is a legitimate reason. In other cases poverty or other home conditions require children be sent away to school."

Some enthusiastic broadcaster, talking from the top of the Lakeland tower Sunday evening, painted the sun in colors of "deep blue, red, gold, bronze, black and yellow." Evidently he was emotionally overwrought, because he omitted orange, beige, magenta and a few other tints.

When cattle ran around straw stacks, tuberculosis among them was unknown.

My own swallows have been dwindling each year from causes I have stated in a previous article, until but one lonesome pair returned from their southern hemisphere last spring. I suppose we will have to stand it and see them vanish as the wood pigeon and other species have done before. For it is evident my brother tillers of the soil are not going to help retain them. Though discouraged, I am not through, and will continue to preach the gospel of "More insect-eating birds," and especially the fly-catching species, when and wherever possible.

Do You Dread Pain After Eating?

Almost as bad as digestive pain itself is the anticipation of it; the knowledge that if you eat certain foods (always the ones you like best) pain and distress will surely follow. This feeling is as unnecessary as the pain itself, because you can prevent all possibility of digestive trouble, or, if the pain has already started, you can relieve it instantly by taking a little Bismarck—either powder or tablets in water after meals. This removes the cause of the trouble by neutralizing the excess stomach acid which is present when pain follows eating. You can get Bismarck Magnesia from any druggist. It is the safe, sure and speedy treatment used for years, the most effective for banishing digestive disorders.

I am going to try and replace my swallows with purple martins. Am going to provide colony houses, winter in the hope they will come and occupy them. Failing in this, I am going to try and import a few cliff swallows from the Far West, in the hope they will nest here and those that are hatched and raised here will return and abide with us. They were once quite common in this locality.

But first I want to try and interest our city bird lovers in purple martins. They do not object to town life, live exclusively on winged insects and are excellent fly swatters. Their principle drawback is they are rather noisy.

Like all wild bird life they are strongest and most vigorous when most numerous. How fine it would be for New Castle to have enough of them to keep the atmosphere comparatively free from noxious flies and winged pests; so they would overflow out into the country and we could have them also. Would it not be fine if the Rotary Club would take it up and push it to a successful conclusion? It is certainly a worthwhile job; but too large for the few to carry to a successful termination.

If I was a persuasive public speaker I would welcome the opportunity to try and interest so worthy an organization in a worthwhile matter like this.

Yakima School Children Lead White Brothers

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Indian children of the Yakima Reservation in the state of Washington, who attend the state schools as white children, make better grades on an average than do their "white brothers," it was reported to the Department of the Interior by E. W. Estep, superintendent of the school.

Estep explained the figures are based on the representatives of each race, who, by making grades of 85 or above are placed on the honor roll.

On Honor Roll
"There are fourteen Indian children and 116 whites on the honor roll," he declared. The total enrollment of white children in the schools covered by the report was 680 while the Indian children enrolled totaled 73. "This makes a higher per cent of Indian children on the honor roll than of white children," the report stated.

"We do not claim that the Indian children are always ahead of the whites on the honor roll in this or any other school but there are always a number of them on the honor roll and as a class, they are doing good work in the public schools," he continued. "The old prejudice against the public schools is rapidly breaking down and many full-blooded Indians now realize that the public schools are the best schools for the children."

Parents Proud
"The parents are proud of the work their children do, not in all cases but in a rapidly increasing number of families."

"We still have parents wishing to send their children to some sort of boarding school for various reasons.

Some enthusiastic broadcaster, talking from the top of the Lakehurst hangar Sunday evening, painted the sun in colors of "deep blue, red, gold, bronze, black and yellow." Evidently he was emotionally overwrought, because he omitted cerise, beige, nude, Alice blue and a few other tints.

Boy, 11, Invents All-Automatic Electric Phone

Chicago Prodigy Develops Mechanism After Many Experiments

INTEREST IN SCIENCE AT AGE OF THREE

By WILLIAM J. KOSTKA
International News Service Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Prodigy of an electrical age, an eleven-year-old boy has been discovered in this city who at an age that is generally conceded to belong to childish pranks has invented an automatic telephone operated without a switchboard.

The achievement was successfully demonstrated recently when the boy, Irvin Sparsh, carefully lifted the invention from a cardboard box and sent his 14-year-old brother, Joseph, Jr., to the woodshed with one end of the phone while he set up the other end on a chair in the living room.

Moment Of Anxiety
There was a tense moment of anxiety broken finally by the harsh notes of a buzzer and flashing of a red light. Pride lighted the smiling face of Irvin as he said into the instrument: "Hello, Joe. I guess I'm working all right." The voice from the other end answered: "You bet it is Irvin."

"Irvin has been experimenting with electricity ever since he was a tot three years old," the proud mother explained. "Not long ago he wanted to go to an electrical school. We took him to one and when he explained his telephone they had him make a drawing of it."

Used Odds And Ends
Irvin has not conducted his experiments with expensive material, but with odds and ends of "junk" he and his brother have picked up. His father is not a man "of means" in fact at the present time he is without work because the department of the mail order house where he worked has been discontinued.

This second Thomas Edison appears as healthy as other boys of his age even though he has avoided playmates and devoted most of his time to electricity. His mother pointed out that he wired his own home with side wall lights and assisted in the lighting work of a new building his father erected on the rear of their lot.

Welsh Residents Shocked At Death Of Sharon Man; Welsh News

(By WILLIAM A. JOHNS, Berthton)
Welsh American residents of this city were shocked to learn of the death of Ellab Rees of Sherman avenue, Sharon, Pa., a former resident of this city, on last Saturday as a result of injuries sustained while on his way home from this city, where he attended a meeting of Lawrence Encampment.

He was an employee of the Shenango Tin Plate Works and when the Emmanuel Baptist church was organized, he was elected as its first financial secretary. He was also a trustee of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips of East Reynolds street, have received word from their son, William John Phillips of Berkeley, California, in which he informs them that he has been promoted by the Southern Pacific Railroad to the position of assistant general bridge inspector. His work will take him over the entire Southern Pacific system. He has been in the employ of this company for 23 years and the promotion comes as a recognition of his excellent services.

Good news has been received from the family of David W. Williams in California. Mr. Williams is improving from his recent illness. He is still a member of Star of Wales lodge. True Iovites of America, and the members and his many friends are all wishing him a speedy recovery.

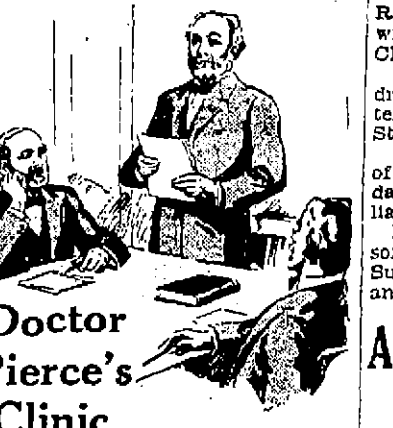

David J. Clements of Huey avenue, who came to this city from Swansea, Wales, about two years ago, is a veteran of the World War, having spent four years in the British army.

Henry T. Jones of Waldo street, is still improving from the effects of the accident with which he met in the mill some time ago. It is hoped that it will not be long until he has fully recovered.

REFUSES FINE ON INSTALLMENT PLAN

(International News Service)
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 31.—
The in-growing habit of paying for everything on the installment plan probably has its virtues, but they are not recognized by the federal court.

A woman, fined by Judge Duval
West for violation of the prohibition act, sought to pay her assessment of $100 at the rate of $50 down and $10 a month. Deputy Clerk J. F. Caroline, however, refused to assume the role of bookkeeper and installment collector.

Then, too, later on the course of true love runs largely to discourse, which is lamentably one-sided.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The only Alfred E. Smith in the Manhattan division of the New York telephone directory is a Broad street lawyer who spends half his life explaining to the world in general, by telephone, telegraph and by mail, that he is NOT the Man in the Brown Derby.

GOING "MAIN STREET"

Guerrilla warfare in the price of cheap cigarettes so disgusted the proprietors of one of Tammany Town's big department stores that they served notice of intent to discontinue that sort of merchandise and advertised a clearance sale of Little White Shavers, 54 cents a carton below normal price. At 8 o'clock the morning of the sale police reserves had to be summoned to quell the impatience of several thousand early-rising New Yorkers lined up in a queue blocks long, waiting for the Boob Bazaar to open.

SELF RESPECT

At the corner of the Bowery and Houston street the other afternoon two hoboes were huddled over an excavation. Presently they were joined by a third misfit, who had sidly and weakly descended the adjacent stairway of the elevated road. He had gone aloft to the men's room of the station to wash a large, blue bandanna handkerchief. I left him waving the wet bit of underwear over the smoky fire, his two companions staring and blinking at such a manifestation of self respect.

BEST REPORTERS

A grouchy growling, seamed and ugly old newspaper editor, with a voice like a rusty barn hinge, an Elizabethan breadth of parlor, and a heart in his rough and tough old bosom, big as Jumbo's hind leg, said to me the other day:

"Do you know what the trouble with the modern young newspaper reporter?"

"Yes," I replied. "He has the divine hardness of the individualist, that prompts him to confer the razzer on a worn-out, journalistic love child like you, every time you try to force down his young, guileless, some posse parcel of procedure dating back to the good old days of Dana, Bennett, Pulitzer, Greeley, et al."

"No, Bo," he said, sadly. "That ain't what ails the fledglings. The trouble with him is he's heard tell that all good newspaper men are necessarily hard-boiled. He's heard that they must stifle their emotions, jab a soft hat over one eye and stalk through the world with a cigar tilted at an angle of 45 degrees, spitting at the stars and sneering at the power of love. That's what's wrong with him."

"I've known lots of newspaper men in my time and some of them were so tough that if you'd boiled them you'd have had to chew the gravy. But it was the other kind—the saps—who made the best reporters."

"There's no substitute in this world for a heart."

FOOK MAN!

Every day someone comes along and chips off another fragment from the already beggarly statue of man.

One of the biggest shoe stores in Tammany Town employs a woman named Missus Turner, who directs the buying and selling, in thatemporium, of men's socks.

SARDINES IN SOCIETY

The sardine packers have signed up a half million dollar contract with a well New York advertising agency.

And now watch the lowly sardine achieve the enviable distinction of being a fook man.

IRONY FOR ACTORS

Many an actor, out of work, tramping Mazda Lane these days, his belt buckle drawn to the last notch, must have marveled at the imagination of the advertising man who created The Sign that covers the facade of the Broadway front of the Hotel Claridge.

It reads:

"Business is good. Keep it good."

Find Girls Best As "Office Boys"

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31.—Do girls make better office "boys" than boys? The Fidelity National bank & Trust company here rises to vote age and submits 12 years of running the bank with feminine office "boys" for pages and messengers in the war period and found them so competent it never has returned to boys.

Many of the girls have been promoted to responsible positions in the bank and their places filled by young girls.

Joke Traps Three Fake Salesmen

(International News Service)
MT. VERNON, Ind., Jan. 31.—A practical joke by David Alldredge, local garage manager, resulted in the downfall here of allegedly fake salesmen for a New Orleans clothing firm. R. C. Neighbors and Fred Lamby, the two salesmen, were putting on a campaign here for orders for workmen's clothing at a bargain price. They were collecting numerous down payments with their orders.

Rearing that some of his fellow workmen had placed orders with the salesmen, Alldredge wanted to have some fun with them. He told them they had been duped and would never get their goods.

The mechanics took the joke seriously. They wired the Union Joe Manufacturing company at New Orleans, La., whom the salesmen claimed to represent. Alldredge chuckled over his joke until the reply came by telegraph. It read: "Men unknown. Hold them."

Police arrested the salesmen.

Bakers of Orr's Home Made Bread

THE Quality Bakers of America is an organization of wholesale bakers selected from the foremost bakers in the United States. These bakeries are operated by conscientious, progressive men and women who stimulate and encourage the production of bread of superior quality. They conduct contests, the winners of which are signalized above their fellows by the award of "HONORABLE MENTION." We entered this contest by submitting a loaf of bread which you might have ordered, from our daily output. Bakeries from East and West, North and South, vied with us. We are proud and honored to announce that "HONORABLE MENTION" has been granted us for our product. We won because we use in our bread the best ingredients that money can buy—produced by bakers who are proud of their work and their bakery equipment.

County Federation

Of Women's Clubs

The County Federation of Women's Clubs has a program of work mapped out for the next few months that will insure the interest and support of members of these clubs.

Much of the work is being done through the different departments and often it seems best that no publicity be given to the work until its accomplishment is assured.

It will be of interest to all to know of the movement on foot just now to prepare, through the different clubs, scrapbooks that will help the children in our hospital to while away some of the time that seems so long to them and often unbearable because of suffering. This work is being supervised by three clubs—Current Events '03 Reading Circle '06, Current Events '23.

The president of each club in the federation has been asked to have a history of her club prepared. These are sought for use in connection with an interesting enterprise of the near future but when compiled the volume will form a valuable addition to our reference library as well as serve for its primary use.

The program for the February meeting of the federation, an open meeting, is being prepared by its art department with Mrs. Clinton Keagy and Mrs. Joseph Pyle in charge. They will be a display of the work of local artists, embracing the fine arts and commercial art. The members of the clubs are asked to bring their old tin-types and daguerreotypes that there may be an interesting display of these.

ON the modern battlefield the raw recruit snatched from a city's slums competes on level human terms with an officer of any rank or birth for a priceless decoration—a few cents' worth of moulded metal dangling from a ribbon—which certifies that he who wears it once utterly forgot himself for the sake of something else.

Local Men Will Attend Hearing On Waterways

Beadel And Chilton Will Represent Chamber Of Commerce In Washington

IMPORTANT SESSION TO BE HELD FEB. 4

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, held Thursday in The Castleton as a luncheon meeting, the development of the waterways of the district was again taken up for discussion and it was decided that E. W. Beadel and Alfred W. Chilton should go to Washington to attend a waterways hearing being conducted by the National Rivers and Harbors committee of Congress and the U. S. army engineers on Tuesday, February 4.

They will accompany Frank Purnell, T. J. Bray, and L. A. Manchester of Youngstown, representing the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango Rivers association.

An excellent report was received on prospective industrial development and while detailed information cannot be given out at this time, from the facts brought out at the meeting, the Chamber is very hopeful that definite results will be obtained in the not far distant future.

A report was submitted by Chairman John H. Lamb and Vice Chairman W. J. Offutt of the budget and finance committee, in which they urged that all the members of the chamber of commerce and other citizens of the city support and co-operate with the organization in their present program for securing slack-water navigation and waterways development.

It was announced that a slight change in the suggested plan for the securing of a new Court House for Lawrence county had been suggested by County Solicitor John P. Lockhart, believing this would hasten this matter. The sentiment of the Board of Directors is heartily in favor of the construction of a new court house for Lawrence county as soon as this can be done.

A report was made to the directors on the activities of the Better Business bureau, which is the merchant's division of the chamber, advising them of the meeting of this bureau which was being held under the chairmanship of President Emanuel Sherkman, in the Elks club, that evening.

Messrs. T. W. Dickey and W. F. Moody presented a very good report on the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce membership held in the Castleton hotel, Thursday, January 23, at which time waterways and industrial development were discussed.

Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of the New Castle Public Schools, met with the board and kindly offered to have reprints on the waterways project appearing in the National Waterways Journal, printed at the New Castle Schools printing shop at Ben Franklin Junior High school and be distributed to all the school children of the city in order that everyone may be thoroughly conversant with the needs of the project for New Castle. This was favorably acted upon by the board of directors and Dr. Green was extended a vote of thanks.

Mayor Of Butler Visits Council

Mayor Joseph Heineman of Butler today visited city council room and heard the local city fathers deal with city affairs. He told the council that the state has allotted $35,000 to Butler for the improvement of thoroughfares which connect with state highways. The entire job, he said, will cost about $100,000. The state has allotted about one-third of the total cost to the city of Butler, he said.

Officially Set Time For Council

Ordinance Designates That Sessions Will Be Started At 10 O'clock

Citizens who wish to transact business with council can now rest assured that there will be no shift in councilmanic meeting hours—as an ordinance, designating 10 a. m. as the hour for convening today was adopted finally. Each Monday the councilmen will convene at 10 a. m. and all adjourned meetings, such as are held each Friday, will start at the same time.

Several sections did not meet with the view of Councilman Burns but Solicitor White explained that the reason for them was to prevent any more councilmen from calling a meeting without the knowledge of other councilmen. The sections referred to were written in an ordinance framed by the late James Gardner, solicitor, 17 years ago.

White revamped the ordinance and the only change is that all meetings now must be held at 10 a. m. an eastern standard time governs the time of council as daylight savings time is not recognized officially.

Specialist Shows Expert Lamb-Cutting

Max O. Cullen, Lamb Specialist, Gives New Methods Of Cutting, Thursday Night

With a remarkable deftness, Max O. Cullen, lamb demonstration specialist, showed, to a group of forty persons gathered in the city building, Thursday evening, how a lamb can be cut in order to utilize each part to the best advantage.

Practically every portion of the lamb carcass was put to use in the demonstration. The various new cuts demonstrated by Mr. Cullen not only provided novelty but also, in the utilization of the various parts, assured roasts and chops for every equipment and more economy in their selection. One of the points emphasized was the smaller size of a number of the available cuts which meets the needs of the small family group.

The program was carried out as was planned, with the exception of a change on the speaking program. In the absence of Prof. M. B. Connell, Lawrence County Farm Agent, H. H. McCulloch, gave a very interesting talk concerning how to improve the various breeds of livestock.

Mr. Cullen is the lamb specialist of the National Livestock and Meat board. Aside from his expert meat cutting demonstrations, Mr. Cullen proved to be an excellent speaker.

The meeting was of interest to both the consuming public and those engaged in the meat trade.

Approve Bond Of Water Company Will Prepare For Widening Street Petroleum Telephone Company Control Is Bought By Chicagoans

Plumbers bond of the New Castle Water company today was approved by city council which convened at the city building but not before Solicitor White had advised council to do so. White told council that the bond was given and he said that if you approve it you should say so specifically.

However, White told the city fathers that there was no reason why the company should give one. "I think it foolish to return it to the company because they have a monopoly. There is only one water company here," White said.

"Everything is under the jurisdiction of the public service commission and I would recommend a resolution that the bond be approved."

The approval was unanimous.

Good-Bye! Hope To See You Again Says Dague As He Takes Leave Of Seever

John Dewey Seever wants his watch returned to him. In spite of the fact that Seever won't be going any place but inside the penitentiary for the rest of his life, the sharp-shooter wants his watch back. Also his gun.

After his peroration in court Thursday morning, when he said he wanted to try the next case against him himself, he was taken to the Western Penitentiary by Chief Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds and Deputies Russell McBride and Andrew Venditto.

On the way down to the large stone house where Seever will be a permanent guest he complained bitterly that somebody had taken a $50 wrist watch from him when he was arrested and also had taken his gun. These he wants returned.

When Seever was being taken from his cell Thursday, W. Glenn Dague, who is in jail charged with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, waved a cheery goodbye to him.

"Goodbye, old man, good luck, and I hope to see you later," were the parting remarks of Dague. From this one might deduce the idea that Dague expects to see Seever again. The only place where John Dewey will be available to callers will be the Western Penitentiary.

French Theatre Patrons Do Not Forget "Stars"

Old Time Favorite Stars Of French Stage Are Still Just As Popular

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Loyalty to her old "stars" is the most interesting point about the French theatre public today, declares Walter Palmer, actor and dramatic critic of Rochester, N. Y., who is now in Paris directing the staging of the American Theatre company performing here.

"They love their old artists to the very end," says Mr. Palmer, "long after their days of good acting because they remember what they have done before and that time is bound to take advantage of their talent. Mistinguett, at 65, is still the darling of the French stage and is drawing huge crowds every night to the Casino de Paris which, by the way, contains a few shocks, but good ones, so they can be excused."

"The French are putting on some splendid plays these days, perfect in finish and that is because they take time to do it. I marvelled at the production of Bernstein's 'Melo' at the Gymnase until someone informed me that the company had been rehearsing for six months. We Americans could put on some fine things too, at that slow rate, but we don't have the patience."

Mr. Palmer, however, favors the American humor on the stage, finding the French a bit too much mannered and stiff.

"Ours," he thinks, "is more sophisticated in a way, but still more cheery, the kind that does any fellow good and helps to carry on the daily load. They really don't need so much of it here in gay Paris. Everybody seems to be happy here and I should think they would be. It's about the nearest thing to Heaven I hope to see."

Mr. Palmer will soon begin rehearsals for "Just Suppose" which will follow the play going on at present, "The Barker," which has had great success. Later will appear an American version of "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" in which he expects to play himself.

And still speaking of increases, one must not forget the smoke nuisance which is soon going to make a Pittsburgh of Paris, according to the astronomer Bigourdan. He has made a study of the luminosity of the air in the 20 wards of the capital and suburbs and finds that it has fallen by 20 per cent because of the increase in central heating that burns soft coal. More agreeable to mention is the increase in shower-baths, a comparative innovation in the capital. A few which were installed not long ago have proved to be so popular that the municipality is planning to build seven new bath-houses, all of which will be entirely devoted to showers. Private bath establishments are also installing a large number of them.

U. S. Forest Service Now 25 Years Old

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Progress and achievement in the development of forestry and the conservation of the nation's natural resources will be acknowledged when the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary of its establishment in February.

Veterans of the service recall their part in ending the bitter range wars between the cattle men and sheep men over the use of western ranges, the early fights to save the public forests for the use and benefit of the public, and the struggles to establish scientific practices and administration on the national forests in the face of antagonism.

"The service has gone through several bad fire years, among which 1910 and 1929 were outstanding," the Agriculture report stated.

In 25 years the Forest Service has developed into an organization of about 2,700, and employees in addition about 2,800 forest guards hired each year during the fire season. The service administers to 150 national forests with an aggregate net area of 160,000,000 miles, the report said.

Thick, wavy hair!

You, too, can have long, soft, abundant hair. It's simply a matter of using this easy method; approved by hair-specialists; endorsed by stars of stage and screen; used by millions who haven't time for the more laborious treatments.

Tonight when you arrange your hair, just put a little Danderine on your brush. Then as you draw the bristles through your hair, see how the scalp is toned and soothed. See how the hair becomes softer, easier to manage; how its natural color is brought out; how it takes on new brilliance and lustre!

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; helps stop falling hair; keeps hair and scalp healthy; encourages the growth of long, silky, abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year. That proves Danderine's effectiveness!

Prayer In Congress

The house met at 12 o'clock noon. The chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Blessed by Thy name, O Lord Most High, for Thy infinite goodness and for Thy condescension toward all Thy children. We thank Thee for another day, which is a door by which we may enter upon our chosen task, perform the unselfish act, and live the beautiful life. At the very summits of our beings may we know the unknowable. see the unseen, and, though of this earth, yet lose ourselves in God. Ever keep open the pathway of our dearest longings and our purest desires. We would accept and make Thee the outward and unselfish aim of our lives. Bless our children and friends, for they are the dearest treasures of earth. Let unbroken love and everlasting joy crown every head. Amen.

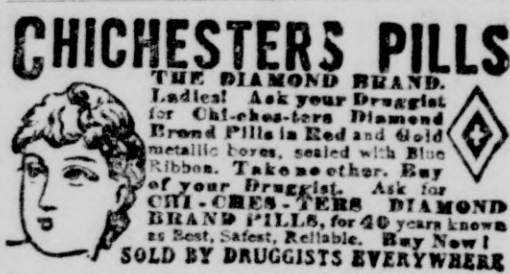

Prefer Silent Films To Talkies

(International News Service)
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 31.—Some ancient prejudices may have been removed with the coming of talking pictures, but there remains one group of persons who prefer the silent films to those with sound.

They are the lip-readers. And their prejudice is voiced by Miss Lucille Parker, who conducts a lip-reading school here for hard of hearing persons.

Formerly, deaf persons could enjoy the movies because every line was spelled out. Now, however, with actors and actresses desiring to show their profiles to an admiring public, or even turning the head away from the camera, a great deal of the effect is lost on those who cannot hear, because the lips cannot be seen clearly enough to make them readable.

However, those growing proficient in the art of lip-reading are able to follow a great deal of what takes place on the screen, according to Miss Parker.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so. You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Old Mess Hall At West Point Will Be Razed

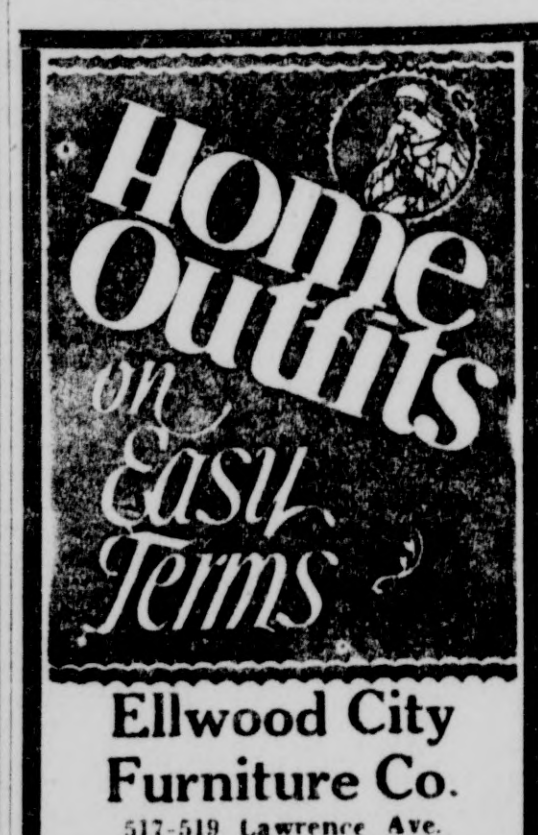

(International News Service)
WEST POINT, Jan. 31.—Doomed by the march of progress historic Grant Hall, better known as the old mess hall at West Point has been turned over to the desecrating hands of wreckers by Major General William R. Smith, Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy and within a short time will be a thing of the past. Opened in 1852 by Robert E. Lee, then Superintendent, the old building became a definite part of cadet life. Soon it will be only a tradition. Since its opening 7250 graduates, 4900 of whom are still living, entered its portals three times a day for their "chow."

Within its walls of native granite innumerable cadets who were later to become famous leaders in the Civil, Indian, Spanish and World Wars met in the short thirty minutes allowed for meals and formed lasting friendships.

Many Famous Guests
Phil Sheridan and Jeb Stuart, rival Cavalry leaders in '61 to '65, Custer and Crook destined to be numbered among the outstanding Generals in the Indian Wars, Chaffee, a Spanish War leader and from the recent World War, Pershing, March, Sumner, Bullard, Liggett and Dickinson are but a few who for four years there satisfied their youthful appetites.

Memories of James McNeil Whistler, famous American etcher, George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, Tasker H. Bliss, who represented America in the highest Military Councils of the World War and Francis Vinton Greene, Engineer, Historian and Economist, were other outstanding leaders who "fell in" at every mess call and marched to the building.

Originally constructed to provide mess facilities for 300 cadets, the total strength in 1852 the building was enlarged in 1903 so that over 1200 were accommodated. Every available inch of space was utilized yet the building was inadequate and a new mess hall known as Washington Hall was completed last year.

In Prominent Spot
Sited opposite the Administration Building at the crest of the long walk from the railroad station, the old mess hall was one of the first buildings the prospective cadets saw. Austere simple and only one story high the low massive building flanked by turreted towers had an inviting appearance. Two venerable old elms whose trunks have a girth of twelve feet screened and seemed to protect it giving a pleasing restrained touch.

According to General Smith every thing salvageable will be saved and some day the hewn granite blocks will again rise to house some cadet activity.

Auto For Each Family Is Record For U. S.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—There is an automobile for each family in the United States or, to be more exact, approximately one to every 4.5 persons, according to a survey made by the American Motorists Association. The net increase in automobile registrations during the past twelve months was 1,358,000 and during the same period a total of 38,594 miles was added to the Federal and State highway systems, the survey showed. If all the automobiles in the nation should be placed on every available mile of highway there would be eight automobiles to every mile. This climate a question worrying the public—the problem of why in all this wide space of land one always has to hunt parking space.

Motor fatalities during 1929 amount to approximately 27,000. Of the total about 9,000 deaths occurred in the 78 larger cities. The death rate in 1929 amounted to 25.9 per 100,000 population against a death rate of 22.5 in 1928, the report said.

In 1929 laws providing for higher gasoline taxes were passed by twenty states and motorists during the year an average of $17 per motor vehicle, the Association said.

Swedish Gymnastics Through Esperanto
(International News Service)
STOCKHOLM, Jan. 31.—An attempt to teach Swedish gymnastics in esperanto will be made at Lillaved, a suburb of Stockholm, this summer in connection with a general gymnastic festival at the Stockholm Exposition—in which at least 12,000 Swedish gymnasts and twenty foreign societies will take part. The course will last two weeks and will be given under the auspices of the Swedish Gymnastic society.

It is about a hundred years since the system of "Swedish gymnastics" was founded by Per Hendrik Ling, a poet and patriot, who wanted to revive the vigor of the ancient Vikings. It has since spread to nearly all parts of the world and has many devotees. The late Georges Clemenceau practiced it daily during the greater part of his life and attributed to it much of his vitality. In fact, he would not give up his daily drill until just before he died. King George of England also took Swedish gymnastics to aid him in his convalescence a year ago.

European Of Future To Learn From U. S.

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Jan. 31.—Europe must learn from America what America learned from Europe—individualism, realism and activity. The European of the future must be partly American in spirit, but up to a certain point only, according to Prof. Dr. Willy Hellpach, former Premier of Baden.

"The European man of tomorrow," declares Professor Hellpach, "will be an individual of the masses, such as the individual of the thirteenth century."

"He must retain the problematic, tragic and romantic features of the European character, so long as they are of irreplaceable value, but he must be able to conform to the demands of our time."

"He shall not be an American in spirit, but he will be so no more than the old, weak European. Individualism, realism, activity—gifts which America received from us—must be developed by us in the future even more strongly."

Country Divided On Safety Of Aviation

Some Say Flying Is Safe,
Others Say It Is Dangerous Etc.

Point To Colonel Lindbergh
And Wife As Ideal
Types Of Fliers

By HOMER METZ,
International News Service Aviation
Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Is airplane travel fundamentally safe?

The fatal crash of a Central Airlines cabin near Kansas City several days ago and other recent air disasters have caused many persons to ponder this question.

Innumerable men and women can be found who will declare that travel by airplane is extremely dangerous. Likewise innumerable men and women can be found who will insist that it is as safe as any other modern means of transportation.

Point To Lindbergh
In support of the latter opinion, prominent aviation men in New York and other parts of the country are calling to public attention the truly remarkable record for safe flying made by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Spencer Morrow, since their marriage on May 27 last.

A personal of International News Service files reveals that during the eight months that have elapsed since their marriage the Flying Colonel and his diminutive bride have flown approximately 25,000 miles without a mishap.

Their flying, incidentally, has not been confined to tested and established airlines, but has taken them over every conceivable type of terrain, from the dense jungles of Central America to the mountainous country of Western United States.

The flying activities of the famous couple began soon after they returned from a month's honeymoon trip in a small motor yacht.

Numerous flights were made all over the eastern section of the United States during the months of July and August. On these comparatively short hops, it is estimated, they covered approximately 5,000 miles.

On September 6 they started on the first of a series of amazing long distance flights.

Cover Many Miles
From New York they headed for New Mexico where the transport plane City of San Francisco had crashed.

An outline of their flights from that time on follows:
September 8—Flew from Albuquerque, N. M., to Waynoka, Okla., after learning that the wreck of the City of San Francisco had been found.

September 9—Flew from Waynoka to St. Louis.

September 10—Flew from St. Louis to New York.

September 11—Flew from New York to Portland, Me.

September 15—Flew from Portland to New York.

September 19—Flew from New York to Charleston, S. C., on the first leg of a 10,000 mile journey that was to take them over Central America.

September 20—Flew from Charleston to Miami.

September 21 to October 13—Flew over the jungles of Yucatan and other countries in the interest of exploration.

From October 15 to December 27—Made numerous short flights in the vicinity of New York.

December 28—Left New York for a leisurely trip to Los Angeles by easy stages.

January 5—Arrived in Los Angeles.

Many Different Planes
At no time during their flights did Lindbergh and his wife experience the slightest bit of motor trouble. Moreover they experienced no mishaps either in taking off or in landing.

Added significance is given to the record made by the Lindberghs when it is remembered that their flights were not made in one plane of special design, but in numerous planes, all of which were of standard manufacture.

Country Divided On Safety Of Aviation

Some Say Flying Is Safe,
Others Say It Is Dangerous Etc.

Point To Colonel Lindbergh
And Wife As Ideal
Types Of Fliers

By HOMER METZ
International News Service Aviation
Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Is airplane travel fundamentally safe?

The fatal crash of a Central Airlines cabin plane near Kansas City several days ago and other recent air disasters have caused many persons to ponder this question.

Innumerable men and women can be found who will declare that travel by airplane is extremely dangerous.
Likewise innumerable men and women can be found who will instinctively feel that it is as safe as any other modern means of transportation.

Point To Lindbergh

In support of the latter opinion, prominent aviation men in New York and other parts of the country are calling to public attention the truly remarkable record for safe flying made by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Spencer Morrow, since their marriage on May 27 last.

A perusal of International News Service files reveals that during the eight months that have elapsed since their marriage the Flying Colonel and his diminutive bride have flown approximately 25,000 miles without a mishap.

Their flying, incidentally, has not been confined to tested and established airlines, but has taken them over every conceivable type of terrain, from the dense jungles of Central America to the mountainous country of Western United States.

The flying activities of the famous couple began soon after their returning from a month's honeymoon trip in a small motor yacht.

Numerous flights were made all over the eastern section of the United States during the months of July and August. On these comparatively short hops, it is estimated, they covered approximately 5,000 miles.

On September 6 they started on the first of a series of amazing long distance flights.

Cover Many Miles

From New York they headed for New Mexico where the transport plane City of San Francisco had crashed.

An outline of their flights from that time on follows:

September 8—Flew from Albuquerque, N. M., to Waynoka, Okla., after learning that the wreck of the City of San Francisco had been found.

September 9—Flew from Waynoka to St. Louis.

September 10—Flew from St. Louis
to New York.

September 11—Flew from New York to Portland, Me.

September 15—Flew from Portland
to New York.

September 19—Flew from New York to Charleston, S. C., on the first leg of a 10,000 mile journey that was to take them over Central America.

September 20—Flew from Charleston to Miami.

September 21 to October 13—Flew over the jungles of Yucatan and other countries in the interest of exploration.

From October 15 to December 27—Made numerous short flights in the vicinity of New York.

December 28—Left New York for a leisurely trip to Los Angeles by easy stages.

January 5—Arrived in Los Angeles.

Many Different Planes

At no time during their flights did Lindbergh and his wife experience the slightest bit of motor trouble. Moreover they experienced no mishaps either in taking off or in landing.

Added significance is given to the record made by the Lindberghs when it is remembered that their flights were not made in one plane of special design, but in numerous planes, all of which were of standard manufacture.

"Standard" Gasoline's instant popularity, the plant goes full blast day and night.

WHAT are the specifications and "extra" refinements of the new-processed "Standard" Gasoline? There's no stronger phrase than "quicker starting." If there were, we would apply it to this new fuel—to the manner in which, cold weather, or not, it starts the engine roaring with power. Pickup, the best ever. Smoother power, one more result of the new cracking process. Less knocking, too. Maximum mileage. In brief, a high-test gasoline at no advance in price—the kind you have always wanted.

Other popular-priced gasolines may have one or some of the qualities we have named, but only the new-processed "Standard" Gasoline has them all—because it is refined by this new patented process.

Fail To Identify Bloody Clothing

Bloody Clothing Found, Not
Property Of Dorothy Baldwin, 20, Reported Missing

(International News Service)
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 31.—Police Thursday afternoon stated positively that the blood-stained clothing of a girl found in Orange was not that of 20-year-old Dorothy Baldwin, missing from her home here since January 2.

It was stated that the girl had been traced to New York state, where she was believed to have cloped.

Chief Constable Horace Stevens of Orange brought the clothing here. After examination local police stated that it was not the Baldwin girl's apparel.

THE QUESTION BOX CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Representative LaGuardia of New York maintains that the Eighteenth amendment should have been resubmitted for ratification after seven years, which was not done; therefore that it is now invalid. Please illuminate.

Representative LaGuardia admits the Eighteenth amendment's ratification. However, section 3 of the amendment itself provides: "This article (amendment 18) shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by congress." No other amendment contains such a provision; hence LaGuardia's argument that second ratification was necessary to complete its own requirements. Representative Moore, Virginia, answering in congress recalled that the supreme court upheld the whole amendment in 1921. LaGuardia rejoined that the seven years had not then expired; whereupon Representative Wood, Indiana, made the point that, in any event, the question is one for the courts (in congress) to settle. Representative Sprill, New York, as chairman, upheld Wood.

Nationally speaking, in what way is installing buying economically desirable or otherwise?

On the one hand, it permits an income's recipient to enjoy what his income will buy while the income is in process of coming in, instead of being forced to wait until it has accumulated. On the other hand, if he is like some folk, he may be tempted to overwork his credit. Multiplied by about 120,000,000 population, we have the proposition on a national scale.

What is the full saying by Abraham Lincoln beginning: "Let us have faith that right is might—?"
"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

With so much talk of parrot fever, is there any danger from a bird which has been in a home in this country for some years?

Which of the presidents were sons of governors?

President William Henry Harrison's father was Benjamin Harrison, twice governor of Virginia; President John Tyler's was Judge John Tyler, once governor of the same state; President Franklin Pierce's was General Benjamin Pierce, twice governor of New Hampshire.

Daughter Allowed To Claim Her Car

Had Been Loaned To Her Father
Who Transported
Liquor

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 31.—In an order handed down today, Judge James O. Campbell directed that the automobile claimed by Mrs. Pearl Burdy of Cadogan, Armstrong county, be returned to her.

At a hearing a short time ago, Mrs. Burdy testified that she had loaned the automobile to her father, C. W. Lasher, December 6, on his statement that the car was wanted for a trip to Kittanning. The car was seized by Butler county officers, who brought it to Butler when liquor was found in it.

The driver, believed to be Lasher, had disappeared before the officers arrived. Mrs. Burdy told the court that she did not know the present whereabouts of her father.

Judge Campbell directed that the automobile be given to Mrs. Burdy after it was shown that she had paid storage charges which had accrued since its seizure.

Free Two Drivers In Auto Accident

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Jan. 31.—William J. Hartman, Pittsburgh, and Ford Mayer, New Galilee, were exonerated of responsibility for the death of Ernest L. Lauer, 23, 1615 Watson street, Edinboro, January 23, at the Providence hospital, Beaver Falls, of a fractured skull and other injuries received a few hours earlier when an automobile driven by Hartman collided with a New Galilee bus driven by Mayer, at an intersection. The jury found that the death of Lauer was due to an "unavoidable accident."

FIRST HOSPITAL VISIT MADE AT AGE OF 73

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 31.—At the age of 73, Miss Sarah Goolsby, of Atlanta, went to the hospital for the first time.

While working in the kitchen of her home she turned too quickly and wrenched her hip. She was taken to a local infirmary.
"It's the first time I ever saw the inside of a hospital," she said. "No, I don't like it, but the nurses and doctors are nice."

Fail To Identify Bloody Clothing

Property Of Dorothy Baldwin, 20, Reported Missing

(International News Service)
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 31.—Police Thursday afternoon stated positively that the blood-stained clothing of a girl found in Orange was not that of 20-year-old Dorothy Baldwin, missing from her home here since January 2.

It was stated that the girl had been traced to New York state, where she was believed to have eloped. Chief Constable Horace Stevens of Orange brought the clothing here. After examination local police stated that it was not the Baldwin girl's apparel.

THE QUESTION BOX CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Representative Laguardia of New York maintains that the Eighteenth amendment should have been resubmitted for ratification after seven years, which was not done; therefore that it is now invalid. Please illuminate.

Representative LaGuardia admits the Eighteenth amendment's ratification. However, section 3 of the amendment itself provides: "This article (amendment) shall be operative unless it shall have been ratified within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by congress." No other amendment contains such a provision; hence LaGuardia's argument that second ratification was necessary to complete its own requirements. Representative Moore, Virginia, answering in congress, recalled that the supreme court upheld the whole amendment in 1921. LaGuardia rejoined that the seven years had not then expired; whereupon Representative Wood, Indiana, made the point that, in any event, the question is one for the courts (not congress) to settle. Representative Snell, New York, as chairman, upheld Wood.

Nationally speaking, in what way is installment buying economically desirable or otherwise?

On the one hand, it permits an income's recipient to enjoy what his income will buy while the income is in process of coming in, instead of being forced to wait until it has accumulated. On the other hand, if he is like some folk, he may be tempted to overwork his credit. Multiplied by about 120,000,000 population, we have the proposition on a national scale.

What is the full saying by Abraham Lincoln beginning: "Let us have faith that right is might—?" "Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

With so much talk of parrot fever, is there any danger from a bird which has been in a home in this country for some years?

Health authorities say there is practically none unless it is definitely known that the pet has been exposed to contagion from a new arrival.

Which of the presidents were sons of governors?

President William Henry Harrison's father was Benjamin Harrison, twice governor of Virginia; President John Tyler's was Judge John Tyler, once governor of the same state; President Franklin Pierce's was General Benjamin Pierce, twice governor of New Hampshire.

Daughter Allowed To Claim Her Car

Had Been Loaned To Her Father
Who Transported
Liquor

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 31.—In an order handed down today, Judge James O. Campbell directed that the automobile claimed by Mrs. Pearl Burdy of Cadogan, Armstrong county, be returned to her.

At a hearing a short time ago, Mrs. Burdy testified that she had loaned the automobile to her father, C. W. Lasher, December 6, on his statement that the car was wanted for a trip to Kittanning. The car was seized by Butler county officers, who brought it to Butler when liquor was found in it.

The driver, believed to be Lasher, had disappeared before the officers arrived. Mrs. Burdy told the court that she did not know the present whereabouts of her father.

usual dinner-meeting Thursday eve-

Presbyterian church with activities

The speaker was Harry Clark, long a resident of this vicinity, who told interesting tales of his early life. It seems he was a champion roller skater in his early boyhood days, and later ran away from home and engaged in horse-trading between the west and the east. Needless to state, he went through several wild experiences with the Indians and outlaw cowboys of that day. One of his most thrilling memories was when he raced on horseback from death in the form of a prairie fire. Fortunately there was a river within ten miles of the fire and all fled to it, including all sorts of animals of the woods, hunters and cowboys, all seeking relief from the scorching heat of the fire.

Warren Ordered To Clamp On Lid

Beetham Sends Sharp Note To Police Chief After
State Raid

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31.—A letter directing Chief of Police E. J. Gillen of Warren to "close the open places of your city at once" was sent out today by Rupert R. Beetham, state prohibition commissioner.

It was understood that the letter was a result of a raid by state officers on a place near the Warren police headquarters. Beetham said the raid was "successful."

The letter marked the second time within three months that Beetham has directed a closing of alleged
"open places" in Warren.

During November, the chief of police and Beetham engaged in a verbal battle after the commissioner claimed that an alleged liquor law violate had called police to his aid when state agents raided his place.

Beetham told the chief that during a part of November and December the places in the city were closed, demonstrating that the police department could do it.

Warren, O., Jan. 31.—Police Chief E. J. Gilen said he had nothing to say to the letter written to him by Prohibition Commissioner Rupert R.
Beetham.

"All I know about the letter is what I read in today's papers," the chief said.

"I won't have anything to say until after I get the letter from Beetham.
I am not in the habit of giving out letters to newspapers before the parties for which they are intended receive them."

Mayor W. A. Lynn also said that he knew nothing about the letter except what he had read in the newspapers. He also refused to comment.

Law Requires All Dead Animals Be Buried Promptly

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—D. V.
Ness, nuisance officer of the State Health Department's bureau of engineering, said today that approximately twice as many complaints concerning dead animals are received during the winter months than are filed during the summer months.

"This situation," said Ness, "is undoubtedly due to the opinion of many of the owners of animals that no nuisance is likely to result in freezing weather. While this may be actually true so far as offensive odors are concerned, a dead animal improperly disposed of or neglected constitutes a nuisance in itself under the law."

"The rules and regulations require the sanitary disposal of dead animals within twenty-four hours after death either by proper burial or incineration regardless of the season. Moreover, in deaths caused by communicable disease the carcasses must be thoroughly enveloped in slacked lime. The carelessness in these matters result in trouble not only for the Department of Health but for the persons involved."

While the delegates are over in London they might do something to distinguish America from "God Save the King"—The Indianapolis Star.

Montana Is High In State Wealth

Ranks Second Among Eight
Commonwealths In Rocky Mountain Area

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 31.—Montana with a wealth of $2,223,000,000 ranks second among eight mountain states including Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado,
New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Na-vada, according to data compiled by the Montana publicity division from reports of the United States depart-

Montana is exceeded in total wealth among the eight states by Colorado alone which has a total wealth of $2,220,000,000 or 28.5 per cent of the total wealth of the eight states. The per capita wealth of Montana, however, is larger than that of Colorado, being $3,691 compared with $3,285 for Colorado. Montana's total is 18.2 per cent of the entire wealth of the eight states.

A larger percentage of Montana's wealth was taxable in 1922 than was the case for Colorado and the total of the eight mountain states, its ratio totaling 99.5 per cent. The total of the eight states combined was 85.65 per cent.

In value of farm implements and machinery, Montana ranked first, having 2.0 per cent of her entire state wealth invested in such equipment.
The percentage for Colorado was 1.1
and for the eight states combined was 1.8. In all items of capital invested, Montana ranked second to Colorado except in investment in manufactures where she yielded second place to Utah by a small margin.

Rotarians Enjoy Fellowship Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 31.—Members of the Rotary club enjoyed their usual dinner-meeting Thursday evening in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church with activities in charge of the Fellowship committee.

The speaker was Harry Clark, long a resident of this vicinity, who told interesting tales of his early life. It seems he was a champion roller skater in his early boyhood days, and later ran away from home and engaged in horse-trading between the west and the east. Needless to state, he went through several weird experiences with the Indians and outlaw cowboys of that day. One of his most thrilling memories was when he raced on horseback from death in the form of a Prairie fire. Fortunately there was a river within ten miles of the fire, and all fled to it, including all sorts of animals of the woods, hunters and cowboys, all seeking relief from the scorching heat of the fire.

Warren Ordered To Clamp On Lid

Beetham Sends Sharp Note To Police Chief After
State Raid

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 31. — A letter directing Chief of Police E. J. Gillen of Warren to "close the open places of your city at once" was sent out today by Rupert R. Beetham, state prohibition commissioner.

It was understood that the letter was a result of a raid by state officers on a place near the Warren police headquarters. Beetham said the raid was "successful."

The letter marked the second time within three months that Beetham has directed a closing of alleged "open places" in Warren.

During November, the chief of police and Beetham engaged in a verbal battle after the commissioner claimed that an alleged liquor law violator had called police to his aid when state agents raided his place. Beetham told the chief that during a part of November and December, the places in the city were closed, demonstrating that the police department could do it.

Warren, O., Jan. 31. — police Chief B. J. Gillen said he had nothing to say to the letter written to him by Prohibition Commissioner Rupert R. Beetham.

"All I know about the letter is what I read in today's papers," the chief said.

"I must have anything to say until after I get the letter from Beetham. I am not in the habit of giving out letters to newspapers before the parties for which they are intended receive them."

Mayor W. A. Lynn also said that he knew nothing about the letter except what he had read in the newspapers. He also refused to comment.

Their bid of $88,400 was adjudged the lowest and best of all entered in a spirited bidding.

The total cost of the new institution is $538,752.

Law Requires All Dead Animals Be Buried Promptly

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31. — D. V. Ness, nuisance officer of the State Health Department's bureau of engineering, said today that approximately twice as many complaints concerning dead animals are received during the winter months than are filed during the warm season.

"This situation," said Ness, "is undoubtedly due to the opinion of many of the owners of animals that no nuisance is likely to result in freezing weather. While this may be actually true so far as offensive odors are concerned, a dead animal improperly disposed of or neglected constitutes a nuisance in itself under the law."

"The rules and regulations require the sanitary disposal of dead animals within twenty-four hours after death either by proper burial or incineration regardless of the season. Moreover, in deaths caused by communicable disease, the carcass must be thoroughly enveloped in slacked lime. The carelessness in these matters result in trouble not only for the Department of Health but for the persons involved."

While the delegates are over in London they might do something to distinguish America from "God Save the King"—The Indianapolis Star.

The E. W. Daufens Celebrate Their Silver Wedding

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Daufen of the Ellwood-Zellenople road celebrated their Silver Wedding anniversary recently at their home. The hours were from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. and at noon an elaborate dinner was served by the Misses Margaret and Willa Daufen, assisted by girl friends. Covers were laid for forty. The home was beautifully decorated in white gold and silver. The hours were spent informally with music and sociability and at 2:30 Rev. I. J. Goehring gave a fine address which was greatly enjoyed by all.

In the evening most all of the guests returned and also a number of other friends both young and old and at a late hour a delicious lunch was served. The honor guests received many lovely gifts in honor of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Daufen have lived their entire married life in this vicinity and have made many friends who extend their congratulations on the happy event of their anniversary.

Members of the family and guests were present from Camp Run, Lillyville, Middle Lancaster and Harmony.

Mrs. Paul Walker Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 31. — Mrs. Paul Walker of Fifth street entertained the members of the J. A. P. club Thursday at her home. Mrs. Henry Wiley had charge of the entertainment and the pleasant evening opened with a business meeting at which time the ladies decided to have a Valentine party on February 14 at the home of Mrs. Benton Elliott of North Sewickley.

Games and contests were then enjoyed with Mrs. Jack Kimpel and Mrs. Benton Elliott winning prizes. Mrs. Harry Schott won the club prize. Mrs. Charles Anderson was a special guest. Later a delicious Valentine lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Charles Anderson and Mrs. Emery Neuman. The next meeting takes place February 27, at the home of Mrs. P. V. Yahn of South Ellwood Heights.

Montana Is High In State Wealth

Ranks Second Among Eight
Commonwealths In Rocky Mountain Area

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 31.—Montana with a wealth of $2,223,000,000 ranks second among eight mountain states including Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Nevada, according to data compiled by the Montana publicity division from reports of the United States department of commerce.

Montana is exceeded in total wealth among the eight states by Colorado alone which has a total wealth of $3,230,000,000 or 26.5 per cent of the total wealth of the eight states. The per capita wealth of Montana, however, is larger than that of Colorado, being $3,691 compared with $3,285 for Colorado. Montana's total is 18.2 per cent of the entire wealth of the eight states.

A larger percentage of Montana's wealth was taxable in 1922 than was the case for Colorado and the total of the eight mountain states, its ratio totaling 89.5 per cent. The total of the eight states combined was 85.65 per cent.

In value of farm implements and machinery, Montana ranked first, having 2.0 per cent of her entire state wealth invested in such equipment. The percentage for Colorado was 1.1 and for the eight states combined was 1.18. In all other items of capital invested, Montana ranked second to Colorado except in investment in manufactures where she yielded second place to Utah by a small margin.

WELFARE INMATES GET WIDE VARIETY OF NEW VEGETABLES

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—Vegetable exhibits of state institutions at the annual Farm Products Show were indicative of the wide variety of food the inmates receive, officials of the Department of Welfare said today. Eight institutions displayed 19 varieties of vegetables which are used for food at each.

The Harrisburg State hospital took the first prize, a silver cup, for excellence of its display of vegetables raised on the institution's farm during the past season. Allentown State hospital took second prize and Danville State hospital was third. Other institutions exhibiting were Wernersville, Norristown, Pottsville, Selinsgrove and Torrancia. This year marks the second time that the Harrisburg State hospital has taken the prize.

New Castle To Have Night Track Carnival

Meet To Be First In United States

Track Meet To Be Held On May 23 Under Floodlights At Taggart Field

William H. Haddock President Of A. A. U. To Be Official Of Meet

BY CHARLES LANDOLF
New Castle again leads the realm of sport. This time Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner of the senior high school informs the writer that on Friday evening, May 23, a Night Relay, Track and Field carnival will be held at Taggart Field which was formerly Franklin Field. The date is tentative according to Faculty Manager Gardner, but it will be the first time in the history of the United States that a track and field meet has been held out in the open air under the floodlights. The meet as planned, will find close to 100 schools from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, competing for honors.

It was this way. The idea of holding such an affair was a clever one on the part of Mr. Gardner who thinks that it will be very successful in every way. After the lights were installed for night football which was first started here in this section of Pennsylvania, Mr. Gardner was able to see that it plans could be worked out right, a night track and field meet could be held. He presented the idea and a date was set. Today Mr. Gardner commenced sending invitations to over 100 schools. Some have been already reached by telephone and have accepted the invitation. Washington High, the winner of the triangular meet held here last summer has accepted the invitation. Wilkesburg also has agreed to come. Faculty Manager Gardner stated today that he may invite several junior high schools from other cities along with the junior high schools of this city. He intends to hold special events for the lower grade schools.

A. A. U. Man To Officiate
William H. Haddock, former sheriff

of Allegheny county and for years president of the Mountain Division of the A. A. U. wired Gardner stating that he has accepted the invitation to act as chief official of the meet. Mr. Haddock is recognized as one of the leading men of the A. A. U. and is probably without a peer as a referee for a track and field meet. Through his standing in the organization Mr. Haddock was able to secure the National Championship track meet which will be held at the Pitt Stadium this summer. The best athletes in the world will be seen at the Pitt meet.

The clerk of course will be Joseph Wagner who will be Mr. Haddock's assistant. The starter will be Elmer Layden, head coach of football at Duquesne University who has agreed to come here to help to make the meet successful.

The meet will consist of track and field events. The only field events which will be eliminated will be the shot put, javelin throw, and the discus throw. The other events will be carried out in rapid order so that the large crowd which is expected to attend the first meet of this kind will not get tired waiting.

Union High Basketball Team Wins First County League Game; Score 24-23

Jaworski Scores Winning Field Goals; Critchlow, And Hartwell Star

Someone said something or other that all things must end eventually; well, the Union high basketball team had been getting licked right merrily in the county basketball league and things looked none to rosy for Coach Boyd and his quintet, but the dope bucket received another well defined dent last night at New Wilmington when after a few minutes of basketball playing the Union team squeezed out a 24 to 23 victory over the New Wilmington high tossers. It was an exciting game from start to finish. The New Wilmington boys were on the long end of the odds at the start of the game and why not. Union had been beaten with regularity and New Wilmington had won two league battles. Something for the better happened to that Union team on the trip out to the college town. The boys from Scotland Lane were just inspired, that's all.

Jaworski Wins Game.
A field goal by Jaworski in the final seconds of play gave the Boyd coached machine its first league win. Hartwell missed a foul for Wilmington that would have tied up the game. These were the salient features.

New Wilmington high led at the first quarter 8 to 7, with the Union boys trying hard. At the end of the first half the score was deadlocked at 14-14, which is close in any man's league.

At the start of the second half New Wilmington went into the lead with six points, and things looked none too good for Union. Jaworski started Union off on the right foot by caging the ball from under the basket, and Critchlow made another basket in the next few seconds, then Sniezek made a foul for Union and Myers made a nice long shot for the Karsten coached team. Both sides began tossing them in the direction of the basket, but Lady Luck didn't ride with either team.

Sniezek Good Guard.
Sniezek, playing a strong defensive and offensive game for Union at a guard post, is thrown out of the game via the four foul rule, and Severa goes in. Hartwell dribbled down the floor through the whole Union team and sunk a bucket. Both teams added a few fouls here and there.

With three minutes left to play New Wilmington has the lead 22 to 19 and the Union boys are still out there working like mad for that elusive victory. White tallies a field goal for Union and Hartwell cages a foul for New Wilmington. In the next few seconds of play Myers, the New Wilmington center, goes out on fouls. McCrumb takes his place.

Jaworski is fouled in the act of shooting for the basket and makes good one of the two free tosses. White for Union makes good on a foul and the score is 23 to 22 in favor of the college town boys. With only about 60 seconds left to play, Jaworski cages one from the side of the court and sends Union into the lead, amid loud hurrahs and other expressions of delight from the Union supporters.

Falls on Foul Line.
With five seconds left and only time enough to take a good deep breath, Hartwell is given a free throw for New Wilmington, and he misses it and hoops. Union has the first league game in the bag ready for delivery to Scotland Lane.

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Some 18,000 persons are scheduled to view the battle of the giants here tonight when Primo Carnera, Italy's huge contribution to Americanistic art, clashes with Eliezer Rioux, French Canadian lumberjack.

Carpenters went to work today strengthening the Chicago stadium ring to make sure the boards will support the two behemoths whose combined weight is nearly a quarter ton. Primo weighs 270 pounds and Rioux 210.

Fans here, attracted by the size of the two men, are anxious to see just what boxing skill the giant Italian can display at his second ring appearance in America.

In Carnera's American debut he battered "Big Boy" Peterson into helplessness in the first round. But this battle gave no evidence that Carnera can take a stiff one on the chin and still keep going.

Singer Favored To Beat Loayza

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Al Singer, the Bronx beak buster, was a two to one favorite today to win his 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden this evening against Stanislaus Loayza, rugged Chilean lightweight. While some of Singer's admirers predicted a kayo victory for him, followers of the foreign boxer are backing on his ability to absorb punishment and his aggressive style. Loayza has had a long rest, this being his first fight since he lost a close decision to Tony Canzoneri in Chicago last October.

The bout is regarded as most important to Singer for a defeat would put an end to his long climb through lightweight ranks for a promised 1930 bout against Sammy Mandell, world's champion.

Doc Conrad of Newark and Harry Eubanks of Proctor, N. J., will clash in the ten-round semi-final, while Dom Volante of England and Louis Quandrini, featherweight champion of Italy, will give an international flavor to another ten-round.

In the opening bouts Sammy Bindo, Singer's stablemate, met with Elmer Ciccone of Schenectady and Tommy Judge of Elizabeth, N. J., tangles with Steve Clifford of Bayonne, N. J.

Schmeling Recovering From Auto Accident

German Heavyweight Last Fall Suffered Injury In Auto Accident

Is Scheduled To Fight Jim Maloney In Berlin In March; Will Soon Come To Amer.

BY DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Max Schmeling has not been back fighting in America because he has been unable to fight anywhere, owing to severe injuries sustained in an automobile accident, the writer was informed today by a man whose authority to make statements of this kind cannot be questioned. Schmeling, he says, had been in bed for weeks only a short time ago. The nature of his injury being defined as "tendo-synovitis," which in laymen's English is said to mean inflammation of the tendon. The inflamed area, it seems, is in one of Schmeling's ankles.

It is said that it wasn't until recently that he was able to get about unaided.

To Meet Maloney
The accident occurred early in the fall and so painful was the injury, that Schmeling not only has been prevented from doing any serious training since leaving America but the sponsor for this story traces the successive postponements of his promised return to this source. Schmeling, he said, would have been back in America long ago had he been physically able to do so.

Serious doubt thus is cast upon the German's ability to go through with his proposed fight with Jimmy Maloney in Berlin some time in March. Great care, it is said, must be exercised against a recurrence of the trouble, which is represented as being not only painful but reluctant of cure and often chronic. Schmeling is scheduled to return to America in April to begin training for his world's heavyweight championship fight with the Sharkey-Scott winner at the Yankee Stadium on June 26.

Wrenches Ankle
One of his last public showings in Germany, it appears, was in October. On this occasion, he was scheduled to be introduced from the ring at one of the big fights over there and it was said that he hobbled into view, using a cane. In descending the steps after the introduction, I am informed that he slipped, badly wrenching the injured ankle; also that he thereupon retired again to his bed and did not arise for weeks.

At the time, the writer was shown a cablegram from Schmeling to his step-manager, Joe Jacobs. The German referred to the injury but made no mention of the cause.

New Castle To Have Night Track Carnival

Meet To Be First In United States

William H. Haddock President Of A. A. U. To Be Official Of Meet

By CHARLES LANDOLF
New Castle again leads the realm of sport. This time Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner of the senior high school informs the writer that on Friday evening, May 23, a Night Relay, Track and Field carnival will be held at Taggart Field which was formerly Franklin Field. The date is tentative according to Faculty Manager Gardner, but it will be the first time in the history of the United States that a track and field meet has been held out in the open air under the floodlights. The meet as planned, will find close to 100 schools from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, competing, for honors.

It Was This Way
The idea of holding such an affair was a clever one on the part of Mr. Gardner who thinks that it will be very successful in every way. After the lights were installed for night football which was first started here in this section of Pennsylvania, Mr. Gardner was able to see that it plans could be worked out right, a night track and field meet could be held. He presented the idea and a date was set.

Today Mr. Gardner commenced sending invitations to over 100 schools. Some have been already reached by telephone and have accepted the invitations. Washington High, the winner of the triangular meet held here last summer has accepted the invitation. Wilkinsburg also has agreed to come. Faculty Manager Gardner stated today that he may invite several junior high schools from other cities along with the junior high schools of this city. He intends to hold special events for the lower grade schools.

A. A. U. Man To Officiate

of Allegheny county and for years president of the Mountain Division of the A. A. U. wired Gardner stating that he has accepted the invitation to act as chief official of the meet. Mr. Haddock is recognized as one of the leading men of the A. A. U. and is probably without a peer as a referee for a track and field meet. Through his standing in the organization Mr. Haddock was able to secure the National Championship track meet which will be held at the Pitt Stadium this summer. The best athletes in the world will be seen at the Pitt meet.

The clerk of course will be Joseph Wagman who will be Mr. Haddock's assistant. The starter will be Elmer Layden, head coach of football at Duquesne University who has agreed to come here to help to make the meet successful.

The meet will consist of track and field events. The only field events which will be eliminated will be the shot put, javelin throw, and the discus throw. The other events will be carried out in rapid order so that the large crowd which is expected to attend the first meet of this kind will not get tired waiting.

Local High Girls Play Wilkinsburg Team In Preliminary

By CHARLES LANDOLF

Want to kill two birds with one stone? Then just go to the Senior high school basketball palace this evening and you will have your basketball taste appeased, when you see two games. In the preliminary game of the evening the New Castle high maidens will tangle with the Wilkinsburg high school team at 7:15. In the main affair the New Castle high school passers will be after their 10th victory of the season, when they battle the highly touted Mars high quintet. This game will start at 8:15.

Mars is coming here with a well-balanced team and should put up a stubborn battle. In this last meeting between New Castle and Mars the final score favored the league leaders by one point, 19-18. The game was so close and tight that it was won in the final 40 seconds of play. This should give you an idea of what kind of a team Mars has. The team lost to Evans City Tuesday night in a rather close engagement. Evans

City was returned the winner in the final minute. The score was 16-14. New Castle is playing a team with plenty of fight and a team that doesn't know when they are licked. A fast game is anticipated. Coach Phil Brudenbaugh, following a rest he issued his cohorts on Wednesday night, sent the passers through a drill that put the boys in tip-top shape for the conflict.

Following is the probable line-up in the boys' game:

New Castle Mars

Hannou F. A. DeMott

Wario F. J. DeMott

Alexander C. Campbell

Uram G. E. Weinstein

McAuley G. Purvis

White Hoyt may pitch for Detroit.

At least, that's the report.

The London naval conference could prevent wars by just naming the war tubes after some of our leading heavyweights.

John McGraw has had so many pictures taken of himself at the Havana race track that the background is beginning to look like the Polo Grounds.

An eastern ice star hops over 13 barrels and makes page one. What's become of the old guy who used to drink their way through that many?

The gridlock punch their stalwart foes. And hockey's played with slugs. The diamond is the scene of blows. But peace reigns twist the pugs.

Another thing that bothers many sport page readers is whether squash tennis is a game or a vegetable.

"Billy" Hicks To The Fore

Helen (Billie) Hicks
SENSATIONAL YOUNG GOLF STAR OF HEWLETT, I. I. WHO DEFENDS HER BERMUDA AMATEUR TITLE FEB. 4TH TO 8TH

Next week, the Bermuda ladies' championship again will bring Miss Helen ("Billy") Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., to the fore in defense of that title which she won last year when making her debut then as a golfer of national fame. Later in 1929, Miss Hicks won the Canadian women's championship and played such a remarkable game throughout the year that she is now rated as one of Champion Glenna Collett's most formidable rivals.

The distinguishing characteristic of "Billy" Hicks' play thus far is great power off the tee. The small but abnormally built girl perhaps is the most consistently powerful driver known to women's golf.

Her short game is improving steadily, so much so that another year and a half of competitive experience, such as she underwent since winning that Bermuda crown, should put the chic and churched smiling "Billy" right in line for the American championship.

The rise of Miss Hicks as a links star parallels that of young Horton Smith among the male masters of that game. A little more than a year ago when Bermuda cables were tickling off tales of "Billy's" first big triumph, telegrams from the West were reporting the arrival of a new luminary in the form of a good looking stripling from the Ozarks who was igniting course after course with scores that made it seem as though Bobby Jones were playing under the name of Horton Smith.

From that time on, this Long Island girl and that Joplin, Mo., pro have been the most prominent of all the new golf stars.

Miss Hicks will defend her Bermuda championship next Tuesday, through Saturday, on the delightful Fiddell's Bay Golf and Country Club course. Among the experts to compete with her are Miss Ada Mackenzie, former Canadian champion whom Billy defeated in the Bermuda final last year; Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., runner-up to Miss Hicks for the 1929 Canadian title; Miss Louise M. Edwards, of Youngstown, Ohio; Miss Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., and practically all the rest of the outstanding feminine links talent now wintering at Bermuda.

Miss Hicks has been practicing for weeks on the Bermuda courses as assiduously as Bobby Jones ever planned by and for a woman player this year. Her twinkling eyes must see Glenna Collett's title in the offing, and beyond that world honors so capably held by Miss Joyce Wethered, of England.

STARS OF YESTERDAY

BY AL WINFIELD

The greatest board of strategy a baseball manager was ever blessed with aided Ned Hanlon in creating the splendid triumphs of the Baltimore Orioles during the gay nineties. Reading from left to right, Hanlon had in his think department the following bright lights: John J. McGraw, the late Hugh Jennings, Uncle Wilbert Robinson, Jack Doyle and Wee Willie Keeler.

These men constituted a brilliant group of quick thinkers, aggressive, alert, constantly outguessing the enemy. As a result, the Orioles took three titles and were barely nosed out in the battle for two more.

When Hanlon came to Baltimore from Pittsburgh in 1892 he found a sorry looking outfit. However, in two years Hanlon had built an aggregation of alert players, splendidly coached, who won the 1894 National League pennant and put an end to the regime of Frank Selee's Bostonians.

Perkins in 1895 and 1896 also went to Baltimore.

Not only smart thinkers, but also fine players were Hanlon's coaching aides. McGraw held down third in capable fashion and was a .300 hitter. Hugh Jennings was one of the hardest hitting shortstops the game has ever seen, macing the bat for .307 in 1895. Robinson, then a catcher, made a record of seven hits in seven times at bat in a game, and Keeler's "I hit 'em where they ain't" was an exact science as well as a slogan.

A board of strategy like that would be worth a million to any manager today.

At the same time, I happen to know that when the Tunneys visited Berlin a few months ago Schmeling sent flowers to Mrs. Tunney and was duly thanked and invited to call. He said he would, but didn't, because he couldn't. The reason he couldn't and didn't, I am told, is that gentlemen almost never call upon society ladies on a stretcher.

This, anyhow, is the way the story comes to me and, considering the probability of the man who sponsors it, and the fact that Schmeling has dis-

Mother Surprised

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—Frau Schmeling, mother of Max, the Germany Dempsey, took occasion today to make little of reports from the United States that her husky offspring was in no condition to fight because of the after-effects of an injury to an ankle suffered last year.

"He just finished filming 'Love in the Ring', a light picture in which he knocked out the Portuguese heavyweight Jose Santa only a few days ago," she said. "I don't understand why he shouldn't be in condition."

American correspondents anxious to get a first hand view of the ankle in question couldn't find Herr Maxie. He was out of town.

Minnesota Plans Athletic Revision

Bernie Bierman, Tulane Coach Slated To Succeed Clarence Spears As Grid Coach

International News Service. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 31.—University of Minnesota's new plan of choosing a board of four experts to investigate sports conditions and to map a reorganization of the school's athletic system was given to the public today.

President L. D. Coffman announced the plan, naming a committee consisting of Maj. John L. Griffith of the Western Conference; C. W. Savage of Oberlin College; Grantland Rice, New York sports writer, as a representative of the public; and President H. M. Gage of Coe College who is president of the North Central Association of Colleges.

The committee will arrive here within a week and began work according to Coffman's plan.

Described as a "constructive and forward-looking program," the plan is to extend to a period of ten years. Every phase of the college athletic system is to be investigated by the group, from personnel in the athletic department to methods of conducting college competition with the view toward bringing about a complete change in the athletic system here.

Bernie Bierman, now at Tulane in New Orleans, is reported to be the favored one to succeed Dr. Clarence Spears, football coach who resigned to accept a similar position at the University of Oregon. Officials would neither affirm or deny the reported selection.

Four Games In Church League

Four games are on tap tonight in the New Castle Church basketball league. The first game starts at 8 o'clock.

Saturday night two more games are carded as follows: First Baptists vs. Central Christians, and the Epworth M. E. and St. John's Lutheran game. In the City League for Saturday night the "Y" Seniors and Boosters will tangle. The games Saturday will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Industrial Stocks In Brisk Upward Move

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Most of the active industrial stocks were able this morning to continue the brisk upward movement which closed yesterday's 3,500,000-share session. The bulls pressed their advantage in all stocks in which the short interests had been securely boxed up, aided by an increase in outside speculative buying of the popular shares.

As an evidence of the early tone in the money market, call money renewals were posted at 4 per cent and bankers acceptances reduced 1/4 of 1 per cent. Prices in the cotton market slumped off to slightly lower levels in the early trading.

Westinghouse replaced General Electric as the spectacular leader of the forward move in the electrical manufacturing stocks and spurred 5 points to 162 1/2 in the first period. American and Foreign Power pushed ahead 3 1/2 points to 95 in the lead of the speculative utilities.

International Tel. and Tel. jumped 3 1/2 points to 66 1/2 when announcement was made that the new $50,000,000 bond issue would contain no convertible provisions or stock-purchasing warrants. General Motors led the motor stocks into higher territory, with a new rise of 1 1/4 to 43. New York Central was a favorite in the rails and sold up 1 1/2 to 11 1/2.

Buying activity increased in all sections of the market in the second hour. After absorbing profit taking the market was ready to swing into its upward stride, propelled by enthusiastic buying of the utilities and specialties. North American jumped about 5 points to 103 1/4; American and Foreign Power was up 4 at 95 1/4; Public Service of New Jersey up 2 1/4 at 90 1/4; Columbia Gas up 3 1/4 at 84 1/4; Montgomery Ward declined a point or so, but returned in spirited style to 48.

The oil stocks were the principal laggards, though few of the important stocks in this group lost ground. Until relief from over-production of gas line is provided by the leading refineries, the oil stocks will not share in the upward swing, according to the best advice in Wall Street. Call money 4 per cent.

Buying activity increased in all sections of the market in the second hour. After absorbing profit taking the market was ready to swing into its upward stride, propelled by enthusiastic buying of the utilities and specialties.

North American jumped about 5 points to 103 1/2; American and Foreign Power was up 4 at 85 1/2; Public Service of New Jersey up 2 1/2 at 90 1/2; Columbia Gas up 3 1/4 at 84 1/2; Montgomery Ward declined a point or two, but returned in spirited style to 48.

The oil stocks were the principal laggards, though few of the important stocks in this group lost ground. Until relief from over-production of gas line is provided by the leading oil companies, the oil stocks will not share in the upward swing, according to the best advice in Wall Street.

Croton School Band Makes Good Progress

One of the finest displays of band work, will be found in Croton Public school. The band includes one girl and twenty-one boys who deserve much credit, who, with the splendid supervision of their instructor, Miss Anne S. Thomas, who has much talent and the knack of teaching children with the patience that is necessary to accomplish noteworthy results, and their principal, Mr. W. A.
Hoffmaster, are to be complimented upon the work of this group of young people.

Mr. Hoffmaster who is a very busy man, is always on the scene at rehearsals every Wednesday night from 7 to 8 o'clock, which has been a rule faithfully kept and fulfilled since Miss Thomas's acceptance of the position as music teacher of that school.
Mr. Hoffmaster, taking a keen interest in these children, always sits in with them, at rehearsals, which has a tendency to keep them on the up-and-up in this part of their school life.

Mr. Replogle, the Supervisor of Instrumental Music, visited the school and paid them the compliment that their band was as good as many of the Junior High bands, which is indeed something to boast of.

This group is quite enthusiastic about the work and the future looks promising. There are a number who do not have instruments, and cannot afford them at present, who cannot attend each practice to listen and look on with the others, and are also deserving recognition. The band which is equipped with good material, will suffer the loss of four players, when they leave for Junior High school this Friday. These boys have been in this band ranging from 1 to 3 years, which has given them an excellent start for the upper grades.

Just for friendly-rivalry these young folks are going to work extra hard to prepare themselves to sit in some evening with the Mahoningtown band, and see what each can really do. Ma-honingtown band also has a reputation for excellence.

Those who comprise the band, are:
Cornets, Miss Billie Ruth Glenn,
Frank Crisci, Paul Schetrom, John Tonsch, John Davies, Robert Keck, Andy Prioletti and Frances Bondi; Baritone, Louie Angelo, Stephen
Klecker, Orlando Stone and Rus-

Nathan Straus Is 82 Years Old Today

Famous Philanthropist Happy To Have Lived To See Universal Peace Started

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Nathan Straus, philanthropist and Zionist leader, today celebrated his eighty-second birthday.

"I am happy to have lived to see the practical beginnings of universal peace," Straus said.

"The London conference for limitation and reduction of armaments is the most significant and vital move in the direction of everlasting peace, I fervently pray that it will yield the results which all right thinking humanity is hoping for."

"I am particularly happy that America has taken the moral leadership in this question which directly affects the welfare of this generation and of the future of mankind."

British mandate over Palestine, given by the League of Nations, and approved by the American congress, are regarded both by the Jews and by the British as sacred pledges to be fulfilled," said Straus.

Co-Ed's Figures Are Better Than Venus

Carnegie Tech Girls Need Make No Apologies, 'Tis Found

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 31.—Venus Di Milo was quite a figure in her day, judging from the reputation which has survived her in the way her "perfect 36" has influenced on styles—and hopes of women who would be admired for their figures and their carriage.

But, according to Uncle Sam, Carnegie Institute of Technology co-eds need make no apology to Venus; the co-eds, in fact, have the edge.

It all comes about through the recent announcement from the United States Bureau of Standards that 34 and not 36 is the much desired measurement for a woman's waist.

Then came the measuring of several Tech co-eds selected at random and seven out of ten of them came thru the test with flying colors. One of them, in fact, Miss Eugenia Tucker, a sophomore, who came to Tech from Yonkers, N. Y., rated 100 per cent, according to Uncle Sam's idea of what size should a girl be. Miss Tucker not only measured 34 at the waist, but with a 27 at the hips registered what the bureau of standards sets as perfect.

"If the girls erred at all in their measurements, it was on the score of a too slender waist," Miss Bess Schrader of the drama school at the institute said.

The Woman's Club - Organized in 1887.

"GOD COULDN'T BE EVERYWHERE, SO HE MADE MOTHERS."

In this proverb, even the pagan recognizes in the mother, a God appointed guardian of the race.

Our own city knows no greater need than just such guardianship or mothering—for our homes, for our schools, for our recreations and for our public housekeeping. To aid such work is the aim of this column.

WOMEN AND PEACE

Contributed

"Every nation cannot be the strongest nation; and failure to keep up in a race in armaments leads to fear, hatred, military alliances, and ultimately war. This is not theory; it is history. Increasing armaments mean actually increasing the general sense of insecurity. Security must be sought by the nations jointly. Unless all are secure, none can be."

From this statement of Frederick J. Libby who will be the speaker on Monday's guest day program of the Woman's Club, may be gathered his view point.

Never before in the history of the world has there been such a concentration of men's and women's interests in behalf of the establishment of peace. The Kellogg-Briand treaty which renounces war as an instrument of national policy, the conference of the five great powers which seeks to reduce armaments and yet insure security are outstanding attempts to implement peace.

It has been said that to the women falls much of the responsibility of ending war. Since the beginning woman's part in war has been to tremble, to fear, to assent to force herself, to hate and in the end to mourn, to suffer, to rebuild and to forget if she can.

But American women will not forget. For them our dead have not died in vain. They who experienced and lived thro' the war must teach their children and generations to come the horror of war. It must be done in this generation or it will be too late.

Women everywhere are banding themselves together in the interests of a resolute, deliberate attempt to stimulate education for peace so that an informed intelligent opinion may back up official government action.

Britain To Abolish Old McKenna Duties

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 31. — Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has definitely decided to abolish many of the McKenna Duties on imported foreign goods when he introduces his budget next April.

Import duties on the following imported goods are likely to be abolished:

Lace and embroidery as from July 1.
Cutlery as from December 22.
Leather and fabric gloves as from December 22.
Gas mantles as from December 22.

Snowden also favors abolition of import duties on gramophones, pianos, clocks, and watches, automobile tires, and, these also will be given effect in the coming budget.

Despite his Free Trade policy, however, the chancellor is unlikely to bring himself to do away with the silk duties this year. These bring him in a tidy little sum of $30,000,000 and he cannot afford to lose this.

The fate of automobiles hangs in the balance. Snowden would like to see removed the 33 per cent duty on these, but here again it is difficult to see how he can dispense with the revenue gained.

The uncertainty regarding many of his plans has been causing much disturbance to industry in Britain for months past, and, in regard to the proposed free import of foreign automobiles, the British manufacturers may find the majority of the present cabinet on their side.

Spanish War Vets Support School

Commander - In - Chief Sends Commendation To Local Post

A communication has been received by the Daniel Leasure camp, United Spanish War Veterans, from Governor Fred W. Green of Michigan, commander-in-chief of the U. S. W. V., commending the local camp on their activities in connection with the Americanization of foreign born citizens, especially their recent support of the Americanization school conducted by the school district of the City of New Castle.

The Americanization school here is conducted in the Lincoln and Garfield building under the direction of Principal James Hughes. Members of the Post visit the school regularly, offering encouragement to its students.

The Los Angeles Times says the Klan has moved its headquarters back to Georgia, where its headquarters have always been. "Its chief end now seems to be to provide nightshirts for patriots who otherwise would go to bed raw."

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A wife married seven years and with four little children writes me from Iowa that I don't know what I'm talking about when I say that crying women become very tiresome.
Her husband cut out the article and gave it to her, "and it just suited his vanity," she tells me.

She says she cries, but not all the time. She nags, as he says she does, but not all the time. She scolds about the other woman, and "the other woman holds her own husband and mine too by doing as you say, smiling all the time."

You poor dear! I know how you feel, and I know it isn't easy to smile with four little children to care for and a husband who has a woman for a business partner. Especially one who smiles all the time.

But I honestly believe, after re-reading your letter, that you haven't any evidence that he cares for the other woman. It isn't at all likely that she could hold her husband and her own, too, or that her husband would permit her to continue a business relationship if she were having an affair with her husband.

What I fear is that the little green god jealousy has you in his grip and you must shake yourself free.
If you don't you will have trouble, and with a lovely family and all that willingness to do what is right, it would be a shame. You sound like a fine woman, a little over-tired perhaps with so many cares, and trying hard to hold your husband.

No, I don't blame you if you have a little cry, but don't let him see you crying.

You said he stopped drinking for you. Then he must love you, and he must love those little children. He doesn't sound like a bad fellow in your description of him. The trouble is, you yourself admire the other woman and you imagine when you are tired and feeling a bit low that he likes her more than he does.

Of course love never thrives on scoldings and if you want to hold him, you must stop criticizing continually. If you don't want him to see the other woman, say so, but use judgment. Don't break up a good business by an unwarranted jealousy.
It would stop the family income,
wouldn't it?

You say the woman visits you? Do be careful, my dear, and be sure you are right. You say you flattered your husband and said only nice things and you were very happy.
What made you stop doing that?

I still say don't cry, when a tired business man comes home or he will look for excuses to get away. Men are afraid of crying women and they have no taste for them. They can't understand that women simply have to cry now and then, so it is best to bury your head in the pillow when you do it.

Former Oil City Girl Swimmer Has Set New Record

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31.—Eleanor Holm of the Women's Swimming association of New York, a former resident of Homestead and Oil City, Pa., today had broken the record for the 220-yard back stroke event.

Swimming against Mae Cutnell of the Carnegie Library club here last night at the Keystone A. C. club, Miss Holm did the 220 in three minutes and three-fifths seconds. The present record is three minutes and three-fifths seconds.

Before Miss Holm's achievement is recognized as official it must be certified by the Amateur Athletic Union of

"I am particularly happy that the practical beginnings of universal peace," Straus said.

"The London conference for limitation and reduction of armaments is the most significant and vital move in the direction of everlasting peace. I fervently pray that it will yield the results which all right thinking humanity is hoping for."

"I am particularly happy that America has taken the moral leadership in this question which directly affects the welfare of this generation and of the future of mankind."

In connection with the Palestine movement, Straus expressed his faith in ultimate peace and prosperity in Palestine.

The Balfour declaration and the British mandate over Palestine, given by the League of Nations, and approved by the American congress are regarded both by the Jews and by the British as sacred pledges to be fulfilled," said Straus.

"I know such great British statesmen as Lord Balfour, General Smuts, Prime Minister MacDonald and Lloyd George mean to live up to the promises made by Great Britain and other nations to the Jewish people during and after the world war."

Co-Ed's Figures Are Better Than Venus

Carnegie Tech Girls Need Make No Apologies, 'Tis Found

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 31.—Venus De Milo was quite a figure in her day, judging from the reputation which has survived her in the way her "perfect 36" has influenced on styles—and hopes of women who would be admired for their figures and their carriage.

But, according to Uncle Sam, Carnegie Institute of Technology co-eds need make no apology to Venus; the co-eds, in fact, have the edge.

If all comes about through the recent announcement from the United States Bureau of Standards that 34 and not 36 is the much desired measurement for a woman's waist.

Then came the measuring of several Tech co-eds selected at random and seven out of ten of them came thru the test with flying colors. One of them, in fact, Miss Eugenia Tucker, a sophomore, who came to Tech from Yonkers, N. Y., rated 100 per cent.

According to Uncle Sam's idea of what size should a girl be, Miss Tucker not only measured 34 at the waist, but with a 27 at the hips registered what the bureau of standards sets as perfect.

"If the girls erred at all in their measurements, it was on the score of a too slender waist," Miss Boss Schvader of the drama school at the institute said.

For them our dead have not died in vain. They who experienced and lived thru the war must teach their children and generations to come the horror of war. It must be

In this proverb, even the pagan recognizes in the mother, a God appointed guardian of the race.

Our own city knows no greater need than just such guardianship or mothering—for our homes, for our schools, for our recreations and for our public housekeeping. To aid such work is the aim of this column.

WOMEN AND PEACE

"Every nation cannot be the strongest nation; and failure to keep up in a race in armaments leads to fear, hatred, military alliances, and ultimately war. This is not theory; it is history. Increasing armaments mean actually increasing the general sense of insecurity. Security must be sought by the nations jointly. Unless all are secure, none can be."

From this statement of Frederick J. Libby who will be the speaker on Monday's guest day program of the Woman's Club, may be gathered his view point.

Never before in the history of the world has there been such a concentration of men's and women's interests in behalf of the establishment of peace.

The Kellogg-Briand treaty which renounces war as an instrument of national policy, the conference of the five great powers which seeks to reduce armaments and yet insure security are outstanding attempts to implement peace.

It has been said that to the women falls much of the responsibility of ending war. Since the beginning woman's part in war has been to tremble, to fear, to assent to force herself, to hate and in the end to mourn, to suffer, to rebuild and to forget if she can.

But American women will not forget. For them our dead have not died in vain. They who experienced and lived thru the war must teach their children and generations to come the horror of war. It must be done in this generation or it will be too late.

Women everywhere are banding themselves together in the interests of a resolute, deliberate attempt to stimulate education for peace so that an informed intelligent opinion may back up official government action.

and, these also will be given effect in the coming budget.

Despite his Free Trade policy, however, the chancellor is unlikely to bring himself to do away with the silk duties this year. These bring him in a tidy little sum of $30,000,000 and he cannot afford to lose this.

The late of automobiles hangs in the balance. Snowden would like to see removed the 35 per cent duty on these, but here again it is difficult to see how he can dispense with the revenue gained.

The uncertainty regarding many of his plans has been causing much disturbance to industry in Britain for months past, and in regard to the proposed free import of foreign automobiles, the British manufacturers may find the majority of the present cabinet on their side.

The Americanization school here is conducted in the Lincoln and Garfield building under the direction of Principal James Hughes. Members of the Post visit the school regularly, offering encouragement to its students.

The Los Angeles Times says the Klan has moved its headquarters back to Georgia, where its headquarters have always been. "Its chief end now seems to be to provide nightshirts for patriots who otherwise would go to bed raw."

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A wife married seven years and love you must stop criticizing continually. If you don't want him to see the other woman, say so, but use judgment. Don't break up a good crying woman become very tiresome. Her husband cut out the article and gave it to her, and it just suited his vanity," she tells me.

She says she cries, but not all the time. She says, as he says she does, but not all the time. She says she is about the other woman and "the other woman holds her own husband and mine too by doing as you say smiling all the time."

You poor dear! I know how you feel, and I know it isn't easy to smile with four little children to care for and a husband who has a woman for a business partner. Especially one who smiles all the time.

But I honestly believe, after reading your letter, that you haven't any evidence that he cares for the other woman. It isn't at all likely that she could hold your husband and her own too, or that her husband would permit her to continue a business relationship if she were having an affair with your husband.

What I fear is that the little green god Jealousy has you in its grip and you must shake yourself free. No, I don't blame you if you have a little cry, but don't let him see you crying.

You said he stopped drinking for you. Then he must love you, and he must love those little children. He doesn't sound like a bad fellow in your description of him. The trouble is, you yourself admit the other woman and you imagine when you are tired and feeling a bit low that he likes her more than he does.
